TWELVE BRITISH WARSHIPS BEING REPAIRED IN U. S.

Gag on Newspapers Relaxed by Navy.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—Moving to bring the European war closer home to Americans, Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox today broke the unauthorized censorship which he imposed nearly six months ago on news of the movement of British vessels in American waters. He disclosed that at least a dozen of his majesty's warships are in American ports and shipyards undergoing repairs.

Simultaneously, Knox also indicated that there will be similar reports in the future of other British vessels arriving at these shores for overhauling. He issued a new set of regulations covering release and publication of such information.

Today's announcement, it was revealed, had the blessing of British officials with whom the navy publicity chiefs collaborated in the drafting of the new secrecy regulations.

Action Favored by British.

According to reliable sources, the Britishers favored the partial lifting of the Knox censorship to acquaint their people at home, who are clamoring for United States intervention in the conflict, with the extent of American assistance under the lease-lend program. It is reported that both the Britishers and the New Dealers agreed publication of a few facts on the repair of the British warships would be a distinct aid to the propaganda campaign thru which attempts are being made to arouse the American people to war.

Secretary Knox now has decreed it will be permissible for newspapers and other publications to publish limited information about the British warcraft which he named.

It was indicated there are other British ships in American ports, in addition to those mentioned in the navy announcement, but their identities still are being withheld.

These Warships Listed.

Battleship — Warspite, Bremerton, Wash.

Aircraft carriers—Illustrious and Formidable, Norfolk, Va.

Cruisers—Delhi, Brooklyn; Liverpool, Mare Island; Asturias, described as a converted cruiser, Newport News, Va.; Dido, Brooklyn, and Orion, Mare Island.

Submarine — Pandora, Portsmouth, N. H.

Corvettes—Nasturtium and Primrose, both at Charleston, S. C.

Coastal mine sweeper—Menestheus, Baltimore, Md.

Report Follows Parleys.

Disclosure of official information about the 12 followed several weeks of consultation with British authorities, it was said.

It was "mutually agreed," the secretary of the navy added, that demands of security can be fulfilled and a "reasonable degree of information released to the public" if each ship is considered individually and all releases are subject to specific restrictions.

The new censorship regulations to govern news of vessels arriving for overhauling under the terms of the so-called lease-lend program follow:

1. Mention of a ship's presence in any port will be withheld until that information is released by the navy department and in no case will the release be made until seven days after arrival.

Bar All Speculation.

2. Nothing shall be published which might indicate the probable length of stay and "in particular no mention or speculation as to date of departure or future movements."

3. Any damage a ship may have received shall not be disclosed.

4. No mention of movements in the immediate past, such as the route taken on passage to the United States, shall be made.

5. Information as to methods used in any operation in which the ship may have been engaged shall not be published.

6. In general no information will be disclosed which might be of value to the enemy.

The idea of modifying the censorship regulations originated with the navy, according to Arthur J. Hepburn, chief of the navy bureau of public relations. He emphasized that the voluntary censorship continues in movements of United States naval craft.

NAZIS DRIVE FOR KHARKOV; CLAIM CAPTURE OF KIEV

Close on the heels of the German announcement of the capture of Kiev, Russia's third largest city, Moscow declared that its armies were fighting desperately to stop the Nazi advance thru the Ukraine. The Reds admitted their troops were hard pressed at the ancient Ukrainian capital which has been under assault since early in July.

The Germans said they had seized Poltava, a railway city, 200 miles east of Kiev, and were advancing toward Kharkov, 80 miles beyond in the heart of the industrial Donetz basin.

In a chain of bulletins, the Nazis said that the swastika was flying from Kiev's ancient towers, that four soviet armies had been encircled 125 miles east of the city, and that the total German casualties to the end of August were 402,965 men against Russian losses of more than 3,600,000 men.

FOUR OF DEATHS OCCUR DURING BIG MANEUVERS

Three Escape Injury in Crackups.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Aerial disaster overtook eight army planes in three states yesterday, leaving eight men dead and one severely hurt. Three pilots escaped injury.

A three way collision of planes participating in the second-third army maneuvers in Louisiana killed Second Lieutenants R. H. Keith of Durham, N. C., and Leland A. Vair of Dunlap, Kas. Lieut. W. K. Long, Glenn's Falls, N. Y., brought his plane down safely after it brushed the other two.

[A story on the maneuvers is on page 7.]

Two Die in Take-Off Crash.

Crash of a BT-14 trainer immediately after a take-off from the Parksley, Va., airport killed Second Lieutenants Carlyle C. Hoch, Newark, N. J., and Angus J. MacDonald, Los Angeles, both based at Langley Field, Va.

At Fort Worth, Tex., J. C. Foster, 22 year old civilian instructor, and Flying Cadet Ronald S. Bierer, 21, Brooklyn, N. Y., were killed while practicing aerobatics. Witnesses said a wing came off the craft as it went into a sudden plunge while describing a loop.

Two Burned to Death.

First Lieutenant Walter H. Boyd, Long Beach, Cal., and Corporal Artie M. Howard, Salyersville, Ky., burned to death and Lieut. Raymond H. Baldwin, Evansville, Ind., was seriously burned in a crash near the Marshall, Tex., Municipal airport. All were members of the 12th Observation squadron from Fort Knox, Ky., and were based at Marshall for the southern maneuvers. Their craft overshot the field in an attempted landing, struck a tree, crashed into a creek, and caught fire.

Lieutenants Verne V. Faulkner, Eugene, Ore., and Neil Lamont, New Orleans, flying instructors at Goodfellow field, San Angelo, Tex., landed their planes safely after a minor collision in the air while flying in a three plane formation.

Soldier Dies in Cycle Crash.

Alexandria, La., Sept. 19 [Special].—Private LeRoy Birdsell, 20 years old, of Beardstown, Ill., was killed yesterday in a motorcycle accident north of Alexandria during army maneuvers. He was a member of Troop F, 106th cavalry. Corporal John Labarbar, 21, of Springfield, Ill., was slightly injured in the crash. Birdsell's death was the sixth in the regiment since it came south.

LA GUARDIA OUT OF CIVIL DEFENSE JAN. 20, REPORT

Richmond, Va., Sept. 20 [Saturday] (AP).—The Times-Dispatch today said reports "from authoritative sources in Washington" stated that Gov. James H. Price of Virginia would be appointed director of the Office of Civil Defense to succeed Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia of New York.

Virginia's governor, according to informants usually reliable, would take over the job of directing the national civilian defense preparations at the end of his gubernatorial term Jan. 20.

Over the telephone from Lansing, Mich., Gov. Price said, "The matter never has been brought to my attention officially," adding that he had "no official information" on it.

Cannot Invade Europe, British War Chief Says

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 19.—Capt. David Margesson, war minister, in a signed article in this evening's Star, answers what a recent poll showed to be the paramount question in the minds of the British public, viz.: Why does not Britain take the advantage offered by the Russian war and invade Europe?

Capt. David Margesson

Margesson not only rejects such an operation as tactically impossible at the present time, but says:

"Hitler has more than one grand army. He has left enough to strike in the west if we are off our guard."

Warns of Nazi Reserves.

In other words, he points out that in spite of the employment of the German war machine against Russia in what is admitted to be the greatest war of all time Germany still has enough reserves ready at any moment to start another drive on the western front, including an attempt at invasion.

"I want everybody to realize that anybody who sits on Cape Gris Nez [France] is 7 minutes by air and half an hour by sea from England," Margesson warns. "There still are a lot of Germans sitting around Cape Gris Nez.

"What is even less generally appreciated is that Hitler, even if finally baffled in Russia, would not need much time to bring his bombers to the west—nor to bring many divisions to reënforce those which never have left the west.

Invasion Possibility Cited.

"Therefore the chance of an invasion at short notice always is there. We can only neglect it at our peril."

Margesson refers to Bismarck's remark that he knew of a dozen ways of getting an army into Britain, adding:

"Each of these dozen ways, with air roads besides, doubtless is known to Hitler and his staff. But Bismarck said that he knew of no way of getting the army out again."

Margesson points out that if an attack ever is made on England the British could not afford to "yield an inch," as the country has "no spare room to play with" and "foot by foot we should have to fight it out."

Commenting on Margesson's article, the News Chronicle ridicules the theory that Britain is in danger of invasion now, saying:

"Does anybody in the war cabinet seriously imagine that Germany will attempt to invade Britain while the reichswehr is extended in Russia?"

Listing the odds against invasion, the News Chronicle claims that Britain in the west has "an undoubted superiority" in the air, both in fighting planes and bombers, "a staggering superiority" on the sea, and "even on the land can muster more well trained and fully equipped men for defense than the Germans, with the police obligations in occupied France, Belgium, and Holland, could throw into an attack."

PUT END TO DEBATE, GET READY FOR WAR, U. S. OFFICIAL URGES

Jackson, Mich., Sept. 19 [Special.]—The American people must put aside abstract debates over nonintervention versus intervention and face the realistic fact that we are preparing for war with Germany, John J. McCloy, assistant secretary of war, told the Michigan State Bar association here today. McCloy, one of the interventionists brought into the war office by Secretary Stimson, ridiculed the viewpoint that the present conflict is no concern of the United States.

"We can no more ignore this war than a man can ignore an elephant in his parlor," McCloy said. "Whether we should take part in this struggle strikes me as about as realistic a debate as the medieval dispute over toward which equidistant bale of hay a starving donkey should move.

"It is no accident that Germany in one generation finds herself engaged in two world wars. In spite of all protestations to the contrary, the world feels an urge on the part of Germany toward complete domination, and it is because of this that wars instituted by Germany have a disconcerting way of becoming world wars."

McCloy declared the American people want modern weapons and "would tear apart any government which failed to meet that demand.

Hat Tosser Performs Quite a Feat; in Fact, 127 Feet

Maryville, Mo., Sept. 19 [Special].—When it comes to throwing away a straw hat at the end of the season people here doff their hats to the Rev. L. B. Day of Pickering, Mo. In a contest sponsored by clothiers, the Rev. Mr. Day tossed his hat 127 feet 7½ inches to beat the record of 105 feet he set two years ago.

Sun Spots Go on Radio, Give World Earful!

New York, Sept. 19 [Special].—Sun spots, whose antics in the cosmic realm produce such elevating spectacles as the northern lights, seen for the last two nights, added a couple of mundane and lowdown pranks to their répertoire today.

Radio station WAAT in Jersey City was broadcasting a musical program when a conversation between two men was suddenly introduced into the strains of a waltz. The gentlemen were conversing by telephone over a wire paralleling the radio station's line between the studio and its transmitter. The electrical disturbance caused by the spots "jumped" the conversation from one line to the other.

Better than "Blue Danube."

Radio listeners inferred both parties were talking from booths in smoking rooms. The first party said, "Say, did you hear the one about the fellow in the nut house who thought he was a dog?" The second party hadn't. The radio audience was beginning to think it was better than the "Blue Danube" when WAAT switched it off the air.

"Our charter to broadcast in the public convenience and necessity does not include anything like this," said Frank Bremer, station engineer.

WAAT resumed with a news broadcast—all about the fall of Kiev, price control, taxes and kindred weighty matters. The announcer was intoning as if his shirt were stuffed with the Congressional Record.

War News—and Rhumba.

"Bearish war news," he said, "had an adverse effect today—"

"—rhumbaed till 3 o'clock in the morning," the program continued smoothly. Listeners noted that the announcer's voice seemed to have changed. He appeared perfectly capable of singing soprano.

"And don't let Millie woof you," the voice hastened on. "He really is the most divine dancer. We had chop suey afterward and did Mr. Jones look critical at dictation this morning! Why you'd have thought I'd been out on a binge for days—the old thing!"

"Well, kid, let me tell you about my date—"

Deluge of Phone Calls.

This went on for some time. Station WAAT felt by now as if it were in the grip of circumstances beyond human control.

When it was all over, WAAT was deluged with telephone calls from men. Most of them had as their motif the query, "What's her telephone number?"

Goon Violence Flares in Rich Juke Box Field

Violence flared yesterday in the juke box [electric record player] industry, which has grown until it has a reported gross take of five million dollars annually in Chicago and suburban areas. Lionel Nathan, 26 years old, who entered the business of installing and servicing jukes only three weeks ago, was severely beaten by a goon in front of his home at 6747 Clyde avenue.

The terrorist fired a pistol at William Nathan, father of the victim, who ran toward the car in which the attacker and a driver were leaving the scene.

Struck Several Times.

Nathan was struck several times with a club. He was treated in a hospital and then told his story to the police. He and his partner, Albert Chapman, attributed the terrorism to "our competition."

They explained that until recently they had been employed, Nathan as general manager and Chapman as a service man, by the Universal Automatic Music corporation, headed by Joseph Peskin of 1506 East 67th street. Chapman is a member of Michael J. [Umbrella Mike] Boyle's local 134 of the Electricians' union, which services all jukes in the area; this requires the labor of 600 men.

"Nathan raised the capital, and we bought 200 music boxes," Chapman said. "Fifty were new ones, the others second year models. Nathan was popular with tavern owners and we got them all installed. It is true that we displaced about 70 boxes that Universal had put in."

Police Learn of Threat.

Lieut. Albert Anderson of the Woodlawn police said Chapman told him Peskin had threatened to "see that Nathan is out of business in a month." On this information Peskin was seized charged with disorderly conduct and released on bond. He denied making any threats or knowing about the assault.

There has been other outlawry in connection with the juke industry, including window smashing, but yesterday's was the first instance of terrorism like that employed by racketeer union chiefs against those who dispute their will. It was regarded by police as an indication that this industry, already a minor political football, is attracting the efforts of underworld characters who employ violence as a customary weapon.

The jukes are not new. In some form they have existed for 75 years. The modern type came into use about 10 years ago. They are sleek bits of machinery which play up to 20 records and often cost as much as $600. New models have swiftly caused older models to become obsolete, and it is estimated that at least 15 per cent of the 12,000 in Chicago and 8,000 more in Cook and surrounding counties are replaced each year.

Four Groups Have Interest.

Four groups have a financial interest in the welfare of the juke business—the manufacturers, the owners who buy and operate them in chains, the union service men, and the tavern and restaurant keepers who allow them to be installed.

The few manufacturers have a good business in replacements alone. It

DEMAND MOVIE UNION BOOKS TO TRACE MILLIONS

U. S. Wants Records for Grand Jury.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 19.—Federal authorities today demanded the books of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employés, headed by George E. Browne and his Hollywood representative, Willie Bioff, the former pander. The purpose is to find out what happens to 6 million dollars a year the union collects in special assessments.

George E. Browne.

Disclosure that the government is after the records came in federal court when Browne's attorney offered to argue that the theatrical union czar should not have to comply with the demand.

Served with a subpena last Tuesday, Browne was called upon to produce all books and records showing collections and disbursements of the assessment fund, it was revealed.

Browne, a member of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor, which is the highest body in the AFL, and Bioff are awaiting trial in New York on an anti-racketeering indictment. They are charged with extorting $550,000 from four movie companies on threat of calling a nation-wide strike. The case is set for trial on Oct. 6.

For General Investigation.

Assistant United States Attorney John Burling told Federal Judge John W. Holland that the government's demand the union give up the books for inspection by a special grand jury was not related to the extortion case, but was "a general investigation" of alleged racketeering in the motion picture industry.

According to Burling, the books cover a special 2 per cent assessment against the weekly wages of approximately 125,000 members of the union. On the basis of an estimated average weekly salary of $50, it was calculated by government investigators that the fund must amount to at least $6,000,000 annually.

Burling declared the purposes for which the huge fund was garnered were "rather vague." He added the fund was not carried on the regular books of the union and control of the money and records was vested in Browne as IATSE president.

Charges Money Unprotected.

The government prosecutor went on to say no annual statement of the fund is made, the regular union auditors do not audit the fund, and the money collected was not protected by any ordinary safeguard, such as inspection by the membership.

David Assche, appearing as Browne's counsel, maintained that the records demanded by the grand jury were of a private nature because they belonged equally to each member of the union and, therefore, could not be subpenaed. Burling retorted Browne had custody of the records as an official.

Burling cited Supreme court decisions upholding the right of federal grand juries to examine such records. Judge Holland, who is a visiting jurist from Florida, confessed that matters of this nature were not common in his district and postponed decision on Browne's motion to quash the subpena until Monday so he would have a chance to read up on the law over the week-end.

WEAR TROUSERS, OFFICIALS URGE BRITISH WOMEN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 20 [Saturday].—Metford Watkins, director of civilian clothing, has recommended that women in offices and shops wear trousers this winter in order to keep warm and healthy.

Eve Fayne, Daily Mail women's reporter, says this morning that Watkins will ask designers to prepare drawings of attractive costumes featuring trousers which he will submit to Prime Minister Winston Churchill for approval.

Watkins admitted that rationing would make it difficult for women to buy other kinds of clothing to keep warm. Most of their coupons, he said, would go for stockings unless the women wore trousers.

WELLS HOUSING PROJECT NOW IS ENTIRELY FILLED

It Pays No Taxes, So Rents Are $18 to $23.

BY HERMAN KOGAN.

All of the 1,662 apartments of the tax-free Ida B. Wells federal housing project, completed less than a year ago at a cost of 9 million dollars, are rented and occupied, it was announced yesterday by Oscar Brown, project manager. The population of Wellstown, as it is known by the south side's colored community, now stands at 7,000, the largest of the five governmental housing enterprises in the city.

On more than 2,219,054 square feet of land, bounded by Cottage Grove avenue, Pershing road, South Parkway and 37th street, stand the 124 buildings—row houses, garden apartments, and three and four story apartments—of the extensive project. Row houses consist of a line of individual dwelling units in a single long building, each "house" having access to the street.

Rent: $18 to $23.

Tenants, whose weekly incomes average about $15, pay monthly rents of from $18 to $23 for apartments of from 2 to 6½ rooms. None whose income is higher than $1,104 yearly or who has not lived in substandard dwellings is considered for tenancy.

Under the federal housing law, the project is not required to pay local taxes, thus depriving the city, according to Assessor John S. Clark, of $142,032 yearly which owners of private property covering an area similar in size pay. The city will receive only an annual $12,000 service fee in payment for police and fire protection, use of schools, and other civic services.

An oft repeated objection to this non-tax paying privilege is that the federal government is thus enabled to enter into competition, with overwhelming odds, against private builders who cannot compete with the low rentals in apartments of equal rank and that the additional tax burden is shifted both to the property owners and the dwellers in privately owned houses.

A Realtor's Viewpoint.

Morgan Fitch, past president of the Chicago Real Estate board, sums it up thus:

"A private owner would have to charge at least twice as much for the types of apartments in the Wells and other federal projects, which get subsidies from the government and assume no tax obligations except the minor service charge. Such projects, valuable as they may seem for the moment, discourage large and small scale building. The homeowner and the little renter pay the penalty."

Officials of the Chicago Housing authority, which operates the Wells homes, assert that the monthly rents pay for the reduced operating costs of the project, all of whose apartments are furnished with electricity, gas, refrigeration, heat, and hot water. If money is needed to make up deficits, either for upkeep or interest on bonds issued to finance the project, it will be supplied by the government.

Occupants Are Happy.

The dwellers in Wellstown are jubilant in their new homes and easily the envy of colored persons still living in the rickety houses less than fifty feet from the gleaming new buildings.

"These people are glad to be here and we do our best to see that the houses are kept clean," Brown says. He sends memoranda to any tenants whose yard or front steps are not spotless and if they disregard the notes they are summoned to Brown's office for a heart to heart talk. So far, there have been no evictions—either for unwillingness to keep the premises clean or for non-payment of rent.

A unique and vital organization in Wellstown is the Employment club, known better by its less formal title of "Get Off and Keep Off WPA and Relief club". Those on WPA rolls are urged to take private employment and the club helps them find it.

Since it was formed last January, the club has found private jobs for nearly 200 dwellers. It exhorts the residents to seek its services thru the community newspaper, which is edited and published weekly in the community.

Given such hitherto undreamed of extra advantages as Madden park, in the center of the project, art and handcraft classes, choral groups, the residents have found time to make improvements in their new apartments.

HOUSE GETS BILL TO FORBID UNION CONTROL OF JOBS

Would Bar Dues Paying as Work Requirement.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—Charging that the Roosevelt administration has "deliberately, wickedly, and unlawfully" deprived Americans of the right to work until they have paid tribute to favored groups or organizations, Representative Clare E. Hoffman [R., Mich.] today introduced a bill which would outlaw union dues and initiation fees as a condition for securing and retaining jobs.

Representative Clare Hoffman.

He compared the "tribute levying activities" of labor organizations with the Barbary pirates against whom President Jefferson finally had to dispatch warships, asserting that the pirates were no worse in principle "than those agencies of the government and other organizations which now would collect tribute from the worker."

Provisions of Bill.

The bill states:

"Notwithstanding the provision of any other law or of any rule, regulation or order of any officer or agency of the United States, it shall hereafter be unlawful for any individual, firm, corporation, or association, or for the government of any state or any subdivision thereof, or for any federal agency or corporation, to require or to demand of, or to assist in demanding of, either directly or indirectly, any American citizen that he or she pay to any organization any sum of money or anything of value as a condition precedent to obtaining work or a condition of remaining at work."

Persons found guilty of violating the proposed law would be subject to maximum punishment of one year in prison and a $1,000 fine.

Puts Blame on Administration.

"The President and the boards and agencies which he has created and to which he has induced congress to give authority have for more than four years deliberately, wickedly, and unlawfully deprived loyal American citizens of the right to work—until those citizens have complied with the demands of the favored administration sponsored racketeers," Hoffman said.

"Thus the administration has established a dictatorship by irresponsibles, having no legal authority, who levy what they call dues and assessments, but which in reality are tribute, as a condition precedent to the earning of a livelihood."

Guard Rights, Labor Urged; Hit Racketeers at Union Session; Illinois CIO Cites Growth

Gov. Green Speaks

Danville, Ill., Sept. 19 (AP).—Declaring organized labor would lose its gains under totalitarian government, Gov. Dwight H. Green appealed today for a closer bond between labor, industry, and agriculture in the interest of national preparedness and internal unity.

Gov. Green.

Speaking before the Illinois State Federation of Labor convention, composed of AFL unions, Gov. Green also reviewed the legislature's record during his first year in office and said his administration had supported a wide range of legislation beneficial to labor.

"Now is the time that industry, agriculture, and labor can unite in one great and indissoluble partnership with the common purpose not only of national defense, but of internal solidarity and invincible nationalism," he said.

"In labor we meet the very symbol of free government. Now, as never before, you have been called upon to unite in protecting those liberties with all your strength and patriotic zeal. . . .

"The real defense of Americanism depends upon the zeal of those at home, who declare that in no place in the ranks of the people shall even a whisper of disloyalty to free and representative government be heard."

Gov. Green said his administration and the state council of defense were undertaking to bring more small Illinois manufacturing plants into armament production to furnish more employment.

Local Under Fire

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 19 [Special].—Ending its first convention in 30 years, the International Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers Union of America [AFL] today adopted a resolution condemning racketeering but refused to go on record as barring from office those found guilty of racketeering, embezzlement, or larceny of funds. The resolution authorized the filing of charges by the union's president against those suspected of racketeering.

The convention also decided to prefer charges against Sand Hogs local No. 147, of New York City, alleging "constitutional irregularities" based on an investigation under the direction of Joseph V. Moreschi, international president.

Brian Feeney, business agent of the local, and his associates had expected to be cited for trial at the convention, but had no objection to being tried later before the general executive board.

"Local 147 welcomes the opportunity to be heard," declared Feeney. "We will prove that not only are we not guilty of any irregularities, but that we have consistently adhered to the highest ideals of trade unionism."

Condemning alleged acts of insubordination by local 147 which were made in Moreschi's report to the convention, the committee on grievances declared that the local's charter should be revoked after trial if it was found not to comply with decisions of the international executive board.

Among the approximately 150 resolutions adopted was one citing the "glorious achievements of the AFL" and denouncing "a continuous campaign of slander . . . against officers and members of the AFL by hirelings bent upon wrecking the labor movement."

First State Meeting

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 19 (AP).—Illinois CIO unions have enrolled 300,000 members in five years and have firmly established industrial unionism in this state, Regional Director Ray Edmundson said today in an address keynoting the first state convention of the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

Ray Edmundson.

Edmundson and Allan S. Haywood, national director of organization for the CIO, were principal speakers at the opening session of the three day convention, which officials said would be attended by some 600 delegates representing 42 CIO affiliated unions.

"Modern, industrial democracy . . . has taken its proper place in the affairs of our state and is here to stay," Edmundson said.

"CIO unions have been created in nearly every Illinois industrial community. These unions have secured wage increases which have put more bread in the pantries and better shoes on the feet of our children. Oppressive working conditions have been abolished. Liberty and democracy have become meaningful words.

"And all this while the fat, sleek, and pampered burocrats of the American Federation of Labor have sat idly by, scoffing and vituperating against our movement in this state."

Edmundson assailed Reuben G. Soderstrom, president of the rival Illinois State Federation of Labor [AFL], as "the water boy of the Illinois industrialists" and charged the AFL state leadership has attempted to break some CIO strikes.

THREE SHIPS SEIZED BY U. S. WILL CARRY SUPPLIES TO BASES

New York, Sept. 19 (AP).—The maritime commission said today it had requisitioned for a single voyage three merchant ships, which ply between here and United States Caribbean defense bases, so that there would be no further delay in the transportation of supplies.

They will be manned by present officers and such members of the crew who wish to rejoin the ships under the wage scale currently paid by their former employer, the Alcoa Steamship company, the commission said.

The ships, the Alcoa Banner, Alcoa Trader, and Alcoa Scout, were seized yesterday after the Seafarer's International union [AFL] refused to submit to arbitration its demands for increased bonuses for war zone travel. The strike of unlicensed personnel, called Saturday, has affected 11 other ships docked here, in Boston, New Orleans, and Mobile.

Capt. Granville Conway, district director of the commission, said that "for the time being" the other vessels would not be requisitioned.

AFL WINS FIGHT ON DUNNE CLIQUE IN TRUCKER ROW

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 19 [Special].—State Labor Conciliator Alfred P. Blair today ruled that the American Federation of Labor is entitled to jurisdiction of General Drivers union No. 544. He held that the CIO leadership of the union's members was actively affiliated with the Socialist Workers [Trotskyite] party.

The decision climaxed a long fight between the AFL and CIO for the right to represent the city's 6,000 truck drivers. Its effect was to remove Gov. Harold E. Stassen's most troublesome labor opposition by depriving the Dunne brothers—Miles, Grant, and Vincent—of control of the truckers.

The union was an AFL affiliate until last June when the Dunnes, leaders in the union altho not holding top offices, bolted to the CIO. Since then both the AFL and CIO have claimed to represent the truckers working for 570 firms in this area. The Dunnes are scheduled to be tried in October on charges that they conspired with others to overthrow the United States government in connection with plans advocated by the Socialist Workers

LAKE VIEW HIGH RALLY RESULTS IN 25 ARRESTS

The Lake View and Roosevelt High school football teams meet this afternoon but the gridiron scrimmage isn't likely to be as rough as the pep meeting a thousand Lake View pupils put on last night in the neighborhood of the school at Irving Park road and Ashland avenue.

Trolleys were pulled off street cars. A bonfire was built in the middle of the tracks. The students found a quantity of rock salt used by the surface lines and pelted passersby and automobiles.

Town Hall police hurried to the scene and several of them also were targets for the salt. They finally broke up the meeting, taking 25 youths to the station. Fourteen of them, who are under 16 years of age, will be questioned by juvenile authorities and the older youths will be taken to Boys' court this morning.

DIES AT WHEEL OF CAR.

Francis Longley, 55 years old, 5500 Kamerling avenue, became ill last night as he was driving his car, stopped it in front of 5018 Division street, and died of a heart attack a few minutes later.

KILL BANK ROBBER, SHOOT TWO; RECOVER $3,300 OF BANK LOOT

Ellwood City, Pa., Sept. 19 (AP).—Less than two hours after three gunmen robbed the First National Bank of Harrisville, 45 miles northwest of Pittsburgh, of $3,350 today, one of them was slain here and the other two were critically wounded. The money was recovered.

Chief of Police Ernest Hartman, armed with a submachine gun, blocked a fleeing car on a bridge here for a time, wounding the men in a gun battle before they made a break to escape. Later, after a wild four mile ride, the bandits' car ran over an embankment, and another fight developed in which one of the robbers was killed.

The wounded men, Albert Feelo, 26 years old, of Republic, Pa., and Kenneth Palmer, 33, of Volant, Pa., were taken to a hospital here. The dead man was Earl Evarts, 25, of Smithfield, Pa.

105 MORE CITED IN STRIKE AT 3 PACKING PLANTS

Circuit Judge Philip J. Finnegan yesterday issued contempt citations against an additional 105 strikers and three locals of the United Packinghouse Workers of America accused of violating an injunction issued last Friday by Judge George Fred Rush. The injunction restrained striking employés at three packing plants from intimidating or impeding the entry of nonstrikers into the plants.

The citations were made returnable Sept. 30, the same date set by Judge Finnegan Thursday when he cited 12 other strikers, the Congress of Industrial Organization, the United Packinghouse Workers, and the Packinghouse Workers' organizing committee on similar charges.

The strike was called 10 days ago at the Agar Packing and Provision company, the P. Brennan company, and the Illinois Meat company. Representatives of both sides met last night in Mayor Kelly's office, but adjourned without reaching an agreement.

CONTROL WAGES AND ALL PRICES, BARUCH URGES

Asks One Man Rule to Halt Inflation Peril.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—Government control of wages, coupled with a revival of the "work or fight" slogan of the World war, were advocated by Bernard M. Baruch, 71 years old, White House intimate and head of the 1917-'18 war industries board, before the house committee on banking and currency today.

Baruch testified concerning the administration's price fixing measure, which would give to President Roosevelt unprecedented powers to set maximum prices for all commodities.

The bill exempts wages and empowers the administrator, to be appointed by the President, to control rents only in "defense areas." Baruch criticized provisions of the bill permitting "piecemeal price fixing." He recommended that a ceiling be set by congress on all prices and all rents, and then startled committee members by asserting that maximum wages should be fixed for employes.

Favors Parity Level Only.

"I think," he said, "that you have to put a ceiling over the whole price structure, including wages, rents, and farm prices up to the parity level—and no higher—and then to adjust certain price schedules upward separately, if necessary, where justice or governmental policy so requires.

"Price control must be intimately tied up and move in step with all other war controls, wage and rent control, priorities, conservation, commandeering, war trade, war finance, and so forth.

"Price control must be treated as only a part of the whole of total defense made necessary by the threat of total war. By itself, price control has no value and will fail."

Baruch warned that inflation is imminent. The general price structure already is abnormal, he declared.

Hints at Panic Among People.

"You've got inflation looking at you," he told the committee. "Once the people become frightened——"

He admitted that price control legislation is unpleasant, offensive, and rigorous, but insisted it is essential.

"It's regimentation all right," he conceded in answer to questions, "but there is no other way."

He was questioned closely about his advocacy of a ceiling on wages. He noted that more than a million young men had been drafted to serve in the armed services for $21 a month. Those remaining behind should not be allowed to profit, he said.

"In the World war, the slogan was 'work or fight,'" he said. "It should be renewed now. You cannot take away from a man the right to strike or the right to bargain collectively, but a ceiling should be put on wages, with the administration empowered to adjust the levels upon evidence offered."

Favors Early 1941 Levels.

Asked upon what basis he would have congress place the ceiling over prices, wages, and rents, he suggested that the levels prevalent early this year might be adopted as the maximum. Pressed for a more specific answer, he suggested Jan. 1, 1941.

Baruch refused to say whether Mr. Roosevelt favored his proposals. He never had quoted the President in his life, he declared. He agreed to a provision in the bill setting an expiration date for the President's powers.

At the conclusion of his testimony, he turned to Leon C. Henderson, present price-fixer for the administration, and said:

"Mr. Henderson is the best qualified man for this job, which will be tougher than running the NRA."

Danger Here Now.

"With pay rolls soaring and shortages developing, more money bidding for less goods, the danger of an inflationary price rise is imminent," he told the committee. "If it is not taken firmly in hand in time, it may get beyond the possibility of control."

The witness recommended increased taxes to cut off demand by lessening buying power and to help the nation pay as it goes. As a second means of easing inflationary pressures, he recommended control of credit so the government would borrow from individuals rather than banks, further lessening purchasing power.

Baruch outlined faults in the present organization of arms production, based upon his World war experience. He condemned the lack of a "chief of general staff" in the organization.

"Roughly speaking, the general staff has at last been set up in SPAB," he said. "But there is no chief of that staff and we are only now approaching the regional setup we had in the World war. The industrial army is only partly organized and we have gotten only partly mobilized."

Would Block War Profits.

Price control is one of the ways to take the profit out of war, Baruch contended.

The fixed income of salaried workers must be protected, he said.

Unless America has a low price structure when the war ends, the witness continued, it may "win the war only to lose the peace."

"With a high price structure we shall be powerless to write a peace treaty that will protect our own standards of living from attack by other nations," he declared.

FACTORY OWNERS BLAST BRITAIN'S LABOR POLICIES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 19.—Leading industrialists of Sheffield, a key war production town, today sent Prime Minister Winston Churchill a seven point protest against the government's labor policy. They complain:

1. Key men are being transferred from war factories without regard to the effect on production.
2. Ordnance factories are robbing steel firms of some of their best men.
3. Frequent changes in reserved occupations are causing uncertainty among steel workers.
4. Unemployed miners who worked themselves into good jobs in steel plants are being sent back to the pits.
5. Many firms are faced with labor shortages and war production is seriously hampered.
6. The government has failed to keep its promises to industry.
7. Firms which expanded at the urgent request of the government have been left without sufficient work.

PRESIDENT MUM ON REPORT NAVY SINKS A RAIDER

Hyde Park, N. Y., Sept. 19 [Special].—President Roosevelt told a press conference at his home here that he could not discuss one way or another a report in the London Daily Express that an American vessel had sunk a German raider.

The Daily Express dispatch, published in London under a New York City dateline, said that the United States navy had taken "the offensive in the battle of the oceans to ensure safe deliveries of cargoes and there are rumors that the first kill already has been made."

"These came from Panama," the dispatch stated, "where it is reported a raider has been sunk by American warships. Col. Knox, naval secretary, had already announced that warships had searched islands in the vicinity of the canal to find out whether a suspected raider was operating there. Washington kept silence on these reports, but did not deny them."

PLANT CLOSINGS BLAMED ON OPM BY MORGENTHAU

Failure to Spend Money on Hand Charged.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 19 (AP).—Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., said here today failure of the Office of Production Management to spend money already appropriated by congress was responsible for much of the worry of workmen who face unemployment during the change over from automobile to armament production.

Morgenthau made the statement here today following an incognito visit last night to a meeting of CIO workers at Pontiac and a tour of the city during which he stopped to put nickels in juke boxes.

Money is "There to Pay."

"Somebody in the OPM should explain to working men and women," Morgenthau declared, "that the money is there to pay, and it is up to the OPM. There must be and should be work for these skilled people. They did not question the necessity of the change over or its purpose, but wanted to know what they were going to do in the meantime."

He asserted that "a very small percentage of the money which congress has appropriated for defense has been spent."

Morgenthau said he went to the meeting of the Fisher Body local 596 so he could get "education in the field; particularly in regard to the payroll allotment plan of defense savings."

The voluntary defense savings plan "is on the right track," he said.

"Many people have urged forced savings," the secretary said. "I'm not convinced that that is the American way to do it, so I am anxious to see how voluntary saving actually works.

Morgenthau accompanied Frank N. Isbey, chairman of the Michigan state defense savings committee, to the union meeting. D. V. Cote, secretary-treasurer of the union, was the only member aware of Morgenthau's presence.

BERLINERS RUSH TO SHELTERS AS RAF BOMBS CITY

BERLIN, Sept. 20, Saturday (AP).—Berliners sought refuge in air raid shelters early today as British bombers stabbed at the German capital, but an official announcement said the raiders failed to penetrate the city's anti-aircraft defenses. One of the British planes was reported downed. German combat planes sank a 10,000 ton merchant ship and a 7,000 ton tanker in attacks on a British convoy off the east coast of England during the night.

GERMANS CLAIM KIEV; DRIVE TO TAKE KHARKOV

Win City 200 Miles East of Ukraine Capital.

BERLIN, Sept. 19 (AP).—The German Ukrainian offensive, smashing with a terrible momentum thru broken Russian resistance, has occupied Kiev, the provincial capital. It has reached and overrun Poltava, 200 miles to the east, and is striking toward Kharkov, 80 miles beyond in the heart of the industrial Donetz basin. These announcements were made by the high command today and tonight in a triumphant chain of bulletins.

This series of spectacular successes, which by German accounts appeared to lay the greatest surviving soviet war plants in the whole of the south open to imminent peril, was reported from Adolf Hitler's eastern headquarters. It also put total German casualties to the end of August at 402,865 men against Russian losses of more than 3,600,000 to date.

Last Forts Smashed.

Kiev, a city of 846,293, the third largest in the soviet union and next in importance to Moscow and Leningrad of the three top German objectives, fell during the morning, it was stated, after its last strong fortifications on the west bank of the Dnieper river had been smashed by violent Nazi charges.

Tonight, the swastika flew from its ancient towers, said the high command, after intermittent assaults upon its gates since early in July.

All this was accompanied, Hitler's headquarters declared, by the fatal encirclement of four Red armies about 125 miles to the east of Kiev—armies of unstated size [but presumably numbering as many as 500,000 men] which were being steadily cut to pieces.

Cross Lower Dnieper.

Poltava, a railway city of 88,000 where Peter the Great defeated Charles of Sweden more than two centuries ago, was the furthermost point reached in an advance which the Germans said was rolling uninterruptedly over every desperate effort to hold the dissolving Red lines.

The Germans reported that soviet troops retreating eastward from Poltava were under continuous attack by German dive bombers. Important railway lines and junctions in the area "were disrupted."

Poltava fell to the army of Field Marshal Gerd von Rundstedt. This army crossed the lower Dnieper on a 75 mile wide front in the vicinity of Kremenchug for a subsequent junction east of Kiev with the forces of Gen. Field Marshall Fedor von Bock. The latter turned to the south after forcing the Dessna river far above Kiev.

Kharkov, the next apparent major objective, is the greatest city in the basin of the Donetz river beyond which—with little or no natural obstacle interposing—lies the rich valley of the Don.

Two Columns Strike East.

The general picture officially drawn was of two mighty Nazi columns—those of Von Bock and Von Rundstedt—moving now as a great and irresistible coördinated striking force, the spearhead thrusting out far to the east and the remaining forces chewing up the main body of the encircled Russians beyond the old Kiev front.

Official information as to the remainder of the eastern front—the center and in the northwest—was far less detailed, but another and great step forward in the long effort to conquer Leningrad was reported.

The big naval guns of the soviet naval base Kronstadt, 20 miles to the east of Leningrad itself, were silenced by German artillery and dive bombers.

Hit Russian Warships.

Twenty-four Russian planes were destroyed on the ground and six others brought down in air fights in the Leningrad area.

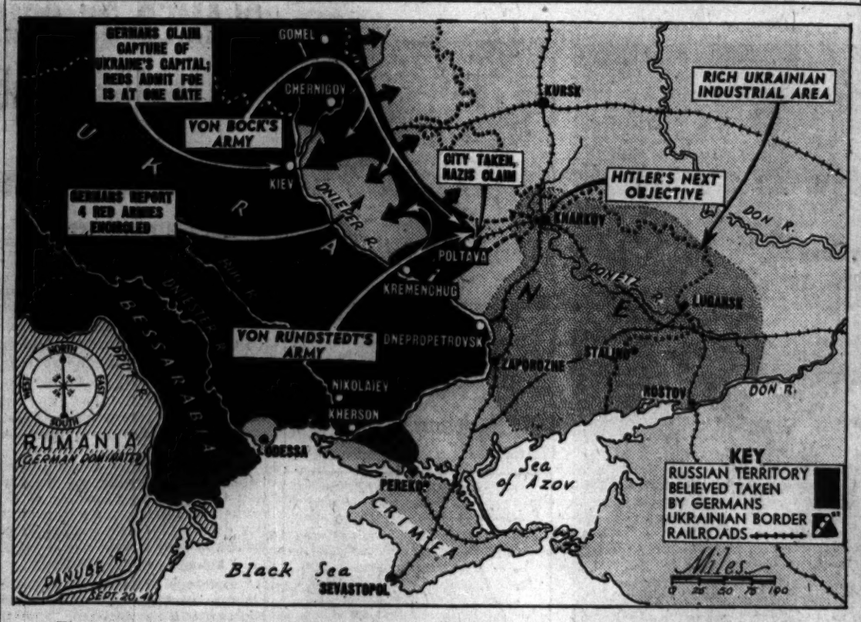
A Russian cruiser and a smaller warship were reported heavily damaged in the Black sea by the German air force yesterday, it was reported. Three freighters totaling 10,000 tons were "hard hit." The Germans said a soviet battleship was sighted in the Finnish gulf west of Leningrad today and was badly damaged by bombers.

The high command's first official announcement of casualties in the east—listing 6,900 members of the German air force among the aggregate of 402,865, based its estimate of total Russian casualties on the report that Red prisoners alone numbered more than 1,800,000.

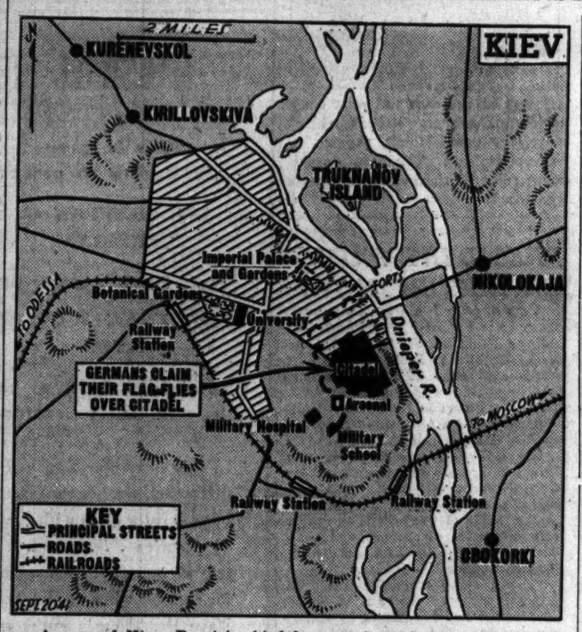
"The number of their dead," it was added, "is according to experience at least equally as high but probably higher."

Up to Aug. 31 German plane losses were put at 725—"only a part of our monthly production."

German Armies' Successes in Russia's Ukraine Told



The extent of German armies' successes in the Ukraine, as reported from Berlin yesterday. The drive is reported to have encircled Kiev, resulting in the capture of that city, and to have trapped a large segment of the Russian defenders of the area. The broken line arrow indicates the present direction of the German thrust, aimed at the rich industrial Donetz river basin and its key city, Kharkov.



A map of Kiev, Russia's third largest city, whose capture by the German army was reported by Berlin yesterday.

Missing Earl of Aylesford Killed in Action, Like Dad

LONDON, Sept. 19.—The earl of Aylesford, 31 years old, reported missing last year while serving with the artillery in France, was killed in action May 28, 1940, at Wormhaudt, it was announced today. Aylesford was the son of Lord Guernsey, who was killed in action in 1914. Heir to the title is Charles Daniel Finch-Knightley, 55, Aylesford's uncle.

Seized Finnish Steamship Assigned to Cuban Navy

HAVANA, Cuba, Sept. 19.—President Fulgencio Batista signed a decree today assigning to the Cuban navy the Finnish freighter, Koura, seized by the Cuban government Aug. 23. The vessel was renamed the Caribe. Both the Caribe and the Libertad, the former Italian freighter Recca taken over in March, are undergoing repairs.

RUSSIANS BATTLE TO STEM GERMAN TIDE IN UKRAINE

Admit Being Hard Pressed in Kiev Fight.

BULLETIN.

MOSCOW, Sept. 20 (Saturday) (AP).—An air raid alarm was in force in Moscow from 11:40 o'clock last night until 2:20 o'clock this morning for the first time since Sept. 9.

MOSCOW, Sept. 20 [Saturday]—(AP).—The Red army today was reported to be fighting desperately to stem a German tide sweeping thru the Ukraine and Russia admitted the troops were hard pressed at the ancient Ukrainian capital of Kiev.

The bitter fighting extending from the Arctic to the Black seas was "particularly fierce at Kiev," was all the soviet communique told of the titanic struggle swirling about that city. An earlier announcement had said German shock troops had penetrated to one gate of Kiev.

Heavy German Losses.

In the far north near the Arctic port of Murmansk the communique said "heavy losses" were inflicted "on three German schutzstaffel battalions [Hitler's elite guard] and two Alpine Chasseur regiments."

Recapitulated German air losses for Tuesday and Wednesday were put at 157 with 52 Red aircraft destroyed.

Russian dispatches pictured the conflict for Leningrad still raging indecisively, with the Red army position improving somewhat on the central front and at beleaguered Odessa.

Nazis Lose 15,000 in Attack.

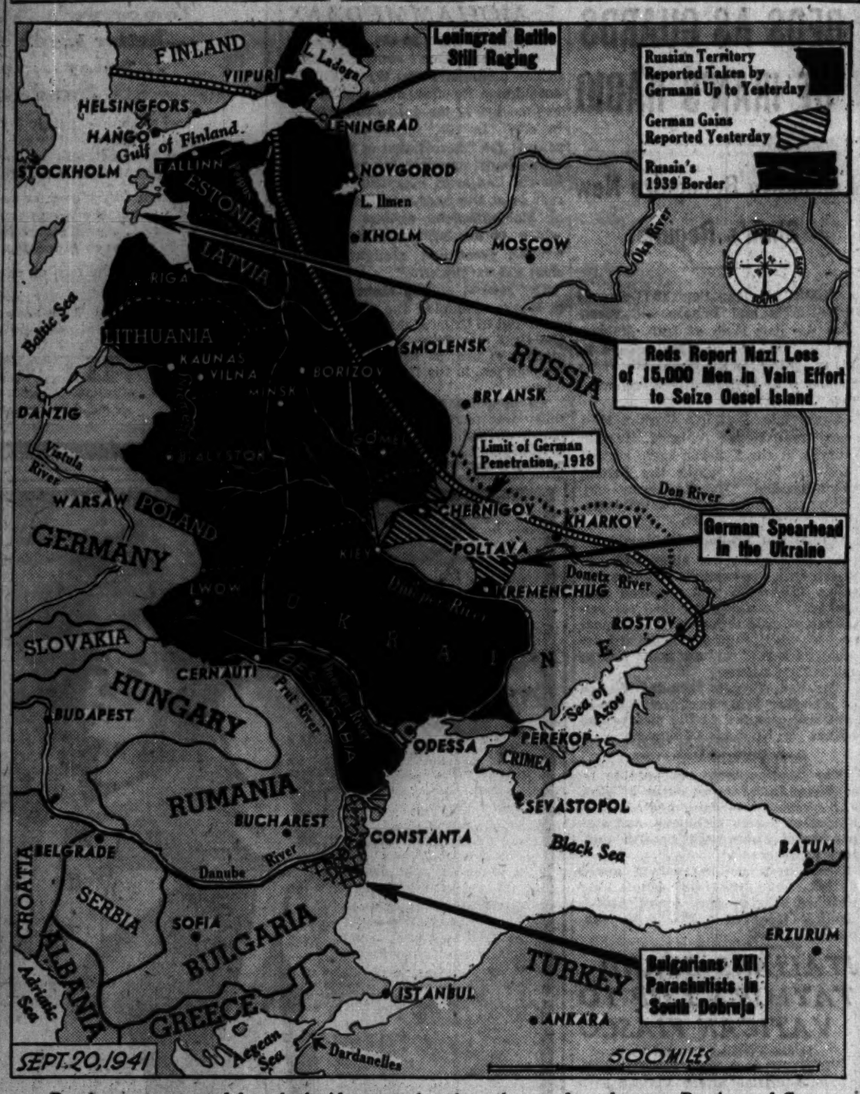
The Russians announced the Germans had lost 15,000 men in a vain attempt to seize Oesel Island off the Estonian coast. The figure, following up a Russian announcement Tuesday that an attack had been repulsed, was issued in response to German denials that Oesel was assaulted.

S. A. Lozovsky, vice commissar for foreign affairs, told a press conference that heavy Rumanian losses had eased the pressure on Odessa, but said the Germans apparently had sent in some reënforcements in response to a warning from Gen. Ion Antonescu of Rumania that the Rumanians could not continue the offensive unaided.

HEAVY BLOW TO REDS.

Authoritative sources in London acknowledged that loss of the coal, oil, and steel of the Ukraine constituted a heavy blow to the Russians, but asserted the Red army would be able to maintain large field forces even if the Germans took all the Donetz basin and the industrial city of Kharkov.

Developments Along the Russian-German War Front



Developments reported from both sides yesterday along the war front between Russian and German armies. W-G-N listeners and Tribune readers will find this map valuable for reference in connection with the address to be delivered by Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of The Tribune, over W-G-N this evening, the text of which will be printed in tomorrow's Chicago Sunday Tribune. Col. McCormick's address will be broadcast on the Chicagoland Hour, between 9 and 10 p. m.

BULGARIANS KILL CHUTE INVADERS; PROTEST TO REDS

Reveal Troops Landed in Southern Dobruja.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Sept. 19 (AP).—It was announced here today that a group of parachutists landed near Dobritch in southern Dobruja Sunday, and were killed in a fight with soldiers and police. Bulgarians said all evidence indicated the parachutists were Russians and a protest was filed with the Russian legation.

The group killed a Bulgarian lieutenant and a police chief and wounded five other persons before they were slain, it was stated.

Carried Explosives.

They had parcels containing explosives, weapons, radios, passports, and Bulgarian foreign money. There were reports that parachutists had also landed in other parts of Bulgaria.

[The soviet information bureau, quoting the Italian radio on a similar account, said, "The Italian radio liars contrived to stage the whole battle between 'Bulgarian troops and six soviet parachutists.' . . . There is no need to prove that the soviet union did not and could not send its planes and parachutists to Bulgaria."]

Nazis Try to Tempt Turks.

ANKARA, Turkey, Sept. 19 (AP).—Germany is understood to be offering tempting military goods to Turkey in an effort to break down the Ankara government's resistance to Nazi requests for part of this nation's quarter-million ton annual production of chrome.

Germany's eagerness for a share of this valuable war commodity and Turkey's reluctance to divert it from Britain and the United States, the present chief buyers, are understood to be delaying agreement on the projected Turkish-German trade pact.

4 Killed in Bomber Crash in Netherlands East Indies

BATAVIA, Netherlands East Indies, Sept. 19 (AP).—A bomber crashed yesterday south of Sourabaya, killing all four members of its Netherlands East Indies army crew, Aneta, the N. E. I. news agency reported. Another bomber of the same type crashed near Magelang Sept. 5, killing five persons. Engine trouble was blamed for the first crash.

F.D.R. SAID:

(Aug. 14, 1936)

"I have seen war on land and sea. I have seen blood running from the wounded. I have seen men coughing out their gassed lungs. I have seen the dead in the mud. I have seen two hundred limping, exhausted men come out of line—the survivors of a regiment of one thousand that went forward 48 hours before. I hate war.

"I wish I could keep war from all nations, but that is beyond my power. I can at least make certain that no act of the United States helps to produce or to promote war."

M. P. VOICES HOPE U. S. WILL FIGHT AT BRITISH SIDE

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 19 [Special].—Beverley Baxter, Toronto born member of the British parliament, today expressed the hope before the National Industrial Advertisers' association that Britain and the United States soon would be fighting "side by side."

"If this war ends in victory for us without the United States having fought by our side," he said to the United States delegates, "I see great difficulties in the entente which will follow the peace. Unless the British empire and the United States really come together and assume the definite leadership of the world, some other power which should not have that leadership will take the power into its hands. It is for the United States itself to decide, but I hope we shall see our forces fighting side by side."

Baxter then called for conscription thruout Canada, saying: "How can a nation as important as Canada, having pledged herself, enforce that pledge without conscription? It is not that it will send so many more into battle but that conscription has become in this war a declaration of faith in democracy itself."

FEARS GERMANS ARE 'MASTERS' OF ENGLISH AT WAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 19.—Lieutenant Commander Robert Tatton Bower, Conservative member of parliament and highly regarded naval and military strategist, told an audience at Yorkshire today:

"I have an uncomfortable feeling that, in spite of our strategy, the Germans are our masters, both in conception and execution. One gets a strong impression—and I speak as one trained in strategy who has passed thru two out of the three staff colleges—that the enemy always will have a plan, whereas our strategy is opportunist and hand to mouth.

He praised Prime Minister Winston Churchill highly as a "superlative leader—one of the greatest we have ever had," but said he thought Churchill had "taken on his shoulders a burden too great for any one man to carry."

HITLER ARMY ADMITS LOSS OF 400,000 MEN IN RUSSIAN CAMPAIGN

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

The first two months of war against Russia cost Germany almost exactly twice as many soldiers and airmen killed and wounded [402,865] as she lost in all other prior campaigns of the war combined, the German high command said yesterday.

The numbers missing in the invasion of Russia are only about two-thirds the numbers missing altogether in the other campaigns. The official figures:

Campaign.	Dead	Wounded.	Missing.	Total.
Russia	85,896	296,670	20,299	402,865
France	27,074	111,084	18,384	156,492
Poland	10,572	30,322	3,409	44,303
Crete	1,353	1,919	2,621	5,893
Balkans ..	2,006	3,902	548	6,456
Norway ..	1,317	1,604	2,375	5,296
*Total ..	42,322	148,781	27,337	218,440

SAY U. S.-BRITISH MISSIONS ARE ON WAY TO MOSCOW

LONDON, Sept. 19 (AP). — The United States and British missions to Moscow were reliably reported tonight to have left for the soviet capital.

The missions, bound for Russia to join in three power conferences to coördinate the war effort against Germany, had luncheon with Prime Minister Churchill today.

W. Averell Harriman heads the American group, while the minister of supply, Lord Beaverbrook, heads the British.

Lord Beaverbrook, who has promised the Russians all the tanks that Britain builds in the week beginning next Monday, left a farewell message for release tomorrow urging tank factory workers to "build more tanks than ever before."

ANTI-NAZIS SET ARMY GARAGE IN PARIS AFIRE

10 Escape After Defying 2 More Executions.

VICHY, France, Sept. 19 (AP).—Ten men set fire to a German army garage in Paris tonight in defiance of strict Nazi repressive measures. All escaped.

The German-requisitioned garage on Boulevard Gouvion—St. Cyr, near the Champeret gate, was fired less than 18 hours after two communists, Raymond Gandon and Eric Louis Texier, died before a Nazi firing squad for anti-German demonstrations. It was not known whether these deaths had any connection with the slaying of a German noncommissioned officer Monday night.

Another German garage was set afire in Paris on Sept. 6, the day the first three communists held as hostages were executed by the Germans in reprisal for attacks upon occupation forces.

Twenty-three Executed to Date.

Altogether, 23 persons have been executed by the Germans since the outbreak of what is known here as the "terror" in Paris, [corresponding roughly with the course of the German-Russian war]. Thirteen of these were killed as hostages, others were regularly condemned by German military courts.

Within the last 24 hours, however, the Germans claim to have broken up three separate bands of "gangsters," arresting 11 persons, including an Apache called the "Escape King" because he has eluded nine condemnations to date.

Lebrun Valet Sentenced.

French authorities in Paris sentenced the elderly valet of former President Albert Lebrun to a month in jail for "insulting remarks" about Marshal Petain, the chief of state. They also interned the deposed Parisian judge, Paul Didier, for refusing to swear allegiance to Petain.

Meanwhile, a 3 day Nazi punitive curfew went into effect tonight thruout the Seine department. All street traffic is to be barred from 9 p. m. to 5 a. m. and all amusement places must close at 8 p. m.

In the unoccupied zone the government purged Henry Chavin, secretary-general of police, and the army fired nine generals as Freemasons.

Three Executed in Lille.

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Sept. 19 (AP).—Three alleged communists were executed at Lille, France, for sabotage, a German newspaper here announced today. Twelve Belgians already have been condemned to death here for espionage.

OFFER AIRPLANE REPORT AS SPY TRIAL EVIDENCE

New York, Sept. 19 (AP).—The government placed in evidence today at the trial of 16 men charged with espionage conspiracy two long and highly technical accounts of American aircraft developments, which were designed for transmission to Germany.

The papers, which were given to Lily Stein, one of 17 persons who have pleaded guilty to the conspiracy, bore the typewritten signature "Heinrich" which, Assistant U. S. Attorney T. Vincent Quinn said, was an alias of Edmund Heine, former Ford company plant manager and a defendant.

Earlier evidence was introduced that Heine had bought pictures of latest type American warplanes. This testimony was not challenged. As a matter of fact, George Gordon Battle, counsel for the defendant, took the government witness over each of the exhibits to emphasize points made by the government.

In his opening address to the jury, Battle admitted that his client had sent material to Germany, but contended that all of it was published matter and that the action could not have crme under federal laws against disclosing defense secrets.

22 DUTCH STRIKE 'INSTIGATORS' GET TERMS IN PRISON

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 19 (AP).—The Civil Supreme court at The Hague imposed sentences ranging up to 12 years yesterday upon 22 Amsterdam citizens accused of instigating strikes last February and March.

The men were described as communists, but because they had no leading functions in the communist party and the alleged offenses occurred before the Russo-German war, the court said heavier punishment was not imposed.

The Dutch were warned, however, that persons charged with communist activity after last June 22—the day the Russo-German war started—would be subject to capital punishment.

Ship Sailing from New York to Brazil Lost 'Due to War'

New York, Sept. 19 (AP).—The American Swedish news exchange reported today that the 1,980 ton Swedish freighter Scania had been lost "due to the cause of war," but that her crew of 14 had been saved. The Scania, which plied between New York and South America, had left New York for Santos, Brazil.

Detained in Trinidad

MURIEL LESTER.

Detention of Muriel Lester, internationally known London, England, social worker, by British authorities on the island of Trinidad while en route to the United States, was announced last night by Dr. A. J. Muste, of New York. Dr. Muste, former director of the Presbyterian Labor temple, New York, spoke at a peace mass meeting at the First Church of the Brethren, Congress street and Central Park avenue.

Dr. A. J. Muste.

Dr. Muste announced that Miss Lester, a frequent religious speaker in Chicago and elsewhere thruout the country, had been lecturing in South America and planned to return to the United States for a speaking tour beginning Aug. 25. He stated that when her boat stopped at Trinidad, Miss Lester's passport was taken from her and her detention demanded by the Home office in London.

Miss Lester was opposed to the World war and is widely known as a pacifist. She is the founder of the Kingsley house in London, which has been compared with Hull house. She frequently is called the Jane Addams of London.

ANTI-NAZIS GIVE WIEDEMANN A BOMB FAREWELL

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Sept. 19 (AP).—A group of Argentine anti-Nazis set off two small bombs near the residence of the German ambassador a few hours before he escorted his much-discussed guest, Capt. Fritz Wiedemann, to a boat en route to a new consular post in the far east.

Fritz Wiedemann.

Police reserves dispersed about 20 men in the demonstrating group and arrested one. Nobody was hurt and the damage was trivial.

Only a few persons were at the dock to witness Wiedemann's early departure aboard the Japanese cargo ship Manila Maru on a 40 day voyage to Tokio, by way of the Straits of Magellan. Wiedemann formerly was consul at San Francisco.

Nazi Press Assails Argentina.

BERLIN, Sept. 19 (AP).—The German press tonight began a strong editorial campaign against Argentina and said that anti-German agitation there could have "a reaction on diplomatic relations" between the two countries.

The agency DNB, summarizing the press comment, said that "for some time we have been experiencing anti-German agitation in Argentina which barely falls short of that in the United States."

BRITISH REPLACE REDS AS GUARDS OF IRAN'S RADIO

London to Recognize New Shah's Regime.

TEHERAN, Iran, Sept. 18 [Delayed] (AP).—Russia and Britain will recognize the new shah of Iran, Mohammed Pahlavi, by sending envoys to his reception for the diplomatic corps soon, it was authoritatively reported today.

Meanwhile, Britain's Gurkha riflemen from Nepal replaced Russian sentries at the Teheran radio station near the factory where the British are quartered. The Red army continued to guard other communications centers, however.

Rule Out Triumphant March.

By agreement, the allies will not march thru the capital's business section. The tanks and armored cars that the Russians furbished up yesterday in expectation of a triumphal review on Riza Shah boulevard remain parked at the air fields and in suburban gardens.

The Red troopers included women in blue-gray army tunics and forage caps who shopped in the picturesque bazars for bouquets of flowers.

Reds Impress Observers.

The Russian force appeared to be a second rate reserve outfit by Russian standards of equipment, but its discipline, march technique, and supply system impressed neutral military observers.

Youngsters do the minor guard duties, but important points are watched over by hard jawed Asiatic looking troopers armed with submachine guns.

ITALIANS BRAND TAYLOR'S TRIP TO VATICAN FIASCO

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VICHY, France, Sept. 19.—Myron C. Taylor's mission to the Vatican as a personal representative of President Roosevelt has been a complete fiasco for the Roosevelt policy, it was stated in Italian newspapers reaching Vichy from northern Italy today.

The newspapers said that Pope Pius XII. turned down a Roosevelt proposal that the Vatican should discourage American Catholics from opposing assistance to bolshevik Russia. Some papers said that Taylor mentioned to the Vatican the inconveniences that might be experienced if, under certain conditions, the revenue now received by the Vatican from America should not be forthcoming. Papers reaching here from Paris referred to this as American blackmailing.

BRAZIL BARS ITS SHIPS FROM NEW DANGER ZONES

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Sept. 19 (AP).—The Brazilian merchant marine commission today prohibited Brazilian ships from entering certain specified zones and warned them against going into others.

It was the first official general ban, altho ships previously had to consult the commission before entering danger zones.

The prohibited zones are: The whole coast of Europe except between Vigo, Spain, and the mouth of the Guadiana river [thus leaving the whole coast of Brazil's mother country, Portugal, and a small part of the Spanish Atlantic coast open to Brazilian ships]; the coast of West Africa north from Luanda, Angola; the South Atlantic coast below Bahia Blanca, Argentina, and the whole Pacific ocean.

RED LEADER ASKS SUPPORT OF ALL MOHAMMEDANS

MOSCOW, Sept. 19 (AP).—The head of the soviet union's central Mohammedan administration, the Mufti Abdurakhman Rasulev, appealed to Mohammedans of the entire world today to rise "in the name of Islam" against the "devastation of Fascism."

The mufti appealed for "direct aid for the Red army everywhere, at the rear or at the front. In the struggle of Mohammedans against Fascism, which is annihilating religion and science, great and almighty Allah shall aid us Moslems."

The several million Mohammedans in Russia, including the Tartars, are scattered in Crimea, the Volga region, the Ural mountains, on the Kirghiz steppes of central Asia north of the Caspian sea, in the Caucasus and elsewhere.

An appeal similar to that issued today was made by the head of the Greek orthodox church soon after the German invasion began.

VICTORY FOR U. S. INDUSTRY: MASS PLANE BUILDING

Douglas Makes Them on Production Line.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Santa Monica, Cal., Sept. 19.—Production engineers at the Douglas Aircraft company plant here have proved how wrong were the wiseacres who a few years ago used to say it was impossible to adopt automobile production methods to airplane manufacturing. For in the Douglas company shops here, at Inglewood, and at Long Beach, all in the Los Angeles metropolitan area, they now are building airplanes on production lines and turning them out in numbers undreamed of no longer than 24 months ago.

The writer, with the permission of the army air corps, was allowed to inspect the Santa Monica plant and see this modern miracle of production engineering in action. Miracle it is too, for the Douglas company books show that the methods now used have broken all past records for output. In the last year—the period when changes to present methods first began to affect production—the plant I visited expanded 30 per cent in area, 70 per cent in employés, and several hundred per cent in airplanes completed.

Half a Billion in Orders.

At the moment the company has orders for 557 million dollars worth of airplanes—fully 95 per cent of which can be classed as military. This is probably the chief factor in the successful development of the moving production line for aircraft building, the Douglas engineers say. By this they mean that large quantity orders made it worth while to tool up properly to turn out these orders efficiently and swiftly. That efficiency has been achieved is shown by the fact that reductions of as much as 50 per cent in man hours of labor on certain parts of planes now in production have been possible.

The Douglas company is concentrating on two general types of planes—light attack bombers and army transports. In this latter class there are several types of planes now under construction. One is the army's version of the DC-3, a bi-motored 25,000 pound plane capable of carrying airplane engines, parachute troops, or what have you.

Attack Bombers in Production.

The attack bombers now being constructed here are A-20As, lineal descendants of the DB-7 series of bi-motored planes. The DB-7s were originally ordered by the French but most of the first order went to the British following the collapse of France in the summer of 1940. The DB-7s were fine airplanes and are known in England as Havocs where they are night fighters. The A-20A, however, is quite a different airplane with nearly one-third more power, considerably more weight, and a much higher landing speed.

It is in the production of the A-20s that the first moving production lines have been set up here, since the orders for this type call for deliveries of many hundreds both to the British and to the United States army air corps. It was to the head of this production line that I was taken when the armed guards at the front gates, and the red tape in the form of security pledges I signed, had been passed.

Overhead Tracks Used.

"We don't call our assembly line production system 'automotive methods,'" my guide told me. "We say it is 'mechanized assembly.' Our overhead track lines now extend for nearly a mile in all in this plant. The various parts are suspended from the track so that crews trained to do a special job can get at them.

"The work has been so organized that at each station along the way certain specified work is done, oil, electric, control, and heating lines installed. It is divided so that the same amount of time is taken at each station. Then at regular intervals a bell sounds and a power winch moves the various lines to the next working position."

Impression of Pandemonium.

Walking into the shop proper from the cloistered quiet of an aircraft company's executive offices gives visitors a shock. The first impression is one of confusion. The second is of hurry. The third is the infernal din of riveting machines working on light duraluminum skin. It is like the pounding of a hundred thousand machine guns, or the rattling of a million jazz bands pounding snare drums. Then there are the squawks or bells from the little electric trucks and tractors that thread their way thru the aisles carrying supplies of all sorts.

Our first stop was at the assembly line where the center section of the A-20A wing was taken from its forming jig and attached to hooks on the overhead track. At station No. 1 a crew of a dozen men began attaching fuel and oil lines, valves, electrical conduit pipes, and riveting on more parts. At Station No. 2, more of the same continued. Down the line the center section acquired the rear cowlings for the two huge air-cooled engines that would later drive the plane thru the air at more than 300 miles an hour. Then the engine mounts themselves were bolted on.

Two Assemblies Meet.

A few steps down the line the track passed thru a painting and primer shop where the under coats or protective pigment were sprayed on. It passed out to further stations. Well down the line the tracks joined those of another subassembly group. In this group the center section of the airplane's slender hull, just round enough to accommodate a seat for the pilot, was built up in much the same way as the wing center section. At the junction of the two lines these two parts were joined, the wing fitting over the hull and joining it by holding bolts.

Detached now from their overhead tracks both parts were held on a framework that moved on rollers—much like a bedroom dresser's rollers. Swiftly then in successive work stations the huge landing wheels were attached to fittings accurately placed in the engine nacelles. Then the big Wright 14 cylinder engines themselves were slung into place on huge cranes and bolted down. While one group of mechanics connected up the electrical, control, exhaust, fuel, and lubricating systems of the motors, others finished installing instruments and controls in the pilot's cockpit.

Nose and Tail Added.

To the front of the plane was added the nose section. To the rear one of the two tail subassemblies. The nose section contained the nose wheel of the aircraft's tricycle gear, and after this section was riveted and joined the whole craft was lowered to the wheels and rolled along as a unit thereafter. Still moving toward the ramp on Clover field [alongside which the Douglas factory is situated] the plane had its tail surfaces bolted home, its camouflage paint added, and its national insignia stenciled on.

As they gain their final shapes they are pushed out of the succession of Douglas hangars thru which they passed to the concrete ramp on the airport proper.

Lined Up in Open Air.

This forms what is known as a "California assembly line." The planes, literally scores of them, were lined up out in the open air and mechanics swarmed over them putting the finishing touches to the entire job. Not until almost every other unit was completed were the outer wing panels added. These are the wing tips outside the engines. When these finally were in place the airplanes were ready for their last inspection before the engines were started up and given their ground "run-ins."

This last ritual includes operation of all controls, shutters, valves, switches, etc., in the craft. If everything functions perfectly and the motors sound sweet to the expert engine mechanics who supervise their running, the airplane is signed over to the Douglas company's flight test crew for the actual flying of the plane that precedes its delivery. A group of nearly 25 flight engineers are employed by the Douglas company to conduct these tests.

Parts Are Interchangeable.

"The beauty of this mechanized assembly system," one of the production engineers said, "is the fact that all the parts made for one plane fit interchangeably with the same parts in other planes. This makes for easy maintenance in the field, but requires the utmost accuracy in their original fabrication.

"Of course we couldn't spend the money to do this if we had an order for only 100 planes. But when the orders roll up into many hundreds this is the way to do the job. When we get thru it is possible to take good parts from a wrecked plane and substitute them for the same parts in a partially wrecked ship.

Figures on production are army secrets, but I saw scores of A-20A bombers at several airports around Los Angeles.

50 RUSSIANS QUIT JAPAN; INCLUDE WIFE OF ENVOY

Tokio Protests Anew Over Soviets' Mines.

TOKIO, Japan, Sept. 19 (AP).—Fifty Russians, including the wife of Constantin Smetanin, ambassador to Tokio, sailed from Tsuruga, western Japan, for Vladivostok today. Scores of Russians have left Japan since the Russian-German war began.

A strong Japanese protest against floating Russian mines in the Sea of Japan has been brought to the attention of the soviet government for the second time, Koh Ishii, government spokesman, declared.

The protest was made some time ago, Ishii said, but no reply was received and the matter was put before the soviet again yesterday thru its Tokio embassy.

Boat Sunk; Nine Killed.

Announcement of the protest yesterday said a Corean sailing vessel was sunk Sept. 1 off Nishisuira promontory, at the northern edge of Corea, by a mine which drifted from Vladivostok fields. It was said nine Corean fishermen were lost.

The foreign office protest also embraced the explosion of a mine under a fishing boat on Sept. 12 in which four men were said to have been killed.

The Sea of Japan has been traversed by American tankers en route to Vladivostok with gasoline for Russia. The Japanese protest note warned of the danger to vessels of either Japan or "third powers."

Japs Report New Drive Begun.

SHANGHAI, China, Sept. 19 (AP).—Japanese army spokesmen today said a major offensive was under way southwestward from Hankow along the shores of Tungting lake and in the vicinity of Yochow, where the Japanese were said to have crossed the Sungkiang river.

Preliminary operations ended yesterday were said to have led to the death of 4,200 Chinese.

The spokesmen declined to reveal the objective of the current offensive.

Japs Building New Wall.

Travelers reaching Shanghai from the Chinese interior said a new "great wall" was being constructed by the Japanese army with forced Chinese labor in an effort to bar Chinese armies from eastern Hupeh and Shantung provinces.

The wall, they said, runs south from Tientsin west of the Tientsin-Nanking railroad, and a section 100 miles long already has been completed by about 100,000 Chinese workers. They described the wall as built of earth and stones, about 18 feet high and 10 feet wide.

CAIRO, Egypt, Sept. 19 (AP).—An Egyptian communique said three persons were injured in an early morning air raid on the Suez canal area today but damage was insignificant. Air raid alerts were sounded in Cairo and several provinces.

A severe sand storm hindered British patrol activities at Tobruk yesterday, the middle east command reported. British mechanized forces, nevertheless, were said to have been active again along the Egyptian-Libyan frontier.

WAR GAME AREA NIGHT FLIGHT BAN ENDS FOR 5 DAYS

New Orleans, La., Sept. 19 [Special].—The three commercial air lines which operate regular flights over the area where the 1st and 2d armies are conducting war maneuvers in Louisiana were notified today they may resume night flying at once and continue as usual until sundown Wednesday. From then until the maneuvers end Sept. 30, however, night flying for commercial or private ships again will be forbidden.

Notice of the removal of the prohibition of which has been in effect against night flying over the maneuver area since Sunday, was given by the Civil Aeronautics Authority. The CAA said airway light beacons that dot the countryside here and the radio range stations in New Orleans, Alexandria, La., and Houston, Tex., would be in operation again tonight. These had been "blacked out" since Sunday.

Air lines affected are Braniff Airways, flying from Chicago to the southwest and to Mexico; Eastern Air Lines, operating along the eastern and southeastern seaboard; and Chicago and Southern Air Lines, flying from Chicago to New Orleans. More than a score of nightly schedules by these companies was interrupted without warning Sunday night when the army, thru the CAA, called a halt to the trips.

3D ARMY BESTS 2D AND ITS TWO TANK DIVISIONS

Maneuvers Halted Over Week-End.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Natchitoches, La., Sept. 19.—The first phase of the intra-army maneuvers involving 400,000 soldiers ended this afternoon with the defending 2d Red army all but defeated by the invading Blue forces of the 3d army.

The respite came when Lieut. Gen. Lesley J. McNair, chief of staff, general headquarters, in charge of the maneuvers, called a halt after Lieut. Gen. Ben Lear's heavily outnumbered 2d army had been almost encircled by hard hitting forces of the 3d army under Lieut. Gen. Walter Krueger.

The battle for Natchitoches, Gen. Lear's headquarters, raged thruout the day until umpires ordered the fighting stopped. The city was captured last night a few hours after Lear evacuated his headquarters for another site, but was retaken by Lear's troops today.

Tank Tactics Go Astray.

Lear's strongly mechanized force of 150,000 men took the initiative when the maneuvers opened Monday by driving a tank column deep into 3d army territory. However, they had to withdraw hastily when they were threatened with falling into a pocket.

Gen. Krueger deployed his forces, which lacked tanks and rapidly moving units, covering all roads leading into his territory as he started a gradual move northward.

Heading south at the same time were Gen. Lear's two tank divisions, horse cavalry and streamlined infantry. The tanks were sent west to make a wide flanking movement aimed at the Blues' rear.

The 2d army commanders were so certain their tanks would succeed they moved their reserve and line power westward to follow the tanks. The error of this decision was quickly seen when the tanks were stopped and the left center of the Red line, weakened by the westward movement, was cracked by Blue forces.

Drop Defeatist Leaflets.

The 3d army air force showered their overpowered enemy with synthetic bombs, consisting of small sacks of flour, and defeatist propaganda urging surrender.

The outnumbered Red soldiers were undaunted by aircast leaflets emblazoned: "Your commanders are withholding from you the terrible fact of your impending defeat," but they were much impressed by those which said: "Your dinner today is going to be what is left over from yesterday while the 3d army is eating juicy steaks."

The maneuvers will be resumed next week and will continue until Sept. 30.

CORCORAN LOSES CHANCE FOR POST SO LONG SOUGHT

Seen as Price for Escape from Senate Inquiry.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—Thomas G. Corcoran, former No. 1 New Deal brain truster and political fixer, probably will escape an immediate senate investigation of his fabulous lawyer-lobbying activities, but it will cost him the job for which he has pulled some mighty potent wires — the post of solicitor general of the United States.

Thomas Corcoran.

This was the prospect today when Senator Frederick Van Nuys [D., Ind.] chairman of the senate judiciary committee, said it will "vote unanimously to disapprove Tommy Corcoran's nomination as solicitor general." Because of this opposition, informed sources said, President Roosevelt is not expected to appoint Corcoran to the post recently vacated when Solicitor General Francis Biddle became attorney general.

Backed by Five Justices.

One high ranking member of the judiciary committee, who refused to be quoted, said he had been told "on high authority" that five New Deal justices of the Supreme court, headed by Felix Frankfurter, had written to President Roosevelt urging Corcoran's appointment as solicitor general. Corcoran was one of Prof. Frankfurter's prodigious "hot dogs" at the Harvard university law school.

Chairman Van Nuys said an administration spokesman approached him with respect to Corcoran's chances of committee approval. The senator said a survey indicated his committee would reject the nomination unanimously. But first, he said, there would be an exhaustive investigation of Corcoran's activities.

Such an investigation has been demanded by many senators, so far without hope of success.

Shielded by Pendergast Henchman.

Senator Harry S. Truman [D., Mo.], who was sent to the senate by Kansas City's malodorous Pendergast machine, has been asked repeatedly to hale Corcoran before his special committee created to investigate the preparedness program. Truman, however, has evaded all such requests.

Corcoran resigned his nominal government job as special counsel for the Reconstruction Finance corporation about a year ago to escape the inhibitions of the Hatch act in working for President Roosevelt's election for a third term. Soon after the election he told friends that his next government job would be that of solicitor general of the United States.

Early this year Corcoran was quoted by friends as saying he intended to make a million dollars in one year and then return to the government service. More recently, it is related, he said he would have to "double the price or shorten the time," so great was the stream of cash coming in from government contractors and other clients subject to government regulation or reward.

Breaks Michigan Avenue Window; Takes 4 Radios

A window smasher was being sought by Chicago avenue police last night. Early yesterday, in sight of passing motorists, he rammed a heavy board thru the display window of the Zenith Radio corporation sales offices at 680 North Michigan avenue, and stole four portable radios, valued at $88, and a fishing reel. He carted his loot to his car and drove unhurriedly away. It was the third window smashing at the sales rooms in a year.

THEATERS USING PICTURES ON WAR FACE A BOYCOTT

New York, Sept. 19 [Special].—Insisting that no movies "which incite war hysteria are shown," C. C. Moskowitz, vice president of Loews, Inc., today said that moving picture theaters in Jersey City, N. J., operated by Loew's and others had been threatened with a boycott by the Hudson county [N. J.] chapter of the America First committee if they did not stop showing movies and news reels loaded with war propaganda.

Letters mentioning the impending boycott received by 35 theaters operated by Loew's, Warner Brothers, and Skouras Brothers were signed by Raymond J. Hanfield, chairman, under date of Sept. 15. They inclosed copies of the speech made in St. Louis on Aug. 1 by Senator Gerald P. Nye [R., N. D.], a member of the senate subcommittee investigating the movies.

Hanfield referred to the number of alleged war propaganda films which have been shown in Hudson county theaters. He added that it had been decided to start a campaign in Hudson county to combat such films by supplying the committee's several thousand members with daily lists of current propaganda pictures and the theaters showing them.

'Strange Bird' Pays Visit to Loop; It's Kingfisher

The "strange bird" which Adam Jasinski saw hopping around on the lower level of Wacker drive at Wabash avenue yesterday was a kingfisher. Adam, who lives at 5608 South Massasoit avenue and has always been a city dweller, captured the bird and ran into the barber shop of Anthony Dina at 203 North Wabash avenue. Dina, who was brought up in the country, readily called its name.

DIRKSEN BLASTED FOR ABOUT FACE ON WAR PROGRAM

Thill Calls on Congress to Guard Nation.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—A speech yesterday by Everett M. Dirksen [R., Ill.] urging united support of President Roosevelt's war policies drew a blistering retort today from one of his former colleagues in the no nintervention-ist bloc.

L. D. Thill [top] and E. M. Dirksen.

At the same time, recent utterances of Americans who still are opposing what they describe as the administration's steps toward war precipitated other clashes on the floor of the house.

No Reason to Surrender.

Replying to Dirksen, Representative Lewis D. Thill [R., Wis.] asserted he sees no reason why congress or "the militant minority" in congress should surrender its constitutional functions merely as a result of the President's "shoot-on-sight" order to protect shipments of American war materials for Britain. Thill, in a straw poll, found that the voters in his district [the 5th] are overwhelmingly opposed to the involvement of the United States in another European war.

Dirksen previously was one of the most outspoken opponents of the administration's war policies. But yesterday he took the floor in open support of Mr. Roosevelt's dictates, particularly in connection with the shooting order. While other members on both sides of the chamber listened in open mouthed amazement, Dirksen asserted partisanship must be submerged as an aid to what he termed the administration's efforts to avoid sending another expeditionary force to fight overseas.

Dirksen was rebuffed today when he called on Senator Robert A. Taft [R., O.] and sought support of his campaign to terminate all opposition to the President's policies. It was learned Senator Taft told Dirksen he intends to continue his opposition to war unless and until congress declares war.

Taft May Repudiate Proposal.

Taft, a leading contender for the Republican Presidential nomination in 1940, is expected to issue a statement repudiating Dirksen's proposal.

"If, in the considered judgment of most of us, our entry into this war is evil," Rrepresentative Thill replied today, "there was nothing which occurred on Sept. 11, the day the Roosevelt shooting order was issued, to make our entry into the war right.

"If logic, reason, and morality tell us Roosevelt's action was wrong, how can we be so crass, craven, and unrighteous as to give up our function as a congress or as a militant minority in congress, and surrender the best interests of our country."

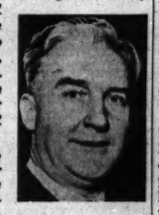
SPEED TRAP CURB HAILED BY CHIEF OF STATE POLICE

Carr Praises Laws to End Pecuniary Motives.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 19.—Chief Leo Carr of the state police today urged justices of the peace to take advantage of two legislative acts, approved by Gov. Green, to end the money motive for the operation of speed traps.



Leo Carr.

The new laws, sponsored by Senator Clyde Lee [D., Mount Vernon] and supported in the lower chamber by Representative Allen Ashcraft [R., Evanston], provide that outside Chicago all fines for violations of the state traffic law shall be transmitted to the county treasury. Fines for violations within municipalities previously were transmitted to city road funds.

Blow to Village Traps.

"This amendment ends one common form of speed trap—the village that hires a policeman to make traffic arrests, not for safety, but to bolster the city treasury," Carr said. "In some villages the town marshal was required to make enough traffic arrests so the fines would cover his salary.

"The operation of the new laws also can end another money motive for speed traps. The county treasury, from this new source of revenue, can pay the justices their costs in acquittals."

Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor Club, said compliance with Carr's suggestion will give motorists for the first time an impartial tribunal when arraigned before police magistrates and justices of the peace.

Court Decision Cited.

Hayes cited a decision by the United States Supreme court in 1927 holding that a defendant was deprived of his constitutional right for an impartial court when the judicial officer had a pecuniary interest in a conviction.

"Illinois justices of the peace and police magistrates receive fees only in convictions, with the fees assessed against the defendants," Hayes said. A dormant statute provides that the court fees in acquittals may be paid from county funds. But the counties have declined to pay on the ground they have had no revenue to cover this expense.

"This new county income from fines, collected from motorists, should properly be spent for the benefit of motorists. If this revenue is used to pay court costs in acquittals, the judicial officers no longer will have their present pecuniary incentive to convict."

AMERICAN RADIO TO PROPAGANDIZE GERMAN PEOPLE

WRUL to Get an Added 100,000 Watts of Power.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 19 (AP).—Plans to "try to break the German people away from the yoke of nazism" by means of "intensified" radio broadcasts from an American short wave station designed to be the most powerful in the world were disclosed today by Walter S. Lemmon, president of the World Wide Broadcasting Foundation.

Founder of station WRUL, now the strongest short wave unit in the western hemisphere, Lemmon said the Federal Communications Commission had authorized the establishment of new transmission facilities that eventually will add another 100,000 watts of power to the foundation's radio arm.

[Lemmon, who says he became acquainted with President Wilson at the Paris peace conference in 1918, has been operating his radio station for several years. It specializes in foreign broadcasts with coöperation of the government.]

Declaring plans already had been made to "double our broadcasts within 60 days to the German people and to German speaking people in occupied countries," he added:

"Due to the reverses the Germans are now experiencing in the war, we feel that it's a good opportunity to talk to the German people and to do so in somewhat different fashion than heretofore. Now we're really going to make a drive to reach the people and show them what they have lost in culture under the Hitler régime."

In the beginning, he said, the broadcasts will be directed to reach German listeners at night, but eventually other programs will reach them "before they have a chance to hear the Nazi propaganda."

STRANGLED GIRL IDENTIFIED—FOR ONLY FEW HOURS

Lost Woman's Birthmark Lacking on Body.

Another strange chapter in the case of the young woman found strangled Aug. 21 in Rogers Park was written last night when a tentative identification of the victim by federal agents and police of Kansas City, Mo., appeared to have been disproved. The new development involved a birthmark and a murder in San Bernardino, Cal., eight years ago.

Previous efforts to identify the woman have been fruitless altho thousands of persons viewed her body from the time it was found until it was buried last Wednesday in Oak Ridge cemetery. The identification, which seemed valid for several hours yesterday, named her as Mrs. Roszita Louise Webb, 22 years old, of Kansas City. Photographs of the strangle victim were brought to that city by a federal agent in the course of his business travels around the country.

Identified by Mother, Friends.

In midafternoon Detective Lester Haupt of the Kansas City homicide squad said these pictures of the girl and her clothing had been identified positively by Mrs. Ruby Rickey, mother of Mrs. Webb, and five friends. Mrs. Webb separated from her husband five years ago and had not seen her mother for two years.

Haupt said Mrs. Webb had been living with Leslie Custer, a hotel clerk. Custer said Mrs. Webb was believed to have left Kansas City Aug. 1 with a man named Roy [or Ray] Malloy. Custer, according to Haupt, said he recognized Malloy from a picture in a detective story magazine as a man sought by California authorities for the slaying of William E. Jenkins at San Bernardino in September, 1933. Both men were privates at the army air corps base at March field, Cal., at that time.

Hinges on a Birthmark.

Haupt said identification of Mrs. Webb as the strangle victim hinged on a birthmark which her mother described. Investigators here examined their records in the case and said the dead woman did not have such a birthmark.

Kansas City police then said they weren't so sure of the identification. They had learned by that time that Custer wasn't sure that the photographs were those of Mrs. Webb. He said he would come here, however, to aid in the inquiry. The Kansas City authorities have lost interest in the case and wouldn't pay his transportation. So he's hitchhiking.

CONTINUE CASE OF 2 POLICE WHO SHOT PHEASANTS

The case of two state highway policemen who were arrested Sept. 3 on a charge of shooting pheasants out of season was continued yesterday to Sept. 26 by Justice of the Peace E. P. Steinbrinck of Palatine.

One of the defendants, Marvin K. Carlson, 5512 North Richmond street, has been suspended from the state force and the other, Lawrence Bardel, 4129 Gladys avenue, has been discharged. The continuance was requested by Assistant State's Attorney Samuel Freedman, who said he was uncertain whether a justice of the peace could have jurisdiction in a case involving a possible six months' jail sentence.

TWO POLICEMEN DISCHARGED FOR ACCEPTING BRIBE

The police trial board yesterday ordered the discharge of Lieut. Arthur F. Patten and Patrolman John J. McDermott of the South Chicago district for soliciting and accepting a $40 bribe from a truck owner last month.

V. F. Johnson, 5724 Chappel avenue, owner of an interstate trucking business, told investigators for the police department that he paid McDermott $40 after the patrolman suggested he had better "play ball" or be arrested for not having city license stickers on his trucks. According to Johnson, McDermott said $25 of the money was for Lieut. Patten.

The lieutenant had been with the police force since 1908. McDermott joined the force in 1917.

F. D. R. IS EXPECTED TO SIGN NEW TAX BILL OF 3½ BILLIONS TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Sept. 19.—With a few scratches of his pen, President Roosevelt tomorrow is expected to set in motion government machinery which will dig an additional 3 billion 553 million dollars a year out of the pockets of American taxpayers.

His signature, which is expected to be affixed in the study of the President's ancestral home, will make the largest tax bill in the nation's history a law of the land. The government will begin collecting new taxes at the moment the bill is signed, as new inheritance and gift taxes will become effective as of the date of the signing.

Excise taxes will become effective Oct. 1.

TRUCKER BLAMES DRINKS FOR WILD SHOOTING SPREE

Thomas Sackellson, 30 years old, a truck driver, had a few drinks in a saloon yesterday and then completely forgot what happened. That's what he told Maxwell street police who are holding him for shooting Andrew Contore, 19, of 714 South Morgan street.

The police said Sackellson fired a revolver indiscriminately in front of 917 Vernon Park place. One of the bullets struck Contore in the shoulder and lodged in his neck. The victim's uncle, Richard Basile of 843 Taylor street, who was nearby, chased Sackellson and subdued him with several blows on the head with a pistol. Several shots were fired during the chase.

Sackellson said he lives at 1512 Washington boulevard.

QUOTING ABRAHAM LINCOLN

Fairly, Fully, Firmly.

It is in the constitution, and I do not for that cause, or any other cause, propose to destroy, or alter, or disregard the constitution. I stand to it, fairly, fully, and firmly.

A. Lincoln

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 16, 1854.

THE RECORD.

A subscriber has written to us to say that he, too, opposes entering the European war. He adds that "in recent discussions I have noticed that there seems to be some confusion about THE TRIBUNE'S attitude. Some say that your policy is guided too much by politics." In this connection he says that in a world of force we must be prepared to defend ourselves and "to follow our own aggressive foreign policy. . . . Like many other ex-service men I was disappointed that we did not institute and continue universal military service after the last war." He suggests a restatement of our views.

The suggestion is a welcome one.

The people who say that THE TRIBUNE'S opposition to war, our view of foreign policy, and our attitude toward national defense today are to be explained as the product of partisan bias can't be speaking from the record. Whether deliberately or otherwise, they are misrepresenting the truth.

So far as national defense is concerned we have always been for a strong navy and an adequate army. Older readers may remember that we favored the building of the white squadron fifty years ago. Over the years we have preached the unwisdom of dividing the fleet between the two oceans. For a generation ours was almost the only voice crying for acquisition of bases on the islands off our shores. For years we protested against the diversion of naval funds which should have gone into shipbuilding and went instead into political naval stations up and down the coasts. All these points were stressed in Democratic as well as Republican administrations.

Our criticism today is directed not against the expansion of our naval strength but against the old fashioned ideas which continue to obsess the naval administration. This war has taught that fundamental changes are necessary. We know now that battleships are no longer our first or our greatest need for the defense of our shores. We know that the approaches to this country can be defended from the air. The huge effort and expenditure which are now going into ship construction are largely misdirected. Attention now should be concentrated upon the building of a fleet of long distance bombers, torpedo planes, and fighter planes to escort them. From the experience in Norway and Crete we know that battleships can be driven away by air attacks; transports are even more vulnerable. From the finding and sinking of the Bismarck we know that battleships can hide from a surface fleet, but not from the air arm.

THE TRIBUNE today, as for fifty years, is advocating defense off our shores which no enemy can penetrate. For almost as long a period we have been pressing for improvements in the army. In the years after 1918—the years in which those who are now howling loudest for war were calling us bloody minded militarists—we insisted that the last war had not been fought and we continued to advocate universal military training. If that idea had been adopted by either the Republican or Democratic administrations, upon which it was urged impartially, the present wasteful and unsatisfactory experience with the draft would have been avoided. We did succeed in getting the R. O. T. C. firmly founded.

We exposed the absurdity of scattering our small army among many posts, but had little success against the intrenched political interest in this inefficiency. We argued for the establishment of a field army, highly mobile and highly trained. That suggestion won the approval of the army command and was eventually adopted. Had the proposal been adopted in time the army would have had the corps of trained and experienced officers and noncoms with which to train recruits in an emergency.

THE TRIBUNE has been critical of the draft because it isn't giving us the kind of army we need. The objection is not to the principle of universal service for which we have consistently stood, but to the absurdity of calling hundreds of thousands of young men to the colors when there are as yet few officers who have learned enough about modern war to teach it to others, and when there is a severe shortage of modern arms. At the time the draft was instituted we regarded it as a political move, intended to spread war hysteria and to hornswoggle the people into the belief that they had an army which was ready for war. We believed, and still believe, that the draft was a step and a long one in the direction of an American expeditionary force.

Our position on military affairs has been related, of course, to our position on foreign policy. Partisan considerations have not guided our thought. We opposed the Democratic effort to get us into the league of nations and the Republican effort to get us into the league thru the back door of the world court. When the Republicans came along with the Kellogg pact we ridiculed it as the pretentious and unrealistic nonsense it soon proved to be in Manchuria and Ethiopia. We have consistently accepted as the wisest of foreign policies for this country that which was laid down by Washington. We are for America. We do not hate any country more than we love our own. We do not love any other country more than our own. We are confident that with reasonable prudence we can defend our own country against any invasion, and accordingly we are under no necessity to enter European alliances or fight preventive wars.

In accordance with these principles we do not believe that the country is under a moral obligation, or any other kind of obligation, to send an American army to Europe to fight under British or any other command; we do not believe that enough can be gained in such a war, even if it results in the conquest of Germany, to justify the sacrifice of a million American lives. We do not hanker for the rôle of world policeman.

We are against national bankruptcy and inflation and will continue to be against them. Those who are shouting for war are oblivious to these and all the other expectable consequences of the course they are advocating. They hate Hitler or love Britain to the point of sacrificing American prosperity, American welfare, and America's future as a free country on the altar of their passion. That seems to us to be both stupid and wicked.

We have resisted the trend toward war as we have consistently opposed all the schemes—whether Republican or Democratic—to involve the country in the European system of power politics. The risks the war party is asking us to take are appalling; the possible gains are in comparison negligible. Only mass excitement and hysteria can explain what enthusiasm exists in this country for participation in this war.

THE CIRCUMSTANCES REQUIRE THIS EXPLANATION.

Attention has already been called in these columns to the impropriety of Col. Lindbergh's reference to the Jews in his Des Moines speech. The remark was ill-considered in several senses. Every one will agree that it violated a cardinal principle of public discussion in this country; and every one who is aware of the facts will reject the inference that all Jews, or most Jews, in this country are citizens whose loyalty is divided. That is not true and it should not have been said or suggested.

Col. Lindbergh spoke under the auspices of the America First committee and in the circumstances the committee should have taken the precaution to examine the manuscript of the speech in advance. A man who speaks for himself is, of course, free to say what he pleases, subject to the laws against slander, incitement to violence, etc.; but when a man speaks in the name of others he must accord them the right, and they must accept the duty, of seeing that their position is not misrepresented.

Col. Lindbergh has had no great experience as a public speaker, but in his previous addresses he had disclosed clear thinking and an absence of passion and prejudice. He had conducted his side of the debate on the plane of reason. It was easy to assume that he would adhere to it steadfastly.

For our part, we had no suspicion to the contrary. Some five weeks ago we prepared for tomorrow morning's TRIBUNE a page showing the medals which Col. Lindbergh had received in recognition of his trail blazing flight to Paris. These pages were off the press before the Des Moines speech was made. We are confident that none of our readers will assume that the publication of this page at this time is to be regarded as in any sense an evidence of approval of the Des Moines speech.

TIME FOR A VISIT TO PEORIA.

Congressman Dirksen of Peoria astonished his Republican colleagues from Illinois Thursday with a speech in which he indorsed President Roosevelt's policy of sending the navy out to look for a war.

Some of them speculated that he may have fallen for Mr. Willkie's blandishments and contemplates running as an interventionist candidate against Senator Brooks in the primaries next spring. This does little credit to Mr. Dirksen's common sense. He must realize that the honest Republicans of the country gave Mr. Willkie back to the Democrats last January.

A more plausible explanation is that Mr. Dirksen has been in Washington too long. He has given every indication of being a level headed and capable congressman, characteristics on which THE TRIBUNE has commented with pleasure. But even the stoutest hearts may have misgivings in the Washington atmosphere in these days. It is the present tactics of the war mongers to present opposition to their drive as a hopeless cause, in spite of the fact that 80 per cent of the people are still against them. They want the 80 per cent to believe that there is nothing to do to stop them, and that the only thing left is to climb on the bandwagon.

That sort of argument may seem persuasive in the artificial atmosphere of Washington, but it is not persuasive to the rest of the country. Mr. Dirksen needs to come back to Illinois for a few days and find out what the people down in his Peoria district are thinking and talking about. He will find that they are not resigned to jumping on any war bandwagon, and they will not think kindly of leaders who desert them in the only field in which its progress can effectively be checked—the congress.

Editorial of the Day

WHAT COULD HE SAY?

[Pulaski Enterprise, Mound City, Ill.]

Sunday morning Gov. Dwight Green appeared at Crab Orchard lake, that $3,500,000 expense to the people, and rode a motor boat, perhaps for 25 miles. He took the wheel, and when he landed he said he had enjoyed it a great deal.

That was about all he said about the experience. The state had turned it down as a gift from the government. In his mind he saw what we have seen, we think. He saw that this great exodus of farmers had been forced and some of it was in a rather harsh manner unbecoming a democracy.

Then he thought of the money spent. At the lowly rate of 2 per cent that is $70,000 per year, and to repay or earn itself back another $70,000 for years upon years. He saw the cost of upkeep of this sprawling body of water, whose shores five years from now will be filled with weeds and brush and not be the clear shore lines they now are. And the cost of maintaining the lake and keeping the bathing beach in operation, emptying garbage cans, building roads, policing and such things over nearly 100 miles of shore, would be $100,000 per year easily.

It takes a lot of fishing and hunting and swimming to be worth $100,000 per year and then pay $70,000 interest. As a public expenditure to yield returns he probably saw it as sound thinking must see it—a rather expensive piece of work destined to yield scant returns.

And if any praise came from him it was not published. What can sound thinking, economical minded people think? The sum for that lake would have built 35 high schools costing $100,000 each for this district. That sum spent at Carbondale Normal would have given it equipment that would have rivaled the University of Illinois. It would have built 100 miles of paved road or it would have built 70 municipal swimming pools costing $50,000, and those would be real pools.

What could a governor of an economical and sensible turn of mind say? Is fishing, boating, swimming, and hunting more important than schools, universities, roads—yes, and sanitary swimming pools in 70 towns and cities of a third of the state?

MR. PEPYS DOES HIS CHORES.

20th Sept.—Went to the first play of the season last Monday and found my old friend, Private Munro, on guard in the lobby wearing his manager's first-night uniform, which was a dress suit. Saw the drama critics on their aisle-seat thrones, huffing and puffing in eagerness to go to work after months of idleness, and learned that nearly all had spent their vacations in California and, of course, they had not missed Hollywood, where there is a great congregation of mummers. Admired a girl in the play named Phyllis Thaxter, a quaint and sprightly lass, and predicted she will become famous.

Did nothing much the rest of the week but sit at my desk in the office working, and in my chair at home reading tales about curious murders. Have been patching up my Line Book, which is to appear for sale on Thanksgiving day, and find this task strains my eyes, and maybe I should go to be tested for new spectacles.

Received a shipment of buckeyes, a nut that cures rheumatism and brings good luck if carried in the pocket, from Mrs. Fursch of Monmouth, who has such a tree in her garden, and I gave choice specimens to various friends. Also received a sprig of white heather from Alexander Davidson of Glasgow, Scotland, who said he was sending a box of heather and thistle, and hoped it would come safely thru the battle of the Atlantic. Last year Aleck did the same thing, and I sent him in return a sprig of goldenrod, which he said was much like the Australian plant called wattle.

Many odd things come to me in the mail, and if I do not acknowledge them it is only because I am too busy, having no help with my letters, but I find them all amusing and use them to brighten the lives of my fellow workers who have their noses to the grindstone, poor wretches, most of the time. . . . Next week there are great plans for a 50th birthday celebration at my alma mater, and I shall go out there an evening or two to recall the good old days when the library was in the gymnasium and Mr. Stagg feared Purdue.

A DREAMER GROWS OLDER.

O, you have been a troubador
With gay songs in the night;
A conquering conquistador
Exhibiting his might;
A grimy, groping sourdough
Gone mad in search of gold. . . .
But that was many dreams ago
And men grow stiff and old.

So put away those childish dreams,
For you are grown and gray,
And in your eye no longer gleams
The fire of yesterday.
Aspiring, buoyant youth has gone
And, dozing in its place,
A slightly scarred Endymion
Anticipates embrace.

Well, Tommy, now you're ready. Soon you'll go.
Your suitcase is in order, that I know:
Just shirts and things for three days, so they said,
Because instead
You'll have a uniform—I hope it fits.
At least when all this foolish war stuff quits
You will have filled it out, and not one man
In khaki tan
Will look as fine as you. You're tall and strong—
I saw to that. Not one thing wrong
Could all those doctors find. You'll do all right
In any fight—
Tho naturally I haven't any fears
That you'll be gone much more than two short years.

THE YOUNGSTER WHO ALWAYS HAS A COLD.

I WONDER if we pay enough attention to the youngster who seems to have one cold after another? With some of our little ones, a nasal discharge [running nose] may be present for months. All of which indicates that Johnny's resistance is quite too low to overcome a deep-seated infection.

The lad may be unusually pale and undernourished, despite the fact that ample food is provided. The reason is that absorption is imperfect. Thus anemia may be part of the picture with the red coloring [hemoglobin] in the blood depleted. Not infrequently he is accustomed to play vigorously—to lead the crowd. In consequence, there may be so much nervous tension that enough rest is not obtained. He doesn't gain weight because, as the old saying has it, "He runs the flesh off his bones."

After a time, a chronic sinus infection may establish itself. The bony spaces within the skull become poorly ventilated, bacteria flourish within them, and there appears a rather steady drip of pus laden mucus down the back of the throat. The menace of this situation lies in the fact that much of this noxious material may be swallowed and mixed with the edibles. If the child will open his mouth, and gag slightly when the handle of a spoon is pressed against the back portion of the tongue, this purulent secretion will be seen clinging to the back wall of the pharynx. In time, headaches, a foul odor of the breath, and general malaise will ensue.

To insure normal development, we must help the tot to get rid of the infection. Nothing succeeds quite so well as a program which will boost reserve in every possible fashion. This means raising nutrition to a high level, stimulating the appetite with vitamins and tonics, and teaching the youngster to gargle and irrigate the airways. In other words, we can wash away the pus before it has a chance to enter the digestive tract. Occasionally, one of the sulfanilamide drugs will be helpful.

Of course, we must not forget allergy, as many of these boys and girls will be "nose rubbers," a symptom which often accompanies some type of sensitivity. If, in addition, there is a morning sneezing spell, we may start on the hunt for a food or other substance which may be acting as a "starter."

Now and then a slight thyroid deficiency will be detected. Physicians have found that prescribing a very tiny dose of thyroid extract may work wonders. But the procedure must be undertaken with caution as a rapid heart may develop if too much is given. Many a child, however, will blossom physically under the influence of minute amounts of this powerful hormone.

But the most valuable plan I know of is forced feeding, plenty of sunshine, and adequate rest. If the blood is below standard, iron can be given as needed. Milk between meals is more thoroly digested than when included in the regular menu. It is well borne by one who is underweight.

We can be careful also about general hygiene. Daily baths are essential and sufficient clothing will be demanded. The latter must be loose enough to encourage normal activity. Warm, dry feet is the rule always. No matter how much of a "sissy" a boy may be regarded by his schoolmates, the wearing of rubbers or overshoes in inclement weather may change the picture abruptly.

We may recall the oft used quotation from Pope, "Just as the twig is bent, the tree's inclined." Our offspring deserve the best possible start in life. And any infection that hangs on will work against vigorous manhood and womanhood. We have no right to regard lightly the presence of an abscess anywhere about the body—least of all in the sinuses, from which sewage can so readily mix with what we eat.

EXERCISING THE LUNGS.

K. G. writes: What exercise will strengthen the lungs of a patient with arrested tuberculosis?

REPLY.

Those designed to expand the chest and hence provide more room for the air cells within. One such maneuver consists of standing erect, arms at the sides. Raise the arms and inhale slowly until the hands are straight above the head. Hold the breath, drop the arms quickly, and exhale slowly. Repeat six or eight times morning and evening. However, proper care of the general health—maintaining nutrition and obtaining plenty of rest—is more important. The patient must avoid fatigue.

TENDER AREA.

G. G. writes: When I sit down I suffer pain at the base of my spine. What could be wrong?

REPLY.

Possibly some trouble with the coccyx—the rudimentary tailbone. Rectal disease should be investigated. An X-ray will determine the presence of trouble in the lower spine. A soft cushion or a rubber ring may help.

DOES NOT CHEW.

Mrs. A. F. writes: My 2½ year old daughter has trouble masticating her food. She uses only the front teeth and not the molars. What can the difficulty be?

REPLY.

We all avoid painful procedures. Perhaps this is a case of poor occlusion. Ask the dentist to investigate.

"I DIDN'T MEAN IT."

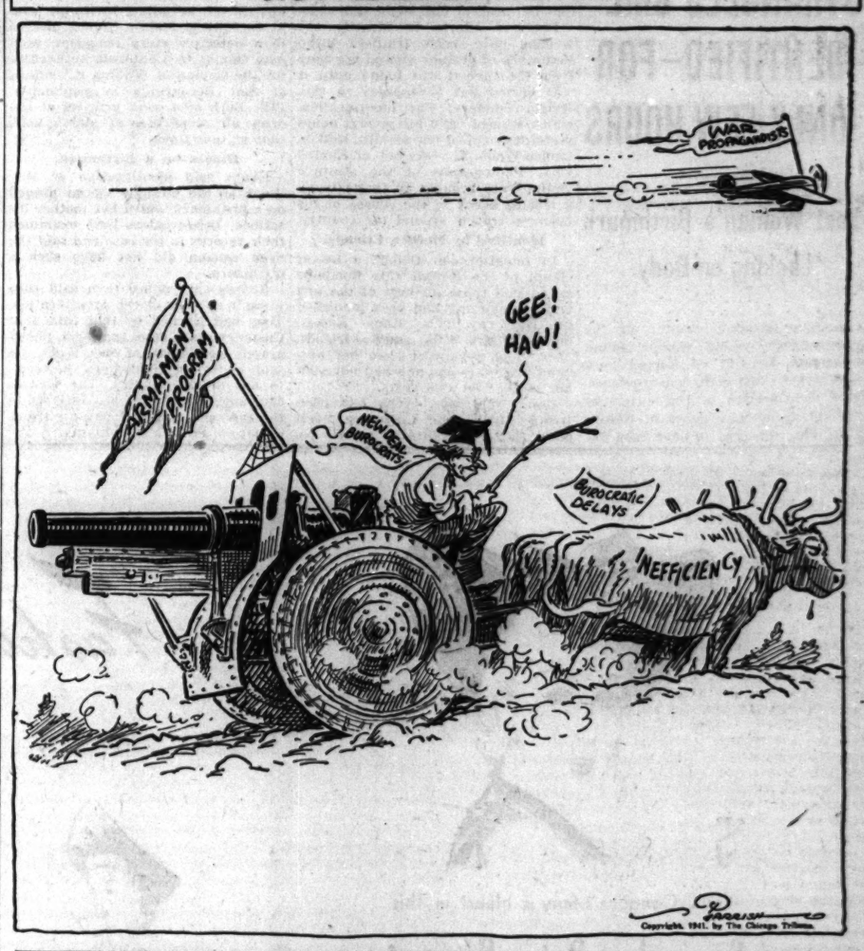
M. C. writes: Why can't I think before I speak? Sometimes things pop out that I do not mean to say at all.

REPLY.

A common regret.

Practice deliberation and cultivate poise. Count ten—or even five.

NOT KEEPING PACE



VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Space for letters is obviously limited. Incoming mail far exceeds it. If a letter is not printed, attribute it to lack of room. Address letters to Voice of the People, THE TRIBUNE.

SUGAR COATED PROPAGANDA.

Chicago, Sept. 16.—A mood of investigation led me to the Apollo theater last Sunday to find out what's being served up there as "the greatest picture ever made." "Major Barbara" turned out to be a cordial British invitation to join in the international blood bath overseas. I resent it.

It is propaganda at its smoothest. In a prologue Bernard Shaw addresses the American movie public. The whimsical tone of the white-haired Irish humorist might easily beguile the unwary spectator into acceptance of his taunts and accusations of parsimony on the part of this country in the matter of help to England in her "war on slavery."

He tells how, as a small boy, he read about the American Civil war and the resultant abolition of black slavery; he was fired then and there with a resolve to devote the rest of his life to the abolition of white slavery. Then, says the spider to the fly: "I hope that you will have a hand in that abolition as you had in the last abolition."

Thanks for the gilt-edged invitation, Mr. Shaw. But acceptance would involve the slight matter of loss of life for those who would bear the actual brunt of it—whether they come out of it alive or dead. Speak lightly of your own life if you like—but some one else's life is not yours to dispose of.

The film is masked with disarming mockery of British thick-headedness—only to end in a paean in praise of war and the liberations it achieves. For whom? For the soldiers? Or are human liberty and decency not meant for them?

The pill is cleverly coated, but I could not swallow it. I resent it. Take it away, Barney! LIZZIE LOU.

THE FOREIGN LANGUAGES.

Chicago, Sept. 17.—In your column today is a letter about "what ails the foreign language department in the Chicago public high schools."

There is nothing wrong with the textbook. If our friends would only realize that it takes a native to teach these languages, that would be the answer to your question.

But why should we put foreigners to teach in our public schools? Why not? Don't we Americans get everything we want in foreign countries?

Our board of education could also use Americans who really know these languages, but cannot be given a chance because they only had high school education. I tried it. J. FLOWERS.

Fort Lewis, Wash., Sept. 16.—We wish to thank every one for the replies we received in response to our request for correspondents. We assure them that each and every one will be answered by some lonely soldier. It provides a pastime, an interest-thing to occupy some of our leisure time. We also thank THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

LEGAL CONVEYANCE.

Chicago, Sept. 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Will a quit claim deed conveying real estate, not in common tenancy but in joint tenancy, be required to be probated, so that the surviving tenant can dispose of same?

2. What is surtax, if any? H. S.

1. If the deed is delivered and recorded during the lifetime of the grantor then we see no need of probate.

2. A surtax is an increased tax applied to higher brackets of income or inheritance. If you will state your facts, we will endeavor to advise.

If the deed expressly provides for "joint tenancy" as distinguished from "tenancy in common," then on death of one of the tenants the title will go to the survivor without necessity for probate and to the exclusion of the heirs or devisees of the one who dies first [33 C. J. 908, 915]. The half that thus passes by survivorship is subject to inheritance tax.

If title is already in one of the parties, the creation of the joint tenancy involves an intermediate conveyance to a third party, who will then reconvey to the intended joint tenants, using a joint tenancy form obtainable from a stationer. Make sure that the third party is not subject to judgment liens.

As to personal property, the Illinois statute says that the "will or other instrument in writing" must express "an intention [presumably that of the previous owner] to create a joint tenancy . . . with the right of survivorship." The mere fact that money is deposited to the account of "A and B" or of "A or B," or that A. and B. have joint access to a safety box containing bearer bonds, would not be enough. 3 C. J. 908, 915; 19 C. J. 473.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

TREES NEED FOOD, TOO.

Chicago, Sept. 17.—The damage inflicted on the west suburbs by last week's storm is regrettable. My heart goes out to those folks who lost all or even part of their trees. Think of the sentiment that must have been involved, the years of local history spanned, and the care with which the early life of many of these trees was guarded. They may not have been selected as carefully as they would be today in light of our advanced knowledge of what a good city tree should be, but I think there are several practices we can employ to protect and strengthen our city trees.

In planning new real estate developments and streets we can see that there is plenty of boulevard space for adequate root growth. Also in new plantings we can select trees that have proven themselves capable of growing well under difficult city conditions, and there is a long list of these trees. Furthermore, inasmuch as a tree is a plant it needs plant food or nutrients from the soil just as a human body needs nourishment. A regular program of tree feeding will develop stronger root systems that grip the soil with a "do or die" tenacity. Such trees are hard to topple over.

Most any one will agree that trees are a priceless investment—so why not protect that investment with a little care?

A TREE LOVER.

A FILM WORTH A BATTLESHIP.

Chicago, Sept. 15.—With reference to the investigation of the movies I call your attention to the following:

On Oct. 16, 1940, over the Columbia Broadcasting system the commentator from London stated that comments in the London papers were to the effect that Chaplin's picture, "The Dictator," was worth a battleship.

The British captain, Sidney Rogerson, in his book, "Propaganda in the Next War," says:

"But in modern times by far the most successful, if not the greatest, propaganda force that the world has ever witnessed is the American film industry."

Further on the same author says:

"I have already said that the United States made film represents one of the greatest undirected or spontaneous propaganda forces the world has ever seen."

SOMEBODY'S MOTHER.

Chicago, Sept. 17.—Walking down Michigan avenue at night, past the beautiful buildings, I see in each dimly lighted vestibule a kneeling woman, somebody's mother, scrubbing the floors of the palaces of commerce. In such a civilization as ours is this necessary?

SENTIMENTALIST.

SENDS A LINCOLN STORY.

Lockport, Ill., Sept. 17.—Since it has become quite the thing to quote Lincoln, I presume I am entitled to the same privilege.

President Lincoln and Secretary Stanton attended a lecture by Bishop Simpson in Wesley chapel, Washington. The bishop told an anecdote about a Kentuckian asked by an Englishman what were the boundaries of our country. The Kentuckian replied the United States were "bounded on the east by the rising sun, on the west by the procession of the equinox, on the north by the aurora borealis, and on the south by the day of judgment." This reminded the President of the following story, which he told subvoce to those around him:

"John Bull met with a North American Indian, and was anxious to impress him with the greatness of the British empire. 'The sun,' said Mr. Bull, 'never sets on English dominion. Do you understand how that is?' 'O, yes,' said the Indian, 'that is because God is afraid to trust them in the dark.'"

AN AMERICAN.

IT LOOKS FISHY TO HIM.

Rockford, Ill., Sept. 17.—So the Legion at the Milwaukee convention voted for another AEF. There is something fishy about this. Last week-end I personally talked to many of the Legion boys and not one favored an AEF.

From 1776 to 1914 we followed George Washington's advice against involvement in Europe and built a great nation. Since 1914 we have followed Wilson and Roosevelt and America is on the road to economic slavery and the loss of our democratic form of government.

F. W. NORRIS.

Western Springs, Ill., Sept. 18.—To destroy one rattlesnake, in the form of Hitlerism, the American Legion national convention condoned the use of another serpent that has snapped at the life blood of America for nearly a score of years; a viper that has been fought by the Legion for as many years. Just why one of the most cherished traditions and fundamentals of the Legion should so suddenly die will be a cause for concern when the enrollment of members for next year and the years to come takes place.

AEF AND LEGIONNAIRE.

HE'S BEEN IN VET HOSPITALS.

Chicago, Sept. 16.—All of our veterans' hospitals are crowded to capacity with long waiting lists. And all this from a war of 23 years ago.

How do I know? I've spent six of the last nine years in them.

I hate Hitler as much as I hated the kaiser—but let Britain and Russia take care of him, they can do it and let us mind our own damn business.

P. B. MARSHALL,
Ex-33d Division, AEF.

ANOTHER "FREEDOM" PLEASE.

Chicago, Sept. 18.—Speaking of the "four freedoms," could the writer ask for another—namely: "freedom from the politically appointed teacher in Chicago's schools?"

An English teacher's promotional list—grammar grades to high school—lies dormant. No appointments have been made from it in over one year. Temporary [political] appointees are reported in many cases to be teaching this all-important subject. J. K.

YACHT ROMANCE CHARGE ENTERS JARRATT TANGLE

Wife Files Bill Telling of Cruises with 'Mrs. P.'

Charges that single beds in connecting rooms aboard the sumptuous yacht Lenore owned by Walter Jefferson Jarratt, president of the Safety Vulcanizer company, gave way to a double bed in Jarratt's stateroom as his acquaintance improved with a Mrs. P. were contained in an amended bill for divorce filed yesterday in Superior court.

The accusations were made by Mrs. Ruth Jones Jarratt, of 229 Lake Shore drive, daughter of the late George Herbert Jones, philanthropist and one of the founders of the Inland Steel company. On his death last July 6 Jones left his daughter a life income from a $1,000,000 trust fund.

Ordered Him Out, He Says.

In her original divorce bill, filed last June, Mrs. Jarratt charged desertion. Jarratt's answer denied the charge, asserting that she had "ordered" him from her parents' home.

At a hearing Monday Mrs. Jarratt's attorneys, Robert Cantwell Jr. and William C. Boyden, produced an agreement under which she had settled $132,000 on Jarratt March 20, 1940, in anticipation of divorce. Cantwell charged that Jarratt had used the money to pay debts of his company.

Jarratt's lawyer, Lewis E. Pennish, said that the agreement was void because it was in effect a collusive understanding intended to result in a divorce, and because Jarratt, needing money for his business, had signed "under duress."

Tells of 17 Day Cruise.

In the amended bill, Mrs. Jarratt charged that her husband and Mrs. P. took a 17 day cruise on his yacht from Miami, Fla., to Norfolk, Va., in May, 1939 occupying adjoining staterooms. In August, 1939, she added, Mrs. P. made an overnight visit on the boat at Great Bridge, Va., and in October and November made other visits.

"During these visits of Mrs. P.," the bill stated, "she and the defendant occupied connecting staterooms, with one bed in each, but in the winter of 1939 the defendant caused the two single beds to be removed and a double bed placed in one of the staterooms."

Mrs. P. and Jarratt took an 11 day cruise on the yacht in January and February, 1940, from Norfolk to Thuderbolt, Ga., the bill continued, and were guilty of misconduct.

REPORT SUSPECT NAMED BY GRAND JURY IN SHOOTING

Robert Bock, 30 years old, a brother-in-law of Danny [Public Enemy] Stanton, was reported named by the grand jury yesterday in a true bill charging him with assault with intent to murder Fred Lozo, 25, a tavern owner. Lozo was shot in the right arm Thursday morning near 72d street and Eggleston avenue.

Before testifying before the grand jury, Lozo told Assistant State's Attorney William Crawford and Capt. Patrick Collins that he fought with Bock a week ago in a tavern near 79th street and Cottage Grove avenue. He said that Bock saw him in the tavern Thursday morning and followed him to the scene of the shooting.

The tavern owner refused to say what the quarrel was about, but police were informed that they fought over a tavern hostess. Bock is being sought by the police. Lozo, who is separated from his wife, lives at 7729 Fielding avenue.

GOON VIOLENCE FLARES IN RICH JUKE BOX FIELD

Operator Is Slugged; Police Quiz Rival.

is more difficult to describe the juke chain owners. They merchandise a highly uncertain product, and some of them are possessed of political influence that guarantees their territories. The loop tavern spots are controled by the Century Music company, reputedly under the thumb of Dennis Cooney, night club owner and a political power in the 1st ward.

On the north side and in the northwest suburbs the control of jukes is vested in the Apex Cigaret Service, Inc., behind which is Ed Vogel, an old Capone ally and a slot machine king. Other territories are in the hands of legitimate business men, enterprisers looking for a reasonable profit in a risky field.

Golden Era at First.

In the beginning there was a golden era for the operators. Tavern owners allowed them to install machines and keep all the income. But when the saturation point in boxes was reached, or nearly reached, a few years ago, operators began offering the tavern men a split which often ran up to 50 per cent. This was in effect an increase in the box owners' cost of doing business.

Another complicating factor was the unions, several of which claimed the rights to service. About three years ago the American Federation of Labor gave the jurisdiction to Boyle's union. His members make installations, and repairs, and collections. It is estimated that the average juke must return the owner $3 a week to pay expenses, and it is said that it is now customary to begin splitting with the taverns after that much is deducted.

Competition Is Disturbing.

Some operating companies have as much as $100,000 invested and have found cutthroat competition disturbing. They have been particularly alarmed by the "stealing" of each other's customers. To get rid of this they have an association, the Illinois Phonograph Owners, Inc. Among the officers are Dan Pallagi, an associate of Cooney; Joseph Mahoney, a Vogel helper, and Peskin. Maurice J. Korengold, president, says that 65 per cent of the Chicago area jukes are owned by association members.

The association has fought successfully against licensing of the machines. It has also promoted a gentlemen's agreement against the stealing of "spots" or taverns. Nathan's activities apparently violated this arrangement.

Owners are threatened now with the competition of sound movie machines, such as those rented by the Soundies company in which President Roosevelt's son, James, is a director and stock owner. Korengold said yesterday that this association believes the movie machines are too complicated and too expensive, and the production too small, to drive out the jukes for several years.

On View Today

A medieval monk's scriptorium, showing the life size figure of a cowled monk copying a 14th century manuscript by hand, will be open to the public today as a new exhibit in the graphic arts section of the Museum of Science and Industry in Jackson park. The exhibit, which shows how books were produced before the invention of printing, was presented by Theodore Regensteiner, president of a Chicago printing concern, at a dedication ceremony yesterday.

Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, president of the museum, accepted the scriptorium which has been in construction for five months. The monk is seated in an alcove, a full sized replica of one in the Gloucester cathedral in England, originally an abbey of monks, many of whom spent hours copying the Bible and other sacred books.

The museum staff and E. F. Detterer, custodian of the Wing foundation at the Newberry library, prepared the plans for the exhibit. The walls are of carved limestone in Gothic pattern and the furnishings include a medieval stool and a carved wooden high slanted desk.

Asks Return of Prisoner in Insurance Theft Case

Gov. Dwight H. Green sent requisition papers yesterday to Gallup, N. M., asking for the return to Chicago of Francis R. Carlin, former supervisor of the St. George Fraternal Insurance society, 330 South Wells street. Carlin, who was arrested several days ago in Gallup, has been charged here with embezzling $130,000 of the society's funds. In interviews at Gallup, he has admitted the charge and has indicated he will waive extradition and face trial.

TWO POINTS LEFT TO BE SETTLED IN AIRPORT DEAL

One Is on Maintenance of Control Tower.

Two controversial points remained last night to be settled in an agreement thru which the eight commercial airlines flying off Chicago airport will lend the city $1,200,000 interest free for construction of a new terminal building. This was announced by Ald. J. J. Duffy [19] after a five hour conference with airline representatives yesterday in the office of Oscar Hewitt, commissioner of public works.

Most important of the two is the city's demand that the airlines consent to a 10 per cent increase in rents and landing fees in 10 years. The operators want to maintain agreed schedules for 12 years, the period over which their loan is to be amortized. The second point concerns the $22,000 annual charge for operating the airport traffic control tower. The city wants the lines to pay 60 per cent of this cost, but the airlines refuse.

What Airlines Want.

Ald. Duffy said the companies have withdrawn their offers to lease the new terminal building from the city and operate it themselves. The flying companies wanted to operate their own restaurants and other comfort concessions in the new building, and establish their own systems for routing passengers and baggage to and from waiting airliners. They have conceded to the council the hiring and firing of employés and patronage privileges this entails.

At this time the city appropriates $170,000 annually for the operation of the field, including a pay roll of approximately $30,000 for 40 regular and a few temporary employés. Rentals and concessions at the airport bring in $55,000 annually. This sum is merged into the city's corporate fund, thus leaving an annual deficit of about $115,000, records in the office of Walter Wright, superintendent of recreation and aviation, indicated yesterday.

List of Employés.

Employés at the field include the following: Lieut. John Casey, airport manager, who is on duty 24 hours a day and who lives on the grounds; two assistant supervisors, two clerks, and a stenographer in Casey's office; five radio operators, five air traffic clerks, two maintenance foremen, two truck drivers, three electrician mechanics, three janitors, and a varying force of laborers and painters.

Enlargement of the field from 300 to 620 acres during the last three years, according to Wright, will not require any large increase in employés. Chiefly it will mean the addition of a few more electricians to maintain the elaborate boundary, obstruction, and runway lighting system now being installed. The same force now used to keep the field clear can do the job on the enlarged area because machinery is used for the heavy work.

More Workers Needed.

When the new terminal building is completed, however, a considerable number of new employés will be added to staff this building. These will include janitors, cleaning women, switchboard operators, and service help in general. The total number actually needed is not known and probably will not be determined until the building—now still in blueprint stage—is finished.

Commissioner Hewitt last night said he believes that increased revenue from the new terminal, including rents and concessions, will bring in sufficient additional funds to more than offset pay roll increases. Rental of more sites for hangars around the airport, he said, should bring in enough outside revenue to make the field self-sustaining after a short time.

Hewitt said that Chicago airport was costing less to operate than any large field in the country. He said the city in 1934 had offered to turn over the entire operation of the airport to the airlines, but the offer was turned down. He said the airline representatives had indicated to him that any similar offer at this time also would be turned down.

PUT ON PROBATION FOR THEFT.

Earl Murphy, 23 years old, 4156 Monroe street, was placed on probation for 90 days yesterday by Judge Charles S. Dougherty in Felony court after he pleaded guilty to the theft of five electric fans from the state unemployment office at 4812 Madison street.

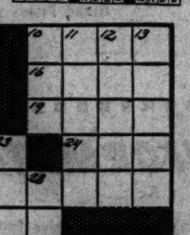
PUZZLE OF FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 19, SOLVED.



SUPREME COURT URGED TO NULLIFY VOTING DISTRICTS

Ruling on Congressional Fight Due in November.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 19 [Special].—The Illinois Supreme court today was urged to take action that in effect would abolish all of the state's present congressional districts. The court is expected to render a decision during the November term of court.

On appeal from a decision by the Madison county Circuit court, State Representative Anthony W. Daly [D., Alton] acted as chief counsel representing himself and two other taxpayers in support of a petition to enjoin state and Madison county officials from expending public funds for the election of congressmen from the present districts.

Daly's contention, also argued by his associate, Attorney Emerson Baetz, was that the inequalities among those districts, which were established in 1901, are so great that the votes of some citizens in congressional elections are worth only fractions of the votes cast by other citizens.

This situation, Daly and Baetz told the court, not only violates the American principle of equality, but also conflicts directly with the provision of the state constitution requiring that all elections shall be free and equal and the 14th amendment of the federal constitution prohibiting the abridgment of the rights of any citizen.

Daly reminded the court that a redistricting act passed by the legislature in 1931 was held invalid by the same court because the population of some districts were three times as large as the population of other districts.

Changes in population in the last 40 years—since the present districts were created—Daly continued, have been so great that the 7th district [Cook county] has a population of more than 900,000 while the 5th district, lying on the west side of Chicago, has shrunk to little more than 100,000. On a basis of equality, he said, each district now should include about 300,000 residents.

SYNOPSIS.

Gay Ripley, young American girl sent by a New York firm to Paris to buy antiques, runs into her snobbish Cousin Lou, who is Mrs. Hiram Rentrew, a rich widow. Her cousin insists that Gay stay with her, but soon after Gay moves in, her cousin is taken to a hospital, ill, and Gay is left in the apartment with her cousin's brother-in-law, Horace Rentrew, and the servants, Horiense and Manx. Gay goes to visit Cousin Lou in the hospital and runs into Miles Dorsey, a young Englishman, who is a junior partner in a firm that looks after Mrs. Rentrew's affairs, Raoul de Chabenil, a handsome young Frenchman, and Estrella, her cousin's dressmaker. Her cousin insists that Gay take her jewel box, with a valuable necklace in it, home and put it in the wall safe. Raoul insists on driving Gay home, and during the drive he bumps into another car and at the same time the jewel box is thrown to the floor of his car, but Gay retrieves it. That night Gay goes to dinner with Geoff and Catherine Macadam, old friends of hers, and Miles Dorsey. They see Raoul and Estrella in the café together and when Gay asks them about Raoul they act mysterious. Gay asks Miles to persuade her cousin to send the jewel box to the bank. When Gay gets home that night she learns her cousin has died. Gay, unable to sleep, is sure she hears some one in her room. The doctor says Mrs. Rentrew died of a stroke, but Horace demands an inquest. Gay learns from Catherine and Miles that Raoul is an unscrupulous gigolo.

INSTALMENT XII.

MISSING NECKLACE.

It seemed to me quite possible Geoffrey Macadam's partner had secretly cherished the very aspirations he now wanted to repudiate. Well, it was nothing in my life one way or the other, but I found myself thinking about it to such an idiotic extent I practically forgot the preposterous thing that had brought Mr. Dorsey tracking after me into the Trois Quartiers store.

Till I stepped inside the apartment. Back it came then, with a bang.

For there stood Horace, trembling with a stern glaze in his eye, pitching into a tall, dressy-looking American I instantly guessed was Dr. Charles Hornton. They didn't notice me at all. They were too full of hate.

Hornton said, "You've decided, have you, Rentrew?"

"I have, damn you! Now carry on with your killing."

"You'll regret this, you know. When my certificate is proved correct don't be shocked at what you've let yourself in for."

"When!"

Hornton was out, slamming the front door. Horace had seen me now, but I might have been a stranger. I tried quietly to pass, and that woke him. He put out a hand.

"You may as well know," he squeaked on a shaky note, "I'm demanding an inquest. Yes, I said inquest. I'm glad you're in, I'm waiting right now for the police."

"Mr. Rentrew! Police?"

"Yes, yes"—testily—"seems we have to have 'em. That fellow that just went out was her makeshift doctor. I've made him squirm! The things I've found out. . . . Puts a totally different light on things. O, don't badger me, in about a minute you and I'll have to answer a lot of questions. I—I've got to get on a fresh collar."

He broke from my hold.

I answer questions? What questions?

I felt suddenly gone inside.

I was still standing there in the hall when Horace came back in a clean collar and told me a few things. It all turned, it seemed, on a paper he'd found in the drawer of the Riesener table when he had been emptying it for the repairs. He hadn't paid any attention at the time, but after he went out to the nursing home this morning the paper he'd seen popped back into his mind, so he looked it up right away. Sure enough, it was a medical report, issued last year, on application for a life policy.

"But was Cousin Lou insuring her life?" I asked, astonished.

"She meant to. It was Hiram's idea. I expect he was worried about then over what this darned New Deal might do to the furniture trade. Only Hiram died in March, out in Grand Rapids, and Marise let the policy slide. The point is the insurance doctor described her heart as okay, her blood pressure as considerably better than normal for a woman of her age. Just 13 months ago! Now what about that?"

"You think Dr. Hornton made a wrong diagnosis?"

"Wrong! I'll say it was wrong. Hornton killed her. I've told him so. He let her die simply because he didn't take the trouble to find out her real trouble."

He was walking to and fro, waving his hands like flappers. I asked another question. He swung round and glared.

"What, alter to that extent in just over a year? It's unheard of. Can't happen. Ask any doctor. Hornton knows he's a worthless charlatan! He's jarred to pieces. Couldn't you see all he's doing is put up a magnificent bluff? No, no, it was some entirely different complaint—thrombosis, phlebitis, God alone knows what. But I'm going to find out, I tell you! I'm going to show that murdering dude up, or——"

"I wish," I said, "my brother Phil was here."

"Your brother! O, he's a doctor, is he?"

"Yes, and there are no flies on him. He's done two years' research up at the Medical Center. He——"

But Horace wasn't interested, he was raving again. The only time I managed to pin him down was when I asked him about the procedure in France. Could he secure an inquiry just by demanding it?

"Don't know. I'll make a good stab at it, you watch!"

I was getting more and more uncomfortable. The fact was, I'd often noticed that emotional people like Horace Renfrew sometimes have hunches that get nearer the truth than any cold-blooded logic. Horace had been attached to his sister-in-law for many years, had helped her choose her clothes, fetched and carried for her, in her own words put her on a pedestal. She had kept things from him just lately—with what success? I thought he was like a man fighting thru a fog—maddened by instinctive belief in the wrongness of my cousin's death, unable to analyze what he felt, but lashing in blind rage at the one person he could hold responsible.

Suddenly I remembered last night.

"Mr. Rentrew, I hate bothering you now, but—well, it's those jewels. You see, after we all went back to bed last night I had a strong suspicion some one got into my room."

He didn't speak. His eyes searched mine, his mouth fell slack, but almost at once I could see his mind going back to its bigger problem. I didn't think he actually heard half I was saying, but he led the way into Cousin Lou's bedroom, got the combination slip out of his wallet, and started opening up the safe.

"Looks all right." He fingered the black case undecidedly. "Yes, of course, I've the list of the stuff now. It—it was found under her pillows. I suppose I'd better check up."

I was feeling rather a fool when all at once I noticed the gap in the central partition. My heart stood still.

"There!" I pointed. "A square powder box. It's gone!"

Horace wanted to know if I were sure. He'd put on a pair of rimless, octagonal spectacles and was scowling over the list.

"I am sure." My head spun round. "A beige satin box. There was a sapphire bracelet inside and—and underneath a—a necklace. Cousin Lou showed it to me, that's how I knew."

A film unrolled before my eyes. It began with two men, one English, one French, outside the Helen Schuyler—and it ended at a lunch table in the Trois Quartiers. I was feeling absolutely sick.

"Necklace? You don't mean this pendant thing?"

"No, no, a diamond necklace! Antique, terribly valuable. It belonged to Marie Antoinette."

Horace slapped his thigh. Sweat was standing out again on his newly powdered skin, little pasty drops.

"My God! She did buy it? There you are!"

So Horace hadn't known. . . .

"But it's not here," I insisted. "I tell you I watched her fit it into this shelf. That's not all. It—it hadn't been insured."

That brough him to. For a long moment he looked at me, or thru me, squatting on his soft haunches, his trousers hitched up to preserve their crease. He was shaken, yes, but I didn't think it was in the way I'd expected. He seemed to be clearing his brain of cobwebs—among them, perhaps, a sentimental, hurt pride due to Cousin Lou's not having confided in him about her new purchase. Of a sudden, tho, he became the Horace I'd seen in the shop—practical, right on the job.

"You'd locked your doors?"

"Of course, but I hadn't noticed the door under the rug. In the dressing room. I did wonder——"

"O, that! I've never seen a key. I rather imagine it's been lost. Your curtains were blowing. . . . H'm, I expect that's what you heard. Now, see here! You carted this case home, didn't you? By taxi, or did Manx drive you?"

"Manx wanted to. He even took the case out of my hand and put it in my car, only——"

"Put it in the car! And then?"

"I made him give it back. I'd promised Cousin Lou not to let it out of my hand, and—and——" [O, why not tell Horace the truth now, it couldn't hurt any one but me? I'd have to tell the police.] I could do that in the other car. A friend of Cousin Lou's I'd just met in her room was offering me a lift."

"Friend! Dressmaker, you said. Did she come in a car?"

"No, a—a Frenchman, a Monsieur de . . . the man who used to own the château, if that's any help."

"De Chabenil! So he brought you home!"

Granted Divorce

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

MRS. ETHEL BIGGUS.

Mrs. Ethel Biggus, 32 years old, of 1409 North Paulina street, told Judge Rudolph Desort yesterday that her husband, John, 43, who weighs 190 pounds, was opposed to giving deserts to their three children on the ground that sweets would "whet their appetites." But, she said, when she took them walking, she returned to find that he had consumed a four pound roast, a pound and a half of bread, two dozen eggs, and a half pound of cheese.

"It doesn't seem possible," said the judge.

"You don't know my husband's appetite," Mrs. Biggus responded.

Mrs. Biggus, who charged drunkenness, was granted a divorce and $15 a week support for herself and the children, Edna, 13; Roger, 11, and Gilbert, 7. She was represented by Attorneys Joseph H. and Norman Becker.

MORE VICTIMS TELL OF PEANUT FORTUNE DREAM

Relate Sales Methods at Fraud Trial.

Elderly men and women, most of them past 70, were the principal witnesses yesterday at the trial of 23 men charged with using the mails in a scheme to defraud midwesterners of $832,709 in a patented peanut vending machine scheme. The trial is in the Federal court of Judge Michael L. Igoe.

Mrs. Ida Pease.

Chief of the defendants is Albert G. Burns of Oakland, Cal., who, with 22 salesmen, is accused of defrauding 73 persons. Burns was an inventor before he became a merchant of the machines. The witnesses said they were promised 20 to 40 per cent return on their investments.

Mrs. Emily Randow of Warsaw, Wis., said one of the salesmen told her he would "swear on his mother's grave" that the buy was a good one and would "pay her an old age pension." She visited the Chicago offices of the sales force, she said, and was shown some peanuts but no machine. Another witness was Mrs. Ida Pease of Ripon, Wis., who said she bought 200 machines.

JUDGE MAY RULE HEART BALM BAN STATUTE ILLEGAL

Judge Charles S. Dougherty in Felony court indicated yesterday he would rule unconstitutional that part of the Illinois marriage statute outlawing heart balm suits and prohibiting the naming of a co-respondent in divorce or separate maintenance suits.

The court's opinion was voiced on the complaint of Miss Dorothy Toursen of 31 North State street against Attorney Leonard J. Grossman and Mrs. Leah Mahumed, 5343 Kenmore avenue. Miss Tourssen charged that, in defiance of the law, she had been named co-respondent in a separate maintenance action brought by Mrs. Mahumed against Herbert Mahumed. The suit later was amended to exclude Miss Tourssen's name.

Attorney Grossman argued the law was unconstitutional in that it "seals the lips of the wronged wife and her counsel by intimidation to prevent the naming of the wrongdoer." Judge Dougherty said he would issue a formal ruling Sept. 24. Violation of the statute carries a possible punishment of $100 to $1,000 fine and imprisonment of one to five years.

7,500 STATE JOB HOLDERS OUSTED BY GREEN REGIME

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 19 (AP).—Gov. Dwight Green's patronage committee today disclosed that 7,500 Democratic state job holders have been replaced by Republicans since the new G. O. P. administration took office eight months ago. An additional 500 civil service employés were dismissed or resigned during the period, it was reported.

With replacement of the 7,500, who were not civil service employés, the Green administration still has approximately 4,500 other jobs which may be opened to Republicans if all holdover employés are discharged. It was pointed out, however, that as many as 1,000 probably will not be replaced because the jobs require special skills or qualifications.

Of the 500 civil service employés replaced, officials of the civil service commission said approximately 100 were dismissed for political activity. Gov. Green announced early this month that similar charges of political activity had been prepared against 4,000 civil service employés, but only a few have been filed with the commission.

30 FLEE FLAT BUILDING FIRE.

Thirty persons were driven from their flats late yesterday when fire started in the basement of a 12 apartment building at 2002-04 North Kedzie avenue. Damage totaled $3,000.

OFFER TO PLEAD 'NO DEFENSE' TO RIGGING CHARGES

Smart and 9 of Associates in Esquire Case Act.

David A. Smart and nine of his 11 co-defendants, indicted last May on charges of rigging a market in the stock of Esquire-Coronet, Inc., yesterday filed with the clerk of the federal District court a plea for permission to plead nolo contendere. The matter is to come before Judge John P. Barnes on Monday.

Smart is the president of Esquire, Inc. Esquire-Coronet, Inc., was the former name of the corporation that published the magazines Esquire and Coronet.

Allege Profit of Million.

It was alleged in the indictment that the defendants manipulated the stock in violation of the SEC anti-fraud statutes and induced the public to buy 153,000 shares, with a profit of more than $1,000,000 to Smart and his brother Alfred.

In effect a plea of nolo contendere is an acknowledgment that the charges are fully understood and that the defendants, without admitting guilt, subject themselves to the judgment of the court. If they are permitted to make the plea no evidence need be produced to support the government's case.

Two Fail to Join Action.

The men named in the indictment but not joining Smart in the new plea are David Van Alstyne and J. J. Hindon Hyde, New York brokers.

None of the 12 defendants has as yet been arraigned for a plea to the indictment. Their attorneys have tried to have the indictment voided on technical grounds and have offered a demurrer to the charges.

Conviction on the conspiracy charge would carry the possibility of a maximum sentence of two years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

CHIVALRY GETS A NEW TEST IN ALIMONY CASE

A problem in chivalry was posed yesterday for an unnamed man in Florida. It involves the case of Mrs. Rae Levin, 33 years old, who was divorced six years ago from Dr. Carl S. Levin, a dentist, of 1022 Argyle street.

Mrs. Levin was receiving $105 a month from the dentist for support of herself and two sons, but on Sept. 3 she asked Judge Rudolph Desort to reduce the support payments to $70 because she was planning to marry another man in Miami, where she now lives. Yesterday her lawyers, Joseph H. and Norman Becker, asked the judge to restore the cut. They showed a letter from Mrs. Levin saying that her new marriage plans were off because her intended husband had met financial reverses.

Attorney Robert Cherry, representing Dr. Levin, opposed restoration of the cut. Judge Desort then said he would consider Mrs. Levin's petition only if a letter is produced from the Florida man saying that he isn't going to marry Mrs. Levin.

Mrs. Levin's lawyers pointed out that Florida has a breach of promise law, and that if he wrote such a letter he might expose himself to a suit on the part of their client. Judge Desort said he wasn't interested in that, and insisted that the letter be produced by Nov. 7.

COURTNEY ORDER ON GAMING DENS GOES UNHEEDED

Despite State's Attorney Courtney's ultimatum last Wednesday to county law enforcing officials that gambling and vice conditions in the country towns must be stopped, investigators from Courtney's office have reported that gambling continues to flourish in Cicero and Calumet City, it was learned last night.

Homewood county highway police under Lieut. Fred Mulhausen raided two alleged handbooks in the southern part of the county yesterday, arrested two men as suspected keepers, and chased 135 patrons away. The first raid was made at the Owl club, 12 Douglas street, Calumet City, where James Black was arrested as alleged keeper. The next raid was at 12021 Vincennes avenue, Blue Island, where Bert Cahn was seized as keeper.

Willow Springs county highway police last night raided alleged gambling joints at 4728 Cermak road and 4634 Cermak road, both in Cicero, arrested 16 men and chased out more than 100 patrons. Gambling equipment was confiscated. John Kallas and Fred Rizzo were named as keepers.

Passavant Gets Entire Time of Mrs. Kirk Now

BY JUDITH CASS.

MRS. WALTER R. KIRK, president of the Woman's Aid society of the Passavant Memorial hospital, must have chosen the dress she was wearing yesterday with the entertainment that will be given on Oct. 15 for the benefit of the hospital in mind. The dress, a blue silk not as dark as navy, had little stars printed in white all over it with the words "follow the star" at intervals. The entertainment the society has arranged to sponsor as its annual benefit is the Lorelei of 1942 in which 85 skating [illegible] take part.

Mrs. Kirk returned only last Tuesday from three months in Beverly Hills, Cal., and she already is planning to return there next February, but right now she is thinking of little except the benefit. She and several of the other women of the society spend most of every day at the headquarters, 900 North Michigan avenue, where tickets are on sale. Most of the boxes were sold before the women dispersed for the summer, but there are many good seats left.

The committee urges that every one who intends going buy tickets before Oct. 1. After that date the new 10 per cent tax on luxuries will go into effect. Heretofore, charitable entertainments have not had to charge a tax on tickets.

Mrs. James Ward Thorne Is Chairman for Boxes.

Mrs. James Ward Thorne is box chairman and Mrs. Bryan S. Reid and Mrs. Andrew Dallstream are co-chairmen of the ticket committee. Mrs. Henry P. Isham and Mrs. Edward Byron Smith are Lake Forest chairmen. Mrs. Loyal Davis has the task of getting the souvenir program into shape and Mrs. Mark W. Trude and Mrs. John Dern are in charge of the headquarters. Mrs. George Corson Ellis, Mrs. Orville J. Taylor, and Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed are sharing the publicity duties.

Mrs. Gardiner Van Ness and Mrs. Frank Sims, treasurer and assistant treasurer of the society, were among those at a luncheon meeting of the benefit committee yesterday at the Casino. Mrs. Sims and another Mrs. Van Ness, the wife of Radford, Mrs. Gardiner Van Ness' second son, will compete on a tennis court of the Glen View club tomorrow when they and their respective husbands play off the finals in the tennis doubles tournament.

Mrs. Sims' sister, Mrs. Glendon Geriach, came over from Detroit yesterday for a brief visit with her sister and their father, Frank McNair. The Geriachs may move to California.

Virginia Frost's Troth Is Announced by Mother.

From Maine comes an announcement from Mrs. Charles Sumner Frost of Lake Forest and Northeast Harbor of the engagement of her daughter, Virginia, to Lewis Everard Hamor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hamor of Bar Harbor, Me. Mrs. and Miss Frost are expected to return to Lake Forest from their summer home on Sept. 28.

Mrs. Frost's other daughter, Mrs. David Dangler, and Mr. Dangler and their family are arriving at home in Lake Forest today from their summer home at Oyster Harbors, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Herman Weber of Hubbard Woods have announced the engagement of their daughter, Janet, to William L. Owen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Owen of Niles, Mich. Both Miss Weber and Mr. Owen attended Lawrence college, and she received her master's degree in 1940 at Northwestern. At present Mr. Owen is stationed at the United States naval air base in Jacksonville, Fla. Definite wedding plans will be made as soon as he receives his ensign's commission and obtains leave.

Another of Mrs. Cummings' 11 children, Helen, will be a bridesmaid, along with the bride's cousins, Miss Doris Legner and Miss Jean and Miss Virginia Wolf. The bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Mortimer J. Joyce, withdrew from the bridal party because of illness.

Mr. Joyce will serve as best man. Ushering will be Edward Calihan, Thomas Hoskins, Robert Brennan, Robert McKenna, Gerard Johnson, and Mr. Joyce's brother, Richard Joyce. After a motor trip eastward and thru Ohio Mr. Fitzgerald and his bride will be at home on the north side.

The Francis C. Prests and members of their immediate family are in Buffalo for the marriage this morning of Francis O. Prest and Miss Mary Patricia Cantillon. The bridegroom's sisters, Mrs. Sidney M. Spiegel Jr. and Mrs. John Q. Magie, and their husbands and children, all went east for the ceremony.

Miss Jane A. Cantillon will be her sister's maid of honor and John Q. Magie of Winnetka will attend the bridegroom. The ushers are to be John W. Cantillon and Paul E. Lynch. A wedding breakfast will be given at the Park Lane in Gates circle, followed by a reception at the home of the bride's father, Thomas J. Cantillon.

Mr. Prest and his bride will make their home in Buffalo.

Thru the LOOKING GLASS

"Coiffetics," we learn, is a beauty specialist's excellent word for the correlation of hat, coiffure and cosmetics. Don't you think it's good?

It's a great mistake to become smitten with a hat for the hat's own sake. We must train ourselves to choose our hats for their suitability to our faces, our hairdresses, our style of makeup, even our figures, and to think of the hat in relation to the whole.

The gay hat period was responsible for a lot of whimsey in design, but also for the discard of some basic art principles. It is fun to own a large, flyaway hat, perhaps, but not if you're a woman whose hairdress and general silhouette aren't styled for it.

Right now there are lots of trick brim effects showing up, and very tempting they are, too, but the cut of them makes it particularly imperative to study hair, makeup and the lines of the figure. A short, heavy woman must always approach a large brim with the utmost caution. For her the hat that slants upward will usually do the most—and so will the coiffure with a slimming, upward line.

The polished, unbroken pompadour is not as popular as it once was. The fashion now is rather for a broken pompadour, just a suggestion of a roll or bang or froufrou, maybe on one side, maybe in the center.

Before you buy your fall hat, have your hair styled. Then buy the hat that glorifies your hairdress as well as your face and shoulder line.

Jews to Open Rosh Hashana Rites Tomorrow

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The Jewish year 5,702 begins with tomorrow's sunset. Probably no religious rites of continuous annual observance are older than those of Rosh Hashana, which mark the new year and its octave which culminates in Yom Kippur, or Day of Atonement, on Oct. 1.

Thruout the years Rosh Hashana has been interpreted as the commemoration of the beginning of creation, with emphasis on the sacred humanity of mankind. It is also regarded as a day of judgment when all persons pass in review before their Creator; family ties are strengthened and friendships are renewed thru the kindly greeting, "Leshanah Tovah Tikatev V'tehatem," which means, "May you be inscribed and sealed for a good year."

The high holidays, really high holy days for Jews everywhere, make up the most solemn of the ancient calendar, and they differ from other Jewish festivals in that they neither recall a historical event nor were derived from agricultural observances.

An outstanding feature of crowded synagogues tomorrow night will be the blowing of the ram's horn which calls each individual to solemn contemplation of God's laws and one's obligations to his fellow men. In fact, virtually all synagogues will be so crowded that overflow services will be necessary.

The Chicago Sinai congregation will begin the observance of the 80th anniversary of the founding of th-t synagogue with the high holidays. Dr. Louis L. Mann, spiritual leader of the congregation, will speak tomorrow night on "The World We Want to Live In," and Monday morning on "The World We Must Leave Behind."

At Temple Anshe Emet, Pine Grove avenue and Grace street, four simultaneous services will be needed to accommodate the 3,500 worshipers. A similar need will be met at Temple Rodfei Zedek, 1022 East 54th place, where the main synagogue, with its 1,000 seats, will be augmented by simultaneous use of the small synagogue, the assembly hall and the temple's community house. A public address system will be used for three of the services, and in the community house the youths of the congregation will conduct their own service.

Rabbi Jacob Singer's Rosh Hashana sermon tomorrow night at Temple Mizpah, 1615 Morse avenue, will be on the subject, "The Chartered Road of Life." Rabbi Singer will preach Monday morning on "The Needs of a War Plagued World."

Emanuel congregation, 701 Buckingham place, will move from the synagogue to the more spacious Uptown temple, 941 Lawrence avenue, where Rabbi Felix A. Levy will speak tomorrow night on "What Will Happen to the Jews?"

Hotel guests in the loop have been invited by Rabbi Elias Gamze to the Chicago Loop Orthodox synagogue, 16 South Clark street, for services tomorrow night and Monday and Tuesday mornings. Orthodox Jews observe Rosh Hashana thru two days, but liberal congregations observe only one day.

Query.

Manikin maker Lester Gaba, in town this week, told of Honeychile Wilder, New York glamor girl, and her visit to Saratoga for the races, during which, all Saratoga hotels being filled, she had to spend the night at a hotel in Albany. The hotel was near a railroad and all night she heard trains whistling and rumbling, and engines snorting. Towards morning she picked up the telephone and called the desk: "What time does this room get into New York?" she asked.

Ecstasy.

Did you, I ask.
Ever lose yourself
In a kind of ecstasy
Thru the contemplation
Of a bird-painting
By Pien Ching-chao,
Or a flower study of Nan-t'ien . . .
Have you ever felt the delight
Afforded by a Ming bowl
More perfectly balanced than music?

Give me, replies Miss Jones,
The joy of a new fall outfit . . .
No greater ecstasy hath any woman.

Cuffnotes.

Summer lingers in the air but autumn has struck the city. Restaurants are opening for the new season and at the opening of the Yar this week there were chrysanthemums on the tables and celebrities eating bortsch soup and chicken Kiev. Jack Benny and Ben Bernie were laughing at each other's gags at a corner table; Rudolph Ganz was dining with a party of friends, and patrons in evening dress—men in dark dinner coats for the first time this season were dancing on the crowded floor. . . .

* * *

Gypsy Rose Lee was in autumnal black at her cocktail party for her new book—black wool with above-the-elbow black wool gloves, and a black wool hat with rose and blue jersey and gold bead trimming to match the trimming of her dress. . . .

And at the Community Fund dinner when one of the speakers said he would rather be sitting on the bench than standing and speaking and Philip R. Davis, a candidate for judge of the Superior court, said in a loud whisper, "Me, too."

Oversight.

The J. D. Vails Jr., of Evanston invited the teachers of their children, age 9 and 10, to their home for dinner. They permitted the children to be present at the table but warned them not to monopolize the conversation. The day after the dinner, the children asked their mother how they had behaved.

"We didn't talk too much, did we?" they asked.

"No, you didn't," their mother assured them.

"Gee, wasn't it a shame nobody thought to warn daddy," said David, the younger.

Candy Bar.

After luncheon when Alvin Hamburg was nibbling at a penny confection, a co-worker asked him what he was eating. "Candy," he replied. And when she asked what kind, he answered, "I don't know, but according to the wrapper here it contains corn syrup, sugar, whole milk, dextrose, coconut oil, skim milk, gelatin, glycerin, artificial flavor, salt, starch, tartaric acid and baking soda."

"What? No candy?" exclaimed his companion.

Good morning!

Amnesia, hypnotism, and two socks on his handsome bean form the system of springs that make young Rodney Trask's love life tick in this gay farce comedy that has State-Lake audiences laughing their heads off.

"Husband in Name Only" would be a more fitting title than "Kisses for Breakfast," I'm thinking, but shucks, we've learned long ere this that a title is a feeble staff to lean on. . . . Anyhow, who cares. Who goes to see a movie for its title?

Aforementioned Rodney Trask is a concert singer who, as the film opens, is about to be wed to the lovely blonde Juliet Marsden, who ditches her fiancé, Lucius Lorimer, in his favor. . . . As the newly made bridegroom changes his "floorwalker's outfit"—I quote the bride's best friend—for traveling togs, he gets word thru the quavering lips of the houseman, Arnold, that a lady which ain't no lady awaits him in the kitchen—and won't be AWAITING long. . . . Should Rodney fail to appear practically instanter, the "lady"—Clara is her name—will be right upstairs.

"You said CLARA?" in turn quavers Rodney.

Clara it is. . . .

And Clara is there on a blackmailing errand which results in Rodney's going with her for a little ride to talk things over AND—getting the sock on the head which results in the amnesia which results in another marriage which causes hypnotism to rear its helpful head and bring about what the French like to speak of as contretemps. WHICH make the audience laff and laff and laff and resolve into a H. E., for Rodney and—GUESS WHO ELSE?

That engaging young man, Dennis Morgan, handles his assorted dear ones and embarrassing situations with a light and mirth inspiring touch. You are grateful to the scenarist for permitting him time off to sing for you. Such a purty voice he has!

Shirley Ross and Jane Wyatt are clever, peppy, and comely. . . . Lee Patrick sort of steals their thunder as a wise, wise-cracking, handsome and smartly gowned friend of Bride No. 1. Una O'Connor, with her cockney accent, and Willie Best of the deep south are chuckle teasers, as you know.

Not a serious moment in the piece—and rarely, if ever—a dull one.

See you soon.

A Flirtatious Business Man Has Met His Match!

BY DORIS BLAKE.
[Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"I am a married man and devoted to my small family," writes XYZ. "I have an excellent position with a large organization, and it is the practice of the branch I am associated with to have two parties a year for employés. I attended these parties always, and at the end of the evening I would always escort a young woman employé home in my car and then indulge in a little petting, perhaps. At our last affair, held a few months ago, I escorted a young woman home, as usual, and petted a little.

"I now find that the young woman, who is single and in her thirties, has developed an embarrassing infatuation for me. At her age she should realize that my gestures were not serious. Her rather bold and over-friendly manner toward me causes embarrassment, especially since several of my office intimates notice and pass on whisperings going around about us.

"I should like to discourage the young woman without hurting or embarrassing her. Can you suggest a way to do this, and bring the pretty ridiculous situation to a close?"

It does us good to hear how you married triflers sometimes are caught up on what you deem your "meaningless little gestures." Try calling it that in your wife's hearing. Or, better, let her try to explain to you such a meaningless gesture on her part. How you'd holler and rant and rave!

But, answering your question: Take the young woman aside. Explain to her that you acted like a blinkety-blank fool, and you hope she can see her way clear to forget and count you out as other than a co-worker.

Looking at Hollywood

By John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 19.—Victor Mature, the amiable hunk of man, is still burning. It happened a couple of days ago on the set of "The Shanghai Gesture," in which he is playing a romantic louse.

He was about to step into a scene when a little guy tugged at his sleeve—a little guy nobody had seen around before. "Who are you?" demanded Victor.

"I am a doctor. I've been sent to examine you and find out the state of your health." And the little guy made a grab for Mature's wrist and began counting his pulse.

Anything can happen in Hollywood, so Victor figured it was just one of those things. Mildly he queried, "What's this all about?"

"Hal Roach sent me," explained the doc.

Understanding dawned for Mature. "Don't do it here," he urged. "I'm busy. Wait a while." So the croaker subsided.

After a while Mature went off the stage to his dressing room. He'd forgotten about the little guy, but he blew up right away when he found two more medicos in the dressing room.

"Tell Roach," he roared, "to do this on his own time! I'm working for Arnold Pressburger and Joe von Sternberg now. I'm a healthy guy, but there's one thing wrong with me. I get a bad case of bile when I think what Roach is getting out of me and what I'm getting out of Roach!"

Back of all this is the fact that Mature is a Roach discovery and is under exclusive contract to Hal. Report is that, for having leased out Mature for "The Shanghai Gesture" Roach is netting $3,750 a week while Mature is getting his regular wage of $499 a week. And Roach had sent over some doctors to learn the condition of his beautiful hunk of property.

First to leave Warner's for 20th-Fox was Mark Hellinger, top-budget producer. Soon to make the switch is Brynie Foy, who long had masterminded all the B's on the Warner lot. Late on the afternoon of the Soose-Garcia "fight" Foy was visiting in Hellinger's office, and he put in a call for Jack Warner, with whom he had a date to attend the bout. Mark cut in on the wire and chirruped, "Hi, Jack! When are you coming over?"

First Hellinger production to reach the cameras at 20th-Fox is "Rise and Shine," a freehand musical comedy version of James Thurber's reminiscences, "My Life and Hard Times." Mark admits that Jim will doubtless be surprised when he sees what has happened to his work. For one thing, comedy gangsters have crept into the Thurber household.

The main character kept from Jim's book is Grandpa, played by Walter Brennan. To a lesser extent, a dopey football player—played by Jack Oakie—remains. Grandpa is a crusty screwball in a Civil war cap who still lives almost entirely in the War Between the States, but who can, when occasion demands, quote the record of last season's all-American backs. Brennan is wearing a hayseed beard, like the late Chic Sale's, and this is the first character Walter has played with his normal dental equipment—which is no teeth at all.

I hope that "Lazy Daisy" cake is the answer to a Chicago reader's request for a recipe for "a delicious cake made with hot milk and butter." There isn't much butter in the cake, but there is some. Most hot milk cakes are of the sponge, no-butter type. Hot water or hot milk are used in a good many chocolate or devil's foods, too, but I think this request indicated a plain cake.

Lazy Daisy Cake.

2 eggs
1 cup sugar
1 cup sifted cake flour
1½ teaspoons baking powder
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 tablespoon melted butter
½ cup scalded milk

Beat eggs in mixing bowl, add sugar, and beat hard to blend. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together, and add alternately to eggs and sugar with combination of vanilla, butter and milk. Beat well and pour into a small cake pan. Bake at 325 degrees for half an hour. Cover with mixture of 3 tablespoons melted butter, 5 tablespoons brown sugar, 2 tablespoons cream and place under the broiler until delicately browned.

Here's a hot milk "sponge" [not a true sponge cake, because of the baking powder and butter], just in case the previously given recipe wasn't the right one.

Hot Milk Sponge Cake.

1½ cups sifted cake flour
1½ teaspoons baking powder
⅛ teaspoon salt
8 egg yolks
2 whole eggs
1¼ cups sifted sugar
¾ cup hot milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
⅛ teaspoon almond extract
2 tablespoons melted butter

Sift flour with baking powder and salt three or four times. Beat egg yolks and whole eggs together until very thick and light. Add sugar gradually, beating thoroly after each addition. Add hot milk slowly and beat well. Add flavoring. Fold in dry ingredients in small portions. Add butter last. Bake in ungreased, 10 inch tube pan, at 325 degrees for 40-50 minutes. Invert cake in pan for an hour before removing it.

While we're on the subject of cakes, I'd like to offer a recipe which is popular with busy women, one for a cake to be made in the electric mixer with a minimum of effort.

Quick-Mix Cake.

1 cup sugar
2 eggs
¼ teaspoon salt
3 teaspoons baking powder
¾ cup soft butter
½ cup milk
1¾ cups sifted cake flour
[2 cups minus 2 tablespoons]
½ teaspoon vanilla

Measure all ingredients right into the mixer and beat them together for two minutes. Bake in a square, 8 inch cake pan for 25-30 minutes, at 350 degrees.

Numerology

Sept. 20, 1941.

Universal day—Keep cool and collected. Make important moves.

Names and numbers—In analyzing the names and numbers of world leaders, we mustn't overlook Franco. You see, of course, the resemblance in his name to the first name of our own President. We have already analyzed the "F" which is a six, and the first vowel which is a one, when we gave you the numbers of Franklin. Here is a power to be dealt with if and when Franco should get into the picture. He also has the fateful combination of eleven as his title.

On the House

If you are building a new laundry room this fall there are various little points to watch out for, as they'll add comfort when the work is done. . . . Be sure the laundry tubs are the right height for you. . . . A drain in the floor will ease the departure of excess water under your feet. . . . White paint on the ceiling will reflect maximum light. . . . A convenience outlet close to ironing board will eliminate need of extra long cord while an outside entrance to drying yard will save steps.

families have been invited to visit the Lasker estate, Mill Road gardens, tomorrow when there will be a preview of the chrysanthemum show that will be open to the public from Sept. 27 to Oct. 19. The Laskers are leaving the manor house the middle of the next week, so it will be open to those who visit the show who want to pay 50 cents for the privilege of seeing it. Admission to the gardens will be 50 cents.

There will be 5,000,000 blooms in the mum show, so a speaker for the department of botany of the university says, and nowhere outside Japan could there be seen so many of these beautiful flowers in one place. The first Sunday in October probably will mark the peak of the blooms.

Junior Kellogg Fairbanks Are Parents of Son.

The junior Kellogg Fairbanks are being congratulated upon the birth of a son, to be named Kellogg III., on Thursday evening at the Chicago Lying-In hospital. The new baby has two sisters, Margaret Ayer, named for her great aunt, Mrs. Cecil Barnes, and Laura, named for her aunt, Mrs. J. Stewart Harvey. Mrs. Fairbank is the former June Cornell.

The fourth annual Town and Country Equestrian association horse show for the benefit of the Sunbeam league will open this afternoon in Harms woods in Morton Grove and will continue all day tomorrow. There will be competition in 32 different classes. Included is a western stock horse class as well as the usual children's, hunter, jumper, pleasure, and show horse classes and harness horses.

Mrs. Louis F. Swift Jr. has entered two hunters, Range Wrattler and Frame-Up, in the hunter classes. She also will go after prizes in the costume events, sharing some of the riding activities on her mounts with Mrs. Charles H. Coffin Jr. of Wayne. Other exhibitors include Mrs. Eugene T. Scott, Mary, John, and Walter McGuire, H. Leslie Atlass, Jeanne Lee Hester, Miss Maxine Cooper, and Nancy and Sally Miller.

Some of the boxholders are Albert W. Harris, Dr. Walter McGuire, James A. Hannah, Britton I. Budd, Carleton Elmes, Frank W. Bering, and Col. Edward N. Wentworth. Mrs. Albert C. Buehler is president of the Sunbeam league. Walter P. Saunders, president of the Hinsdale Horse Show association, will act as announcer.

The South Shore Country club has planned a day of outdoor fun today with a homecoming party. Golf, tennis, riding, shooting, and bowling are on the program. There will be a dinner-dance tonight with a juggler, a comedy dance team, and a new orchestra. More than one thousand members have made reservations for the party.

DORIS BLAKE'S LETTER BOX

Have you a perplexing problem on which you need friendly counsel? Write to Doris Blake in care of the Chicago Tribune, Tribune Tower, Chicago, Ill. If you wish a personal reply, inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

In Spite of Bowlegs.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am 16, not bad looking but bowlegged. Is that the reason boys do not pay attention to me? If a boy saw me in a bathing siut I guess he would faint! Please advise.—ANN."

There are some persons who, by the mere strength of personality, can make others forget their physical irregularities. So you, too, try to be such a charming person, Ann.

Love vs. "Advice."

"Dear Miss Blake: I love a girl and have told her so, but she keeps on taking advice from her girl friend, who can't keep a beau for more than a month. What can I do?—BLUE HEART."

Don't you know that few persons follow advice, however well meant? We doubt the importance of the girl friend's advice. It wouldn't work if the girl really cared for you.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 no trump	Pass	2 no trump	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

North, with a good club suit and two outside kings, correctly raised the no trump. A two club take-out would have been too weak; a three club take-out, too strong.

West opened the five of hearts. East played the ace and returned his own fourth best, the three spot. Declarer carefully noted the heart spots involved. Counting the four in dummy, it was obvious that West's lead had been from no longer than a five card suit. Since East had four hearts, it would be impossible to exhaust him of hearts by holding up the king. Such a play would not be a safety measure and might easily cost a trick since, if everything went well, it might be unnecessary to concede even one more trick to the enemy.

On this reasoning declarer won the second heart lead with the king, discarding a spade from dummy, then laid down the club ace and another club. The queen appearing from West, declarer then could afford to "fool around" and acquire certain information. He led a low spade from dummy's king. East played the jack [which was significant of honor splitting], and declarer won with the ace. He then led back to the spade king and ran off the club suit. On the third round East discarded a diamond and West a spade, while declarer himself followed. On the fourth round East let go a heart, declarer a spade, and West a heart. On the fifth round East reduced to three diamonds and the high spade, declarer discarded a diamond and West a heart, West's holding at this point being the heart queen and the Q-10-5 of diamonds. The last club completed a double squeeze. East had to hold his high spade and, therefore, could keep only two diamonds. Declarer now let go the last spade, and it was West's turn to be pinched. He could not let go the heart queen without establishing declarer's 10 spot, and was forced to reduce to two diamonds. Declarer now merely had to lead his diamond ace and return the jack, overtaking with dummy's king, in order to cash the four spot for the final trick, and an excellent match-point score.

An Unadjusted School Child Deserves Aid

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Here is September and the new school term. Whether promotion occurs only once in a year in the school that your child attends, or each half year, be purposeful about the happiness of your child in his school life.

If school went badly for your boy or girl last year, try to prevent that state of affairs continuing this year. If, in a few weeks more, teacher and principal haven't solved the difficulty that now exists, turn detective yourself, and try to clear up the mystery. It's a pity for your child to muddle thru term after term, miserable or half failing or chronically at odds with the teacher, just because no one has set to with a will to find out what the trouble is.

Now, of course, the cause may be one of a dozen. The trouble may be a superficial one, or it may be a deep seated, even buried one, which makes our task harder.

The trouble may be that the teacher and your child simply can't work as a team, the old personal equation. In one of the country's most progressive public school system the principal, after a fair trial and keen observing, may notice that these two personalities can never achieve harmony together, so he changes the child to another room in the same grade.

The school trouble may originate at home. I mean by that either that home management is wrong, or that things are all awry in the home atmosphere. In the latter case, a boy or girl may be unsettled or actually unhappy, and this state is reflected in his school work or his school behavior. Correct this as much as you can, for your child's sake.

The school trouble may have a physical origin. A child whose sight or hearing isn't adequate, one who always is tired or actually has some physical defect, just can't carry on his school work cheerfully and well.

Poor Posture May Cause a Double Chin

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Molly, 22, says she thinks she needs to start wearing a chin strap to prevent the further doubling of her chin. That's the gist of her appeal. But Molly tells, among other things about herself, that she is very round shouldered. This, she believes, is the result of the kind of work she is doing, requiring constant sitting and bending over a machine.

We wouldn't advocate the chin strap for a girl of 22, and certainly not to Miss Molly, whose chin distortion is doubtless due to the posture defect she mentions.

We have said, many times before, and now repeat, that double chins or broken down chins are as often due to postural faults as to age or heavy fat accumulation. More often, we might say, since there is more round shoulderedness than superfat victims with double and triple chins.

So, Molly's becomes a posture problem, and posture correction is her need. If there's doubt in any girl or woman's mind about chin damage from round shoulderedness and head drooping forward, sit before your dressing table with head down and shoulders curved and see there, written in your own very being, what happens. If your eyes can't be lifted to take in the sight, run a couple of fingers under the chin and feel the doubling thickness. After which there is but one thing to do, and it is to put yourself on a will-bound resolve to stand straight and sit straight. There isn't any other remedy except to strengthen the back muscles so that sitting and standing straight will automatically result.

The Scrawny Neck.

F. G. S.: The correction of a scrawny neck usually involves a general building up program, in which exercise is as important as diet. Professional massage may be helpful.

Brushing the Hair.

Dorothy D.: Brushing actually deepens the wave in naturally curly hair. It does hasten the disappearance of a finger wave in entirely straight hair, but proper brushing enhances the beauty of a good permanent wave.

Removing the Kink.

Helen M.: Yes, overcurly hair may be straightened. Results are not permanent, but the kink can be subdued for a couple of months by the proper treatment. Many shops now give this service.

McHenry County Parish Is Holding Homecoming

Designer Goes High Hat in His Fall Creations

BY REA SEEGER.

Altitude, even the cold clear stratospheric heights, are scaled by the hats in the new collection presented by an ingenious American designer. Also a lot of dashing Cossack hats and some breathtaking creations literally copied inch by inch from the very picturesque headdresses of the Russian peasant costumes are shown. But these adaptations are cleverly made to fit American headlines, pulled up, down, or aslant the individual feminine American eyeline, so every one is happy.

Wool in many brilliant colors as well as street shades, fuzzy braid edges, yarn effects that look like crocheted patterns, wooden beads, sea shells, jet, sometimes as many as a half dozen colors combined in one design, are used. The fuzzy wool braid is not only a new trim trick but it is unusually effective and softening, especially on severely plain hats.

Very bewitching teatime or dinner hats come with fragile lace and veiling down the back. Confections of ostrich feather tips in a half dozen colors anchored in a small bit of mesh wool or knitted yarn fabric are exceptionally flattering, as are the colorfully embroidered high Cossack hats with a band of fur high along the upper edge.

Electric green wool snoods with mesh patterns at least two inches wide are attached to snappy little forward dipping street hats of felt. Flat beautifully marked Tingona lamb fur is used for hat and muff combines. And there's a spectacular high pointed Russian peasant headdress copied in dull black felt with the outside edge covered with a band of the fat wool braid. Under and attached to the pointed crown effect is one of the smoothest fitting skull hat arrangements ever fitted to a headline . . . fully guaranteed to stay on the head in any gale.

CARDS HALF GAME FROM LEAD; BEAT CUBS, 3-1

GOPHERS FACE A TEST EARLY—IT'S WASHINGTON

But They'll Win in Big Nine Again.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 19.—Minnesota's mighty men, champions of the Western conference, will hold the sixth and last pre-schedule scrimmage tomorrow before starting for their engagement with the University of Washington in Seattle next Saturday.

Washington has been whipped three times by the Gophers. A veteran Husky squad awaits this final game with possibly an even chance to upset the Gophers, whose margin of victory last season was George Franck's touchdown return of a kickoff. Whether Washington wins or loses is immaterial to Big Nine teams. Regardless of this opening game the Western conference unanimously predicts that the Gophers will defend their Big Nine title successfully.

"Our success in the conference," Coach Bernie Bierman said today, "depends on improvement of the veterans of 1940. Herman Frickey, half back, will be of some value in this campaign. Otherwise, only by improved play can the leftovers of last fall duplicate that undefeated record."

Record Is Brilliant.

Bierman's success since he returned to his alma mater in 1933 has been most unusual. He has had three undefeated and untied elevens [1934, 1935, and 1940] and this record matches the previous all-time Minnesota performance since 1892. That record has been grounded on intense application to detail and refusal to admit that any player or any play is perfect.

Bierman is not pessimistic, of course. Such an attitude would be impossible because of material and opportunity for preparation. He recognizes, however, that Minnesota was most fortunate to go thru unbeaten a year ago. Northwestern and Michigan failed by one point each to tie the Gophers. Ohio State fumbled on the 1 yard line with first down to prevent a tie or victory.

Minnesota won the championship regardless of might have been. The question now is: "Can Minnesota defend that title?"

Who'll Replace Franck?

Sixty-five selected players returned for practice Sept. 10. Minnesota's losses other than by graduation have been nil. Outstanding men graduated are Bill Johnson, end; Bill Kuusisto, guard; Bob Paffrath, quarter back, who also played either of the half backs, and George Franck, right half, who was voted the most valuable All-Star player in the game against the Chicago Bears.

Bierman quite naturally is concerned over replacement for Franck. Even if Frickey, a sophomore from Billings, Mont., matches Franck physically—he can't in speed—he still will be short of the experience Franck had as a three year veteran.

Bierman also questioned the performance of his ends despite the fact that these ends certainly should equal last year's men since this position was the weakest on the Gopher line with the possible exception of center. Minnesota may not have stars available for end, guard, or even center, but in numbers and experience these Gopher linemen may be the best in eight years.

Tackles Are Outstanding.

Bob Fitch, an excellent left end, and Bill Baumgartner, 183 pound junior letter men, are the current first team choices. Herb Hein, a 170 pound tough sophomore from Billings [a high school teammate of Frickey] may have a lot to say about right end before the campaign is over. In all, four lettermen are available as well as three reserves before the sophomores are listed.

Dick Wildung, left tackle, and his running mate, Urban Odson, 247 pound senior, form the most tremendous pair of tackles in the conference. Michigan has its Al Wistert and Northwestern has Alf Bauman, but Minnesota has a pair of experienced key men at tackle. Re-

Companionship.

We find so much to talk about
The hours slip away,
You tell me this—I tell you that—
And all the world seems gay.
We find so much to laugh about,
A lot of joy to share,
And even sorrow does not seem
As difficult to bear.
Sometimes our paths may separate
And we are far apart,
But still this dear companionship
Remains within the heart.
For when we're face to face again,
The hours slip away,
Exchanging thoughts on this and that
And all the world seems gay.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19 (AP)—Hopes of the New York Yankees for having Outfielder Charley Keller available for the world series got a big lift today. He said the tendons hurt a bit but that he was sure he would be ready to play in the series. He planned to don spiked shoes tomorrow and to exercise some more.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

What do you say, fellows? Let's all us Sox fans become jolly little optimists. Let's predict Dykes' Terrors will win all the seven remaining games on their 1941 American league schedule, thus clinching third place, which they hold this morning by a margin of one game over the Cleveland Indians and a game and a half over their foes of this afternoon, the Detroit Tigers.

Thornton Lee this afternoon will make his second try for his 20th victory of the season. That fact alone should have all south side loyalists whooping it up for an end to the Sox's current string of five straight defeats. Lee has earned the distinction of the first 20 victory total in his professional career and will gain it today if the lads shake some of the lead out of their breeches and make him three runs, their maximum for the last two weeks, excepting one miracle outbreak in Washington more than a week ago.

Double Header Tomorrow.

The Tigers and the Terrors will play a double header tomorrow and again the pitching will be good enough to win if the batsmen come out of their protracted coma. Ted Lyons will make his fifth try for his 13th victory in the first game. John Rigney will pitch the second game. Both are in excellent physical trim, tho mentally depressed at having had to watch their fielding associates try to hit the baseball.

The Terrors will not be forced to play Monday or Tuesday. They may not even have to show up for practice. Says Manager Dykes anent practice: "The Browns, Senators, Athletics, Red Sox, and Yankees recently gave 'em a chance to practice, and look what happened."

Meet Indians Wednesday.

Wednesday the final of the Chicago-Cleveland series will be played in Comiskey park. The Indians are the one team that has kept Dykes' boys in the league this year. Chicago has won 16, Cleveland 5 in the season series to date.

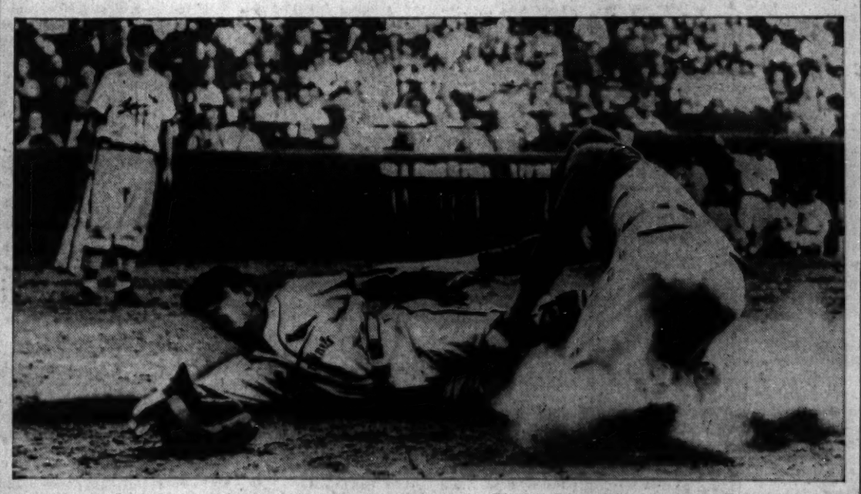
A Cub Misplay Is Turned Into a Putout



Frank Crespi of the Cardinals is nailed at the plate by Pitcher Paul Erickson of the Cubs in the sixth inning of yesterday's game in St. Louis. Crespi, who had been on second, had tried to score after a third strike escaped Catcher Clyde McCullough. Clyde dashed back to the screen, recovered the ball, and threw to Erickson for the putout. The Cards won, 3 to 1, to reduce the margin of the leading Dodgers to a half game. [Associated Press Wirephoto.]

PICK WHIRLAWAY TO WIN $15,000 LAWRENCE EVENT

New York, Sept. 19 (AP).—Whirlaway has a date to pick up some loose change at Belmont Park tomorrow, and if he does he'll move into third place on the all-time list of racing money winners.

Four other 3 year olds were named today to go with the champion in the 49th running of the Lawrence Realization, but despite Whirlaway's defeat by War Relic at Narragansett a week ago, none of these appeared to be in his league as a galloper.

As a result, he figures to be about 1 to 8 to get back on the winning track in this 3 year old classic. The stake involves $15,000 or more, and that amount, added to the $324,611 he already has in the bankroll would boost Warren Wright's whirlwind from fifth place past Gallant Fox and Equipoise. This will leave only Seabiscuit with his $437,730 and Sun Beau with his $376,744 still in front of Whirlaway and his campaign to head the list by next March.

Field Is Mediocre.

The mile and five-eighths of the Realization is the longest Whirlaway has been asked to go since he started his triumphant tour of the tracks in the Kentucky Derby.

In spite of the distance and the fact that many folks thought he was a tired horse in losing to War Relic last week, he should not have to work up a good sweat beating off such as William du Pont Jr.'s Fairymant, W. E. Boeing's Time Counts, Hal Price Headley's Alaking or his own stablemate, Dandy Fox, which make up the rest of the field.

Shoot for Matron Victory.

Owner Wright and Trainer Ben Jones not only are shooting at the Realization on the first big Saturday of Belmont's busy fall meeting, but they also are out for the whole jackpot this time.

In addition to Whirlaway, they are sending Mar-Kell, daughter of Nellie Flag, after the $15,000 in the 45th running of the Matron stakes. Off her handy victory in the Spinaway stakes at Saratoga, Mar-Kell probably will be the choice in the field of 15, despite the entries of such stake winners as Alfred Vanderbilt's Petrify, Mrs. Payne Whitney's Spanish Moss, Jock Whitney's Court Manners, and William Ziegler Jr.'s Romping Home for the six furlong dash.

KOVACS ENTERS PACIFIC TENNIS FINAL ROUND

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 19 (AP).—Frankie Kovacs of Oakland defeated George Richards of Montebello, 2-6, 7-5, 6-4, 6-3, today to enter the men's single finals of the Pacific southwest tennis tournament. Kovacs will play the winner of tomorrow's match between Bobby Riggs and Frank Parker.

Dorothy Bundy of Santa Monica defeated Margaret Osborne of San Francisco, 9-7, 7-5.

Dodgers Face Tough (for 'Em) Phils Today; Durocher Fined

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 19 (AP). —Incredible as it sounds, the last place Phillies, 51½ games out of first place, may blast the Brooklyn Dodgers right out of the National league pennant scramble during a five-game series which opens with a double header in Shibe park tomorrow. If they do it will be the third time in 15 years they have helped the Cardinals win the pennant.

On paper the Phils, already beaten in 102 games and fresh from dropping four in a row to Cincinnati, do not rate a chance, but the Dodgers have scored only one run and made only five hits in their last 16 innings against the Phillies.

Furthermore, the records show that the Phils, who are not as bad as some believe, have a habit of playing championship ball against pennant contenders.

Knock Reds Out in 1926.

In 1926, when the Cardinals were battling Cincinnati for first place, the Phils knocked the Reds out of the race. Again in 1934 when the Cardinals and Dizzy Dean put on their sensational drive to beat out the Giants for the pennant, it was the Phils who started the Giants on the skids with two straight victories late in September. It's a certainty the Cardinals are hoping to benefit again from the Phils.

Manager Leo Durocher of the Dodgers, who today was fined $150 for his run-in with Umpire George Magerkurth in Pittsburgh yesterday, was still hot under the collar over the balk called against Pitcher Hugh Casey which led to the Pirates victory. Durocher said he was taking no chances and would send his two best pitchers, Kirby Higbe and Whit Wyatt, the only 20 game winners in the league, to the mound in tomorrow's double header.

Last Performance a Shutout.

Wyatt has not worked since shutting out the Cardinals, 1 to 0, on three hits last Saturday in the final game of the series in St. Louis.

Against these stars Acting Manager Hans Lobert of the Phils plans to start the veteran Cy Blanton, and youthful Southpaw Frank Hoerst, who tossed a four hitter at the Dodgers and beat them 4 to 1 the last time Brooklyn played in Shibe park.

In announcing Durocher's fine today in New York following a conference with Umpires Bill Klem and Magerkurth, League President Ford Frick absolved the manager of trouble after yesterday's game in Pittsburgh.

"This closes the books on Durocher," he said, "but we are going to find out what happened under the stands and there may be some further disciplinary action tomorrow."

Klem to Interview Players.

Frick admitted that Magerkurth's own conduct was also subject to question and said Klem would interview Umpire Bill Stewart as well as Brooklyn players.

Larry MacPhail, Dodgers' president, altho not present at Frick's conference, came rushing to the defense of his players with a declaration that he and Klem were both making an investigation and that if the reports that Magerkurth had used profane language and otherwise abused the players were true, he would demand the league discipline the umpire, too.

"I am told that Magerkurth was abusive even in the early innings and that he was as much to blame for what happened later as any one," he asserted.

"I have no kick against the fine on Durocher. He doesn't deny he used strong language and I never have condoned abusive or offensive language toward the umpires by my players or my managers. Frick and I are in perfect agreement on that.

Put Out by Magerkurth.

"But my manager tells me that Magerkurth went charging out to the mound after Casey made those wild pitches and shouted, 'If you throw another ball near Lopez [Pirate catcher] I'll put you out of the game.'

"That's when Durocher came onto the scene. Durocher was never put out of a game this year till the first of August. Then it was by Magerkurth and both the league president and Chief of Umpires Klem later told me he had no grounds for doing it.

"I'm going to find out what happened out there and if the reports I received are correct, then I most certainly am going to make a protest."

Klem tonight called seven members of the Brooklyn team before him to hear their side of the dispute with Magerkurth. He went into closed session with Durocher, Casey, Joe Medwick, Wyatt, Pete Coscarart, Herman Frank, and Mickey Owen.

If—

THE St. Louis Cardinals, who climbed to within a half game of the Dodgers yesterday, can take the National league lead today by winning from the Cubs while Brooklyn divides a doubleheader with the Phillies in Philadelphia. The standings in that case would be:

	W.	L.	Pct.
St. Louis	93	53	.641
Brooklyn	94	53	.639

Each pennant contender has nine games to play. If the Dodgers win five while losing four, the Cardinals could take the championship by winning six out of nine. That would make the final standings:

	W.	L.	Pct.
St. Louis	98	55	.640
Brooklyn	98	56	.636

The Dodgers' remaining games are: Five with Philadelphia and four with Boston. The Cards face five with the Cubs and four with Pittsburgh.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 19.—The stubborn Cardinals today sneaked up to a spot one-half game behind the pacesetting Brooklyn Dodgers and thus continued the confusion in the National league's two-team race. While the Dodgers were lolling in idleness, the Cards climbed the ladder a bit by bowling over the Cubs, 3 to 1, in the opener of a four-game series. It's the closest the Cards have been to the top since the Cubs knocked them off that choice perch with a double triumph on Sept. 4.

Figuring that what happened once might happen again, Paul Erickson, the big Swede who figured in the above mentioned twin success, went back for another fling. The 23 year old rookie failed, not exactly because of his own pitching, but because his pals just couldn't collaborate. They were stopped almost cold by Harry Gumbert, who in his days as a Giant held the same Indian sign over Chicago bat wielders.

Paul's Wildness Hurts.

Erickson yielded only eight hits, but five of the eight were clustered in two innings and that proved disastrous. The big kid let wildness get the better of him after two safe blows had put him in a jam in the first, one run being forced home on a pass. The Cubs eventually recovered this run, thanks to the only inning in which they produced more than a lone hit, but in the fifth the Cards came thru with a bang. They slashed the big Swede for two runs, the potent items involved in the incident being Terry Moore's second two-bagger and the second of three safeties by Stan Musial, a recall from the Cards' Rochester farm.

Big Paul's first inning was such a pressing matter that he was fortunate to solve it with the damage limited to one run. Jimmy Brown opened for the Cards with a single and hiked to third on Moore's double down the right field line. Erickson contributed to the jam by walking Musial, filling the bags with none out, but promptly fanned both John Hopp and Estel Crabtree. He went wild again pitching to Frank Crespi and the swarthy little fellow walked, forcing Brown to score. Martin Marion popped to Lou Stringer.

Cubs Miss a Chance.

The Cubs had a chance on Stan Hack's pass and Dom Dallessandro's single with one out in the first, but Bill Nicholson bunted into a double play and no other opportunities arose until singles by Nicholson and Babe Dahlgren appeared after two were gone in the fourth. Stringer poured a single into left and Nicholson carried in the tying run, but Clyde McCullough tapped to Brown.

Gumbert personally led the assault that sent the Cardinals charging into a two-run lead in the fifth. Leading off, he fired a single into right, only to be forced on Brown's poke to Hack. In this spot, Moore launched his second double, a hit into right center, on which Brown raced home from first base. Musial, who had singled in the third, did it again, and Moore skipped home. Hopp concluded the decisive inning with a foul to Hack.

More Trouble for Erickson.

Erickson had a little more to contend with in the sixth, when Crespi walked with one out and moved to second on Marion's bunt. Gumbert fanned, but McCullough let the third strike escape, and, while he was chasing back to the stands to recover his error, Crespi was steaming toward the plate. He was nailed on McCullough's throw to Erickson. There also was a little excitement in the seventh. Musial doubled with two out and went to third on a passed ball, and Hopp walked. Nothing came of this, because Stringer grasped Crabtree's sharp hopper.

There wasn't much to the Cub attack after they had scored their lone run. Hopp's error on Sturgeon and a pass to Hack with one out opened the way for possible developments in the fifth, but Phil Cavarretta lined into Hopp's hands for a double play. Stringer opened the seventh with a two-bagger, but still was anchored on second when the inning ended.

Fight Decisions

At New York—Ray Robinson knocked out Maxie Shapiro [3]; Beau Jack stopped Al Reid [7]; Diogenes Leon beat Johnny Aiello [4]; Lou Castano beat Dom Flantini [4]; Steve Belloise and Antonio Fernandez drew [8].

At Akron, O.—Sammy Angott knocked out Lee Sheppard [1].

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Miss Dogwood, the speedy daughter of Bull Dog and Myrtlewood, which has been beaten only by Alsab, will make the fourth appearance of her career today at Hawthorne. She will run against 10 rivals in the $5,000 Hawthorne Juvenile handicap.

Among Miss Dogwood's challengers will be Rodes K., which scored four victories in the east. At Liberty, Teco Tack, and Great Occasion will run as the Stroube and Collins entry. C. E. Hagyard's filly, Emolument, has figured in upsets earlier in the season and will draw quite a bit of backing today. She will be joined in the betting with Thomas Platt's Bold Chance. Bolus Kokomo, Snow Apple, and Stinging Bee will complete the field.

Miss Dogwood ran second to Alsab in the Prairie State stakes at Washington Park. She had won her two previous starts. Her dam, Myrtlewood, was one of the fastest race mares ever to perform on the American turf and broke a world record at Arlington Park several years ago.

Crossbow II. Wins 4th Race.

Crossbow II. ran the fastest six and a half furlongs of the present meeting when he beat seven rivals of the $2,500 class in yesterday's fourth race. His time of 1:17 4-5 was 2-5 seconds slower than the track record. After following Ballinderry, Weisenheimer, and Torch Gleam around the bend, Crossbow II. was taken to the outside for the drive. Steve Brooks got him to the front in the last furlong and sent him across the finish line two and a half lengths ahead of Torch Gleam. Ballinderry was third. Crossbow II., which was scoring his second consecutive victory, was the 6 to 5 favorite. He paid off at $4.40, $3, and $2.60.

MacAndrew Injured Again.

Don MacAndrew, Hawthorne's leading rider, was excused from all of his subsequent engagements when he incurred a foot injury in a fall from Miss Carmen in the first race. He expects to be in condition to resume riding today.

Cadmium, racing at 4 to 5 odds, won the Omar Khayyam purse, main event on the program. After settling into last place while DeKalb was setting the early pace in this mile run, the favorite moved up on the turn, went to the outside in the stretch and came on swiftly to take the lead.

Warren Yarberry had him three lengths ahead of the 3 to 1 second choice, Shaun G., as they crossed the finish line. Joan T. was third. Cadmium ran the mile in 1:38 1-5. His mutuel prices were $3.60, $2.60, and $2.40 across the board.

RAY ROBINSON K. O.'S SHAPIRO IN THIRD ROUND

New York, Sept. 19 (AP).—Ray Robinson, Harlem lightweight, knocked out Maxie Shapiro, local east sider, in the third round in Madison Square Garden tonight for his 24th straight victory as a professional.

Held fairly even in the first round, Robinson floored his stumpy rival twice in the second and had him on the canvas twice more in the third before Referee Arthur Donovan stepped in and stopped the bout after 2 minutes 4 seconds of that round, with Shapiro helpless against the ropes in his own corner.

It was the 20th knockout the Negro boxer has scored in his string of 24 triumphs since he left the amateurs only last October.

A crowd of 11,945 paid a gross of $21,822 to see the show.

Promoter Mike Jacobs after tonights bout began laying plans to move Robinson into a lightweight title shot against the winner of the forthcoming bout between Lew Jenkins, who holds the New York state commission's sanction as champion, and Sammy Angott of Louisville and Washington, Pa., who is recognized by the National Boxing association.

Chicago Cards Look to League Season with More Confidence

BY EDWARD PRELL.

For years now the Chicago Cardinals have been one of those "something always happens to them" teams. They have risen up and slapped down foes when they had no business to do so, then lapsed back into mediocrity. Coaches have come and gone, piling up more confusion, more uncertainty.

But these Cardinals of 1941 feel they finally are on their way, this despite that 10 to 6 defeat the other night in Comiskey park by the Cleveland Rams.

"In the past years the Cards have been up and down," said Coach Conzelman yesterday during a practice which was marked by the players' determination. "In other words, they would play one fine game, causing high hopes which usually were dashed the next Sunday. They were flighty and unpredictable."

Sees Rebuilding Results.

Then Jim went on to explain that he can begin to see results of his rebuilding campaign, which now is entering its second year.

"We finally have obtained the personnel to insure a good, steady performance every time we go out on the field," he declared. "Now I'm not saying we're going to win the championship, but I am saying those hit or miss days are gone."

Phil Handler, the line coach, has been around for many years, as a player and coach. He's feeling good, too.

"In the other years, I've been pessimistic, and you can add a few s's in that word just for emphasis," he said. "But this is the most capable looking Cardinal squad I've seen in 10 years."

Conzelman reminded his hearers that the Cardinals didn't have a fully rounded out offense ready for the Cleveland game. It was just a skeleton attack. He knew it would be better for the team to learn a limited number of plays rather than having the book thrown at them and inviting confusion. That is why there will be more deception, more smoothness, and more variety in the Cards' attack in later games.

Work on New Plays.

Yesterday, for instance, the squad worked on seven new plays. There will be new stuff each day, long drilling sessions and meetings in which tactics will be reviewed. The Cards will have no excuse in their game Saturday night against Detroit in Comiskey park.

Ray Mallouf, Al Babartsky, and Al Coppage watched yesterday's practice from the sidelines, but they will be ready for the Lions. Ray has a bruise on his forehead, but the headache from a blow received in the Cleveland game is diminishing. Babartsky still is limping from an ankle sprain. Coppage suffered a pulled leg muscle in practice earlier in the week.

Tickets are on sale at the Hub for the Detroit game.

Cubs Pick Rookie Schmitz to Oppose Cards' Warneke

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 19.—Johnny [Lefty] Schmitz, the Cub rookie who has two victories to his credit, will draw the mound job in the second of the series with the Cards tomorrow. Lon Warneke will be in the other half of the pitching act.

The Cubs and Cards will have to consume their ham and eggs early on Sunday. The double header scheduled for that day will be started at 12:45 p. m.

John Mize, the Cards' first baseman, was on the bench, removed from the lineup, according to the official announcement, because of a lame shoulder. There was a suspicion, however, that his recent feeble hitting caused the alteration. He had driven in only two runs in his last 15 games. Johnny Hopp was brought in from the outfield to handle the job.

Columbus, O., Sept. 19 (AP).—The champion Columbus Red Birds defeated the second place Louisville Colonels, 8 to 1, tonight in the first game of the final series of the American association Governor's cup playoffs before 4,734 spectators.

Johnny Grodzicki turned in his third straight victory of the playoffs and the Red Birds made the most of Bill Sayles' and Owen Scheetz' wildness by hitting hard and timely in the pinches to allow only one of their eight hits to be wasted.

Sayles, the losing pitcher, went out in the fourth after having yielded five of Columbus' eight hits and issued six bases on balls. Scheetz, in relief, forced a run over before retiring the side and was nicked for another pair of tallies in the sixth when Ray Sanders hit a homer over the right field fence with one on base.

Grodzicki gave up eight hits but kept them scattered except in the fourth, when the Colonels bunched three safeties for their only run. He issued six passes but with brilliant fielding was never in danger of losing the early lead presented him by his mates. Score:

Seven Lettermen at Guard.

Helge Pukema, an underrated performer last year, is the right guard. He's a senior and weighs 201 pounds. Seven major lettermen, including Levy, four others, who sat out last year's season without playing, and two very good sophomores, George Path and John Perko of Ely, Minn., who had a chance at tackle the other day, form the group of guards.

Gene Flick, Minneapolis senior, will start at center, but if Vic Kulbitski, Red Wing, Minn., sophomore, gets by his chemistry make-up examination today, he may have this center job by the time the Gophers get into the November schedule.

The quarter back situation is identical. Warren Plunkett, Austin, Minn., senior, is the current starter. Bill Garnaas, Minneapolis sophomore who can kick and is a fine pass receiver, is a threat to replace Plunkett by the time Illinois arrives in Minneapolis, Oct. 11.

Few Backs, but Good Ones.

Minnesota's back field is short in replacements. Bierman likely will interchange six men in the four spots. Capt. Bruce Smith, whom many call the greatest back in Gopher history in open field running, will remain at left half. Garnaas can play right half. Bill Daley is relief for Bob Sweiger at full back and also for Frickey at left half. After today's checkup we believe Minnesota will have the best conference half back in Bruce Smith and the best sophomore back of the year in Frickey.

The Gophers' two-a-day routine has included scrimmage one week ago [eight touchdowns against a fourth team]; scrimmage last Saturday [three touchdowns against a third team]; light scrimmage Monday and Tuesday and scrimmage against a mixed defense [11 touchdowns]. The four hour workout yesterday afternoon ended at 7 o'clock.

A squad of 38 players leaves Tuesday evening at six o'clock for the Washington game. Practices will be held in Miles City, Mont., Wednesday and in Spokane Thursday.

Current rankings of the varsity with asterisks indicating first year men follows:

Soph Back Is Lost to Iowa for the Year

Iowa City, Ia., Sept. 19 [Special].—Iowa's football squad will be without the services of Al Litzelman, 190 pound sophomore half back, for the remainder of the season. Litzelman underwent an appendicitis operation last night. Litzelman was regarded as one of the best prospects among the sophomore backs.

The squad emphasized passing today with practically every first and second team back taking part.

Capt. Bill Diehl was still on the sidelines with a bad knee. Jim Youel took over at left half after Tom Farmer had worked in the varsity berth the last two days.

BUCKEYES CUT DRILLS.

Columbus, O., Sept. 19 [Special].—Despite the fact that the school term does not open for another 10 days, the Ohio State squad will go on a one practice a day schedule starting Monday. Coach Paul Brown thus hopes to avoid the injury problem. The Buckeyes open with Missouri here Sept. 27.

Unless further complications arise John Hallabrin will be at the quarter back. The converted full back has been out of uniform with an injured side for about a week. George Lynn has been filling in during his absence.

MICHIGAN LOCKS GATES.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 19 [Special].—For the first time this year, the gates will be closed to the public tomorrow when Coach Fritz Crisler leads the Michigan team into the stadium for a secret practice under game conditions. In the scrimmage Crisler hopes to weed out the more likely prospects and give them attention during the week in preparation for the opener with Michigan State Sept. 27.

Don Robinson, sophomore half back from Detroit, demonstrated his versatility today by handling the passing duties in the morning and then coming back in the afternoon to do some fine punting.

Harry Anderson and Jack Karwales, Chicago sophomores who have been in the hospital for observation, were on the field today.

SPARTAN TACKLE HURT.

East Lansing, Mich., Sept. 19 [Special].—An added strain was placed on Michigan State reserve strength today as injuries again began to take their toll. Frank Karas, veteran tackle, wrenched an ankle. Coach Charles W. Bachman indicated he might call off tomorrow's scheduled scrimmage.

Maro Miller, a full back, and Jim Pingel, half back, have been lost for an indefinite period, and Tom Johnson, reserve tackle, has a bruised shoulder.

ILLINI MAKE SHIFTS.

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 19 [Special].—Registration held Illinois to a lone signal drill today. Coach Bob Zuppke continued to switch lineups, Daryl Robb promising sophomore quarter back from Salem, worked out at right half. Robb may be valuable as a defensive quarter back or half back and is a good passer, kicker, and runner.

Ray Grierson, sophomore end, replaced Paul Milosevich following his good defensive play yesterday against the freshmen. Arthur Pratt, sophomore half back from Bridgewater, Mass., is expected to return after learning that his draft number probably will not be reached for a year.

BADGERS BEAR DOWN.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 19 [Special].—Still searching for more speed at the guard and half back positions, Coach Harry Stuldreher tried out numerous combinations today as he prepared the Wisconsin squad for its third scrimmage of the week tomorrow.

The guard positions have resolved into a fight between a pair of juniors, Ed Riordan and George Makris, and a pair of sophomores, Harold Koehler and Pat Boyle. The best back field combination to emerge from yesterday's scrimmage had Bob Ray, madeover full back, at right half back, with Tommy Farris at quarter, Mark Hoskins at left half, and Pat Harder, a sophomore, at full back.

INJURIES PLAGUE HOOSIERS.

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 19 [Special].—Indiana's squad turned to offensive maneuvers today, but the work was directed against make-believe opposition. Coach Bo McMillin, fearful of additional injuries to key players, used a freshman eleven against the varsity without any hard body contact in tackling and blocking.

With three veterans ailing, the coach canceled tomorrow's scrimmage. "We just can't afford to lose any more, even if we have to go up against Detroit without any real work," McMillin said.

Weiland Accepts Post as Hershey Hockey Manager

Boston, Mass., Sept. 19 (AP).—Ralph [Cooney] Weiland, one of the National Hockey league's greatest centers and coach of the Boston Bruins for the last two seasons, today accepted the managership of the Hershey club in the American league. He will assume his new duties immediately. Weiland's appointment will result in the return of general manager Art Ross to the Bruins' bench.

Wright, Ziemba, Irish Regulars, Injured in Drill

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 19 (AP).—Two Notre Dame regulars were hurt today as the Irish tested their defense against Arizona plays in preparation for the first game of the season Sept. 27.

Quarter Back Harry Wright Jr. of Hempstead, N. Y., suffered a broken nose and Center Walter Ziemba of Hammond rib injuries when they dived under interference and were knocked out. Coach Frank Leahy plans a practice game tomorrow.

JAWGIEL DROPS FOSTER IN THIRD; WINS DECISION

Joe Jawgiel, Northwest Athletic club light heavyweight, scored a nine count knockdown in the third round while beating DeWitt Foster of the Savoy Athletic club in a three round amateur bout in Madison-Cicero outdoor arena last night. Other results:

Joe Manjarres, Madison-Cicero Boxing club, beat Tom Parsons, Danville [5].

Jim Crow, Danville, beat Virgil McKinnes, St. Charles [5].

Milton Little, Stanford park, beat William Mitchell, Savoy A. C. [3].

Eddie Baka, Northwest A. C., beat Hosiah McLean, Savoy A. C. [3].

Elmer Grimm, West Suburban Boxing club, knocked out Howard Edwards, Savoy A. C. [2].

Otto Mokry, Madison-Cicero Boxing club, beat Jesse Howard, Kansas City, Mo. [3].

Langston Lee, Kansas City, Mo., beat Glenn List, Danville [3].

Welch Begins Workouts for Martin Bout

Coley Welch, Portland, Me., fighter, opened workouts yesterday in Trafton's gymnasium for a 10 round bout with Tony [Cianciola] Martin, Wisconsin state middleweight champion, in Chicago Stadium outdoor arena Wednesday. Manager Chick Hayes, former bantamweight, directed his protégé thru several round of floor work. Coley, who will be making his debut in this section against Martin, will spar with Johnny Barbara this afternoon. He recently conquered José Basora to score his sixth straight victory and his 47th in 54 appearances.

Martin is the fellow Johnny Colan refused to meet after Tony beat Ernie Vigh on July 23. He went three rounds yesterday in Trafton's place with George Feltes. Feltes will oppose Jack Whittinghill, Peoria middleweight, in a six round preliminary. Whittinghill last night was substituted for Jimmy Sheppard when the latter asked to be removed from the card because of an attack of boils.

COALS FACE GIANTS.

One of the season's outstanding baseball pairings at Spencer field will bring together the Chicago American Giants and Spencer Coals in a double header tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 p. m. The old rivals will be meeting for the first time this year.

CHAMBERS ADDS KICKING TO WORK IN N. U. OFFENSE

This Makes Tuffy Truly Jack of All Trades.

Capt. Tuffy Chambers of the Northwestern football team, who has demonstrated ability as a ball carrier, blocker, and pass receiver over the last two years, may add kicking to his repertoire this fall. In recent punting drills the wiry Colorado veteran has been one of the team's best.

Chambers, who functions at right half, appears ready for his greatest season with the Wildcats. He came into prominence as a pass receiver last year by catching touchdown tosses in four games.

Bill De Correvont who has handled much of the kicking for the last two years, again will appear in that rôle but will get increasing support from Chambers. Don Buffmire, chunky sophomore from Grand Rapids, Minn., is one of the longest kickers on the squad, while Otto Graham, another sophomore, also is being groomed as a punter.

An intrasquad scrimmage will feature today's workout as Coach Lynn Waldorf reviews the accomplishments of the first week of practice.

It was learned yesterday that Danny Williams, junior half back, and Alex Sarkisian, sophomore guard, will be ineligible this fall. Both failed to make their grades in summer school.

PURDUE FACES FROSH.

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 19 [Special].—In a typical pregame workout, Purdue's squad concentrated on assignments and perfection of detail during an extended dummy scrimmage session this afternoon that provided final preparation for the annual battle with the freshmen tomorrow afternoon.

Coach Mal Elward indicated that an all-letterman eleven will be started against the yearlings, with Bill Combs and either Jim Rush or Laverne King, ends; Pete Timperman and Italo Rossi, tackles; Jim Miller and Tom Melton, guards; Alex Luego, center; Bob Kersey, quarter back; John Galvin and Tony Berto, half backs, and John Petty, full back.

Walter Cook, veteran junior half back, was given an extended workout at drop kicking today.

NEW FM STATION W59C WILL BE SALUTED TONIGHT

Tribute of U. of Chicago on Chicagoland Hour.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Two special salutes will feature the broadcast of the Chicagoland Hour between 9 p. m. and 10 p. m. over W-G-N and the Mutual network.

One will come at the conclusion of the broadcast, when Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will dedicate W59C, the new frequency modulation station of W-G-N, Inc.

The other will be a musical tribute to the University of Chicago, which is celebrating its fiftieth anniversary.

Demonstration of FM.

Col. McCormick will make his regular Chicagoland Hour speech in addition to his dedication of the new FM station, which will be broadcast over both W-G-N and W59C. Following the salute, a special demonstration of the realism of FM with musical and other sound effects will be given for the studio audience. This will be done henceforth at all evening audience shows in the No. 1 studio.

The University of Chicago salute will include three campus airs, "Gaudeamus Igitur," "Chicago Alma Mater," and "Wave the Flag," and well-known songs of Wisconsin, Northwestern, Illinois, Notre Dame, and Michigan—five universities whose history is interwoven with Chicago's.

Miss Claire to Sing.

Marion Claire, soprano star of the program, will present two solo selections, Friml's "Love Is Like a Firefly," from "Firefly," and "Sequidilla," from Bizet's "Carmen." She also will be heard during two medleys, "Songs of Spain and Mexico" and "Chimes of Normandy."

Attilio Baggiore, tenor, will join Miss Claire in two medleys and will offer two solos—Friml's "Give Me One Hour," from "White Eagle," and the old Irish tune, "Rose of Tralee." A violin solo by Michael Wilkomirski of Hubay's "Hejre Kati," will be another highlight.

Henry Weber conducts the orchestra and the entire production is under the direction of William A. Bacher.

The W-G-N chorus is under the direction of Robert Trendler.

U. OF I. STUDENT KILLED WHEN CAR RUNS OFF ROAD

Joseph Scully, 24 years old, 921 South Austin boulevard, a senior at the University of Illinois, was killed yesterday when the car in which he was riding ran off a curve on U. S. route 10 near Ogden in Champaign county. Stanley Harper, 23, of St. Joseph, Ill., the driver, was injured.

Harry Payne, 35, colored, 4662 State street, died last night in county hospital of injuries suffered earlier in the day when he was run down by an automobile at 46th street and Prairie avenue. The driver was John Wallace, 33, also colored, of 2948 Indiana avenue.

Calvin Ewart, 11, of North Judson, Ind., died last night in Chicago while in an ambulance en route to Passavant hospital. He was struck by an automobile in Demont, Ind., earlier in the day.

Berger Swanson, 57, was killed by an automobile as he was herding cattle on Illinois route 25 near his farm, 2½ miles north of St. Charles. Leslie Christensen, 20, of Elgin, the driver, said his vision was obscured by fog.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday, 670 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 463 were killed in Chicago, where 18,032 were injured in traffic accidents during the same period.

WOMEN ASSIST FIRE FIGHTERS IN LAKE FOREST

A group of Lake Forest women gave the city's fire department a hand yesterday in fighting a blaze which for a time threatened to destroy the $60,000 home occupied by Seymour Wheeler, manufacturer and civic leader. Damage to the house, at 650 North Lake road, was estimated at $15,000.

The fire, of unknown origin, started in the attic of the 2½ story brick and frame structure. While firemen under Chief George Bauman were bringing it under control, women of the neighborhood carried to safety furniture from the first and second floors. Mrs. Farwell Winston, first on the scene, rounded up Mrs. Sterling Morton, Mrs. George Richardson, Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen, Mrs. A. B. Dick Jr., and Mrs. Edison Dick to assist her.

In addition to damaging the house, the fire destroyed about $10,000 in linens, clothing, and furniture stored in the attic. The house is owned by Mrs. Gilbert Porter.

INDICT 5 TOUGHS FOR RAPING GIRL, BEATING ESCORT

Five young Joliet toughs were indicted yesterday by the Will county grand jury for the recent raping of a 22 year old woman and the brutal beating of her male companion. The defendants are James Bondercuk, 19; Nicholas Skiniotes, 17; James Alessio, 17; Curtis Binzen, 16, and Clarence Spesak, 18.

The five are accused of curbing the car in which Joseph Cernugel, 25, of Joliet, and his companion were riding late on the night of Sept. 2 and dragging Cernugel from the machine and beating him. After tying Cernugel with the girl's clothing, each of the youths allegedly assaulted her, after which they fled with $12 taken from Cernugel.

The five now are in the Will county jail.

ASK SEPARATION OF TRACTION AND COURT ELECTIONS

The referendum on Chicago's traction unification ordinance, which has been planned for Nov. 4 along with the judicial election, may be postponed until December, when a special traction vote would be held, according to reports in the city hall yesterday.

City administration leaders expressed fear that the traction ordinance, if placed on the Nov. 4 ballot, might be made a "political" issue in the judicial campaign. The judicial race is for 21 Superior court judges, the chief justice and one associate judge of the Municipal court.

The holding of the traction and judicial elections on two separate days would result in extra costs of about $200,000 for judges and clerks and polling place rentals.

SET REGISTERING DATES FOR COURT ELECTION NOV. 4

The Chicago board of election commissioners announced yesterday that special facilities for registration and registration corrections will be provided before the judicial election Nov. 4.

The permanent registration act provides merely for central registration at the city hall for occasions such as this, but the board has arranged for the use of the city's 138 fire stations as registration places on Oct. 1, 2, 3, 4, and 6. Between 1 p. m. and 9 p. m. qualified electors may register at any station or may report changes in address or other corrections in former registrations.

In the Cook county suburbs under the board's jurisdistion a similar opportunity for voters there will be provided at the offices of 14 city, village, and town clerks on Oct. 4 and Oct. 6. It is probable similar arrangements will be made by County Clerk M. J. Flynn for the suburbs under his jurisdiction, but no announcement has been made yet.

CONFIDENCE MEN HUNTED AFTER HOSPITAL FRAUD

Police are searching for a confidence man who defrauded Henrotin hospital of $25 and who, it is expected, might attempt to cheat other hospitals.

The man operated with the aid of another, whom he represented as his father. The two called on a north side physician and discussed hospitalization for the "father."

Then the younger man went to Henrotin hospital, selected a room, and tendered a $100 check for $75 payment in advance. He needed $25 cash, he said, to pay for the ambulance which was to transport his father to the hospital. The check was accepted, the man was given $25, then the check was found to be worthless.

NELSON ISSUES HOME BUILDING PRIORITY ORDER

Preference Is Given to 275 Areas.

BY AL CHASE.

Donald M. Nelson, priorities director of the Office of Production Management, yesterday issued an order in Washington extending government priority assistance in obtaining materials for 200,000 privately financed homes and 100,000 to be erected by government agencies in 275 so-called "defense areas" of which Chicago is one. The order, which becomes effective Monday, grants priority only to houses costing $6,000 or less—this figure including both land and building.

Application blanks will be available today at the Chicago Real Estate board, according to Leonard Downie, business manager. Federal Housing administration offices have been designated as the servicing agency for the priority rating routine.

Must Certify to Necessity.

On these forms the applicant must certify:

1. That the items of material or equipment to be purchased are necessary to the completion of the construction, remodeling, or rehabilitation of a home costing $6,000 or less

2. That no practical substitute or alternative source of supply is available.

3. That quantities are not greater nor delivery dates earlier than required.

4. That the rehabilitation shall create or make habitable increased living accommodations.

The applicant also must state the market price of the land and building, or the estimated monthly shelter rent [excluding charges for light, heat, etc.] if he intends to rent it; or the sale price if he plans selling it. The FHA will check the application as to suitability of plans, costs, material quantities, etc. It then will be certified by a representative of the defense housing coördinator as to whether or not it involves defense housing.

Next Step: Priority Rating.

The next step will be the granting by the OPM of a priority number or rating, a copy of which will be returned to the builder.

To qualify as defense housing, according to the Washington ruling, a private project must be:

"1. Located within a reasonable commuting distance from the place of defense employment in any of the defense housing critical areas.

"2. Intended primarily, suitable for, and available to workers engaged or to be engaged in one of the defense activities within the area.

"3. Offered at a sales price or rental within reach of the defense workers for whose occupancy the housing is intended."

Officials explained that construction of homes above the cost limit or for persons other than armament workers will not be prohibited but that the priorities order very definitely will cut into the amount of such construction possible, because of limited supplies of many materials.

Seek Ratings for Others.

The advisory committee of the National Association of Real Estate Boards expects to continue negotiations for classifying of "civilian housing."

"While civilian housing will receive a lower priority rating than defense housing, it is exceedingly important that it be recognized in the rating system," said Herbert U. Nelson, executive vice president of the N. A. R. E. B. "Otherwise, of course, all private building except defense housing ultimately would cease."

Priorities Director Nelson said that highest preferred ratings for defense homes will be given to projects under construction as of Sept. 1, 1941, and to remodeling and rehabilitation. Lower ratings will be given for new construction for rent and a still lower rating for new construction for sale.

List Midwest Defense Areas.

Following are the cities listed as "defense areas" in five midwestern states:

ILLINOIS: Alton, Chicago-Waukegan, Davenport-Rock Island, Joliet-Wilmington, Bartonl, Rockford and Savanna.

INDIANA: Anderson, Charleston-Jeffersonville-Louisville [Ky.], Connersville, Fort Wayne, Gary-Hammond, Indianapolis, La Fayette, LaPorte-Kingsbury, Madison, South Bend, Evansville-Henderson [Ky.].

WISCONSIN: Beloit, Green Bay, Madison, Manitowoc, Milwaukee, Oshkosh, Racine-Kenosha.

MICHIGAN: Bay City-Saginaw, Battle Creek, Detroit-Ypsilanti, Lansing, Midland, Muskegon, Pontiac.

IOWA: Burlington, Council Bluffs and DesMoines.

The defense housing "critical list" includes steel and iron, electrical supplies, plumbing and gas distribution systems, heating and ventilating equipment, household equipment and land development items.

"Household equipment" will include "only ranges and refrigerators [as available in the industry]; incinerator hardware and fittings, and refuse receptacles."

GOLDBLATT STEPS OUT OF CHICAGO AREA TO BUFFALO

Extension of Goldblatt activities outside the Chicago area was disclosed yesterday when Nathan Goldblatt, secretary and treasurer of Goldblatt Brothers, Inc., announced the purchase of a store located in an outlying section of Buffalo. It is to be included in a chain called the Gold Bond Department stores, a division of Goldblatt Brothers.

Now known as the Eckhardt Department store, the Buffalo unit will be the fourth in the Gold Bond chain. Two will be opened this month in Milwaukee and South Bend and the third on Belmont avenue, west of Central, in Chicago. Nathan Goldblatt has charge of the Gold Bond chain.

EVEN THE BUTTONS ON YOUR SHIRT HAVE JOINED PRICE RISE

Add another item that is growing scarcer and more costly—the little mother of pearl button used on the better grades of men's shirts. Prices of ocean pearl buttons were reported yesterday to have advanced generally from 65 cents a gross to 85 and 95 cents a gross, with gains on certain grades even larger.

H. T. Schwanda of Schwanda & Sons, New York dealers in mother of pearl, attributed the rise to a number of factors. He said that overproduction of mother of pearl developed after Japanese interests in 1936 pooled their fishing operations. The Japanese, he said, brought up so many pearl shells in Australian and Dutch East Indian waters that the market was glutted.

With a huge surplus on the market, Schwanda said, prices dropped to a point where pearl fishers could not meet expenses and stopped their operations. The war came at the end of a couple of years of small production. Demand picked up, but the supply was limited. War demands consumed the supply of ships for deliveries and Japanese and other pearl divers had other work to do.

Building Jobs Are Held Up by Materials Lack

Building projects, both federal and private, in many parts of Chicago are being postponed because of threatened inability to obtain necessary construction materials, industries disclosed yesterday. Even where the owner is willing to go ahead, contractors in many instances, are refusing to make construction bids for fear they may be unable to carry out their contracts because of priorities restrictions.

The largest example of this is the Chicago Housing authority's big north side government housing project to be known as Frances Cabrini Homes. The construction cost, it is estimated, will be about $2,910,000.

Fail to Bid on Project.

CHA advertised for bids on Aug. 1. Lack of response by contractors caused the opening date to be extended a month and bids were advertised for again on Sept. 4. The bids are not due until Sept. 30 but already several big contractors have advised CHA that until the project receives a priority rating they will not submit bids.

Elizabeth Wood, executive secretary of CHA, is in Washington trying to learn what priority rating the Cabrini project will be given.

Delayed at Least a Month.

Even if priorities are adjusted at once the big project will be delayed approximately a month. The 16 acres, comprising a 6 square block area bounded by the alley north of Chicago avenue, Oak street, the alley east of Larrabee street, and Hudson avenue, has been partially cleared of old residences.

The entire Cabrini project will cost about $3,736,000 and will accommodate 586 families in its 56 buildings.

Army Orders 41 Million Cans of Various Vegetables

Officials of the Chicago quartermaster depot announced one of the largest canned vegetable purchases ever made by the army yesterday—41,210,868 cans costing $4,451,017.

PAY ROLLS AND JOBS IN ILLINOIS MAKE BIG GAINS FOR AUGUST

Employment in Illinois was 2.1 per cent larger in August than in July, and pay rolls were up 4.2 per cent, the Illinois department of labor reported yesterday following its monthly surveys which included 6,534 business and industrial establishments.

Approximately two-thirds of the employment gain was attributed to normal seasonal factors and the remainder to increased industrial activity under the armament program. The average July to August increase for the 1923-'40 period was 1.4 per cent.

Of the 797,355 workers covered by the survey, 66,953 received pay increases averaging 6.8 per cent.

August employment was 130.6 per cent and August pay rolls 161.6 per cent, compared with the monthly average for the 1935-'39 period.

The average wage in August was $31.18 per week, compared with $30.82 a week in July and $27.51 in August, 1940.

SEC Widens Separation of Morgan Firms

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19 (AP).—The Securities commission today prohibited the banking firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. from acting as trustee for any securities sold by the investment firm of Morgan Stanley & Co.

The commission said in a lengthy opinion that the firms were under common control and the trust indenture act of 1939 disqualifies as trustees persons or firms whose loyalties to others may conflict with their duties to protect investors.

J. P. Morgan [top] and Henry S. Morgan.

The noted New York banking firm had asked for the opinion in preparation for acting as trustee of indenture securities to be issued by Shell Union Oil corporation. The ruling, however, applied to any other securities issued under the sponsorship of Morgan Stanley & Co.

Separated by Banking Act.

The businesses of the two firms once were conducted together, but the federal banking act of 1933 required their separation. No officer or director of one of the companies is an officer or director of the other, the commission conceded, but it said the same families control both firms. Thus, while J. P. Morgan is the head of the banking firm, his son, Henry S. Morgan, is the principal stockholder and an officer of the investment firm.

"We are of the opinion," the commission said, "that the persons in control of the corporations have such a community of interest as to preclude a finding by us that the trust company is not under direct or indirect common control with the underwriter."

Analysis of Holdings.

This analysis of stock holdings was made public:

J. P. Morgan and his family own 15.50 per cent of the capital stock of J. P. Morgan & Co. and 40.53 per cent of the preferred stock of Morgan Stanley & Co. Thomas W. Lamont and family own 34.56 per cent of the banking firm and 23.37 per cent of the investment firm; the family of the late Charles Steele owns 11 per cent of the banking firm and 24.34 per cent of the investment firm.

Russell C. Leffingwell and family own 8.75 per cent of the banking firm and 3.80 per cent of the investment firm; Francis D. Bartow and family own 2.5 per cent of the banking firm and 1.11 per cent of the investment firm. Arthur M. Anderson and family own 3.12 per cent of the banking firm and 1.11 per cent of the investment firm.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19 (AP).—Leon Henderson, price administrator, granted permission today to persons who established a long or short position in raw sugar futures before Aug. 14 to liquidate their contracts. One of the effects of the order, Henderson said, will be to enable holders of September futures contracts to make or take delivery of actual sugar without violating the schedule of price ceilings which went into effect Aug. 14.

WICKARD WHIPS UP VAST DRIVE FOR PEAK CROPS

Exhorts Midwest to Feed British.

BY PHILIP WARDEN.

An Indiana hog raiser with more than a billion dollars in hard cash to spend within the next year to support prices of farm commodities and obtain lend-lease food supplies for Britain stood in the Terrace Casino room of the Morrison hotel yesterday and exhorted more than 400 midwestern farmers to make 1942 the most productive year in all agricultural history.

That man, Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard, revealed a program so vast that his cohorts will make a door-to-door canvass of every farm in the United States to learn just what each individual farmer plans for 1942—how many acres of corn will he plant, how many sows will he breed, how much milk will his cows produce.

Prepares Flood of Publicity.

To bring the campaign nation-wide publicity the department of agriculture has prepared 10 to 100 colored posters for distribution in every county in the United States. It has free movies available for farm meetings, circulars, letter inserts, and all kinds of publicity material to flood the farming areas.

For two days every important official in the agricultural department has been in Chicago explaining the program to the agricultural agents of the 12 midwestern states. These agents in turn are expected to go back to their homes and carry the administration's message to the nation's farmers.

Thousands of dollars were spent in taking the program to the department's agents in the hinterlands—meetings were held in Salt Lake City before the Chicago session. A similar campaign will be waged in New York next week and shortly thereafter in Memphis, Tenn.

Plead for Farm Workers.

The Chicago sessions moved smoothly under the skilful handling of the Washington burocrats until in the closing hour the question of getting sufficient farm labor was brought to the attention of the leaders. From every part of the midwest came pleas for assistance from the department to help get men to work on the farms.

Roy F. Hendrickson, until yesterday director of personnel for the department, whose appointment as successor to Milo Perkins as administrator of the Surplus Marketing administration and director of marketing was announced at the closing sessions, told the group the surplus labor pool had almost dried up.

Secretary Wickard said, "I am not much worried about the labor problem. It does concern me about the complaints I have heard in many places that labor in defense industries is running up wages out of all reason."

British Will Get Food.

In calling for all-out production of most farm commodities with the exception of wheat, tobacco, and cotton, Wickard said that British food demands in this country would be met.

"Thus far we have gotten off pretty lightly in payment for what some people have done in the defense of democracy," he asserted.

The program announced at the meeting calls for a 15 per cent increase in all farm production. One official explained that to reach the department's goal every cow in the United States would have to give a pint more milk every day in the year. He said the chickens are going to have to lay more eggs and the pigs produce more little pigs.

First figures on what the American farmer expects to do—all jotted down on a questionaire he will be handed—are expected to be in the hands of the county agents for forwarding to Washington by Dec. 1.

Strike Threat Rears Again in Plane Industry

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Strike threats affecting major producers in the nation's aviation industry developed last night, with more than 40,000 workers involved.

AFL machinists at the San Diego, Cal., plant of the Consolidated Aircraft corporation announced wage negotiations had been broken off and that they were prepared to strike to enforce demands for a 10-cent-an-hour increase. Union officials said they had asked the National Defense Mediation board to consider the case.

At Buffalo, N. Y., the Aircraft, nonaffiliated union of employés at Curtiss-Wright corporation's two Buffalo warplane plants, voted to strike unless the national labor board granted an employé election in 10 days.

Threat at Bendix, N. J.

CIO UAW employés of Air Associates, Inc., Bendix, N. J., scene of a 21 day strike in July, authorized a second strike call and empowered the union executive committee to set the date. The action was taken by 300 workers after, it was said, they "reviewed a series of incidents at the plant in the last few weeks."

Union leaders said 23,300 Consolidated Aircraft employés were affected by wage negotiations there. The Buffalo Curtiss-Wright plants employ 15,000.

The tieup of steel companies' coal mines was ended yesterday by an agreement for the 44,000 striking miners to return to work while negotiations continue between the operators and the United Mine Workers [CIO] on a contract. At the same time, a threat of a strike in the cotton and rayon bleaching and dyeing industries was made by the CIO Textile Workers of America.

Resume Work Monday.

The defense mediation board obtained an agreement for resumption of mining Monday in the "captive" coal collieries—so called because their output is used exclusively by steel companies which in most cases are owners.

It provides that operations shall be conducted under terms of the Appalachian contract, except that a provision for a union shop shall not apply. This temporary arrangement is to continue for at least 30 days.

The Appalachian contract is that signed by the UMWA with northern mines after the great coal strike of last spring. Among other things, it provides for a basic $7 a day wage and requires that all miners after a probationary period join the UMWA.

Three Ohio Mines Closed.

A walkout of CIO United Mine Workers stilled operations at three of Ohio's largest mines, operated by the Hanna Coal company of Cleveland. Company officials declared the walkouts at the Willow Grove mine in Belmont county and the Dun Glen and Piney Fork mines in Jefferson county violated the Appalachian agreement. Union leaders were unable to get the men to resume work. Picking table boys demanded wage increases from $5.15 to $6 a day.

At Hazleton, Pa., the anthracite board of conciliation, adjudicator of all disputes over interpretation of the contract between producers and the United Mine Workers, demanded an immediate end to a nine day old revolt by 20,000 miners against increased union dues and assessments.

George Baldanzi, executive vice president of the textile union, said hoarding of certain materials in hope of higher prices was threatening widespread unemployment. He asked Leon Henderson, price administrator, to investigate, and said the union would call out its members unless this was done.

Fear Spread of Ship Strike.

In maritime circles, meantime, there was widespread apprehension that a general strike affecting all merchant shipping might arise from disputes between seamen and ship owners over war bonuses. The Sailors Union of the Pacific, it developed, has made demands on the Pacific American Shipowners association for higher bonuses for travel in war zones. Three west coast ships were tied up in New York as a result. Eleven other vessels previously had been held in ports by a strike called Saturday by the Seafarers' International union [AFL].

At Key West, Fla., carpenters who walked off armament and federal housing projects were joined by laborers. With 1,600 men involved, work was halted on a submarine base, a naval air station, and two housing projects. Wage boosts are sought.

At Buffalo, N. Y., a three day strike at two plants of the American Radiator and Standard Sanitary corporation ended when the company and three unions agreed to a collective bargaining agency election.

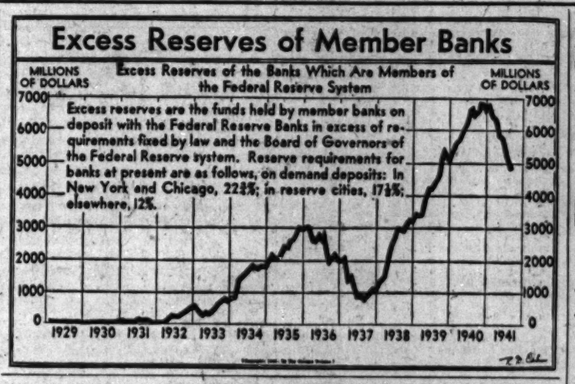
Excess Reserves of Member Banks



Nation Told by Henderson to Tighten Belt

Princeton, N. J., Sept. 19 [Special].—American industry in the months to come will feel increasingly the squeeze of curtailments in civilian consumers goods output attributable to priorities restrictions, and Americans will have to tighten their belts, Leon Henderson, federal price administrator, warned here tonight.

Addressing a dinner attended by editors and publishers of trade publications, Henderson said the "cry of wolf" associated with increasing arms program restrictions is real. The "tories" of today, he said, are not individuals but "inaction, apathy, wishful thinking, ignorance, and blindness to danger."

Says Hoarding Must End.

Curtailment of consumer goods output "is the only real answer" to the needs of the arms program, Henderson declared, but he added:

"We in Washington also have a responsibility to see that reductions in output of civilian goods are not carried too far, to see that civilian morale and civilian industry are not harmed unnecessarily.

"This means that minimum supplies of scarce materials must be reserved for civilian uses. Hoarding of scarce materials by industry and governmental agencies alike must end. Call it what you will, it hurts the defense program and hurts the country."

Cut Flow to Big Holders.

Action already has been taken in some cases to reduce the flow of raw materials to concerns holding huge stock piles, Henderson said.

Explaining his own understanding of his federal administrative post, Henderson said, "I see my job as primarily one of helping to preserve American institutions when the emergency is over."

DENY REHEARING OF POWER RATES CASE IN CHICAGO

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19 (AP).—The federal power commission announced today that it had denied a petition of the Chicago District Electric Generating corporation for a rehearing on the commission order which applied the prudent investment theory as a basis for rate making and directed the corporation to reduce its rates to Commonwealth Edison company by $521,978 annually.

A similar petition by the Illinois Commerce commission also was dismissed, the commission said.

The agency, however, extended from Sept. 16 to Oct. 1 the time in which the corporation shall file with the commission a revised schedule of rates and charges to Commonwealth Edison.

UPTURN IN BUSINESS LEVELING OFF, DUN'S SURVEY INDICATES

New York, Sept. 19 (AP).—Reports of business activity this week gave growing evidence of a leveling off in the uptrend, Dun & Bradstreet said today in the Weekly Review.

"Retailers frequently described activity as a return to normal after the spectacular increases of August," the agency said. "Diminished forward buying of consumers began to be reflected in wholesale operations. Cautious ordering was more pronounced, particularly in lines on which price increases recently had been rapid.

"Shortages of materials again limited production expansion. The gap between defense and nondefense activity continued to widen, but more civilian goods industries still reported output above a year ago."

Store sales showed a diminishing margin of gain for the third consecutive week. In the major geographic areas the agency estimated gains over a year ago as follows: New England, 10 to 20 per cent; east, 8 to 15; south, 14 to 22; middle west, 15 to 18; southwest, 12 to 25; northwest, 10 to 17, and Pacific coast, 14 to 20.

CEILING PRICES ARE PLACED ON WASTE PAPER

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19 (AP).—Leon Henderson, price administrator, imposed a schedule of maximum prices tonight on waste paper sold in the area east of the Rocky mountains.

Henderson said the prices, effective Oct. 1, were in line with the quotations prevailing on June 16. They range from $13 to $49 a short ton, depending on grade, and are the maximums which consuming mills can pay shippers at the point of shipment. Prices to be paid by wholesalers, brokers and dealers should be below these maximum prices, Henderson said.

Maximum prices were not established in the area west of the Rocky mountains, he said, because "no inflationary price rise is threatened in that area."

A. J. Browning Is Named Special Assistant to Nelson

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—Donald M. Nelson, executive director of the Supply Priorities and Allocations board, has announced the appointment of Albert J. Browning, president of United Wall Paper Factories, Inc., Chicago, as his special assistant. Browning was with the Office of Production Management, purchases division, until last April.

JULY SHIPMENT OF FOOD BOOSTS EXPORT VOLUME

Lend-Lease Flow Is Largest of Year.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19 (AP).—The commerce department said today large lend-lease shipments of food and other supplies to England boosted United States merchandise exports in July to the highest level of the year.

Food exports, particularly, jumped in July, altho they have been declining almost steadily since the war began. Food shipments totaled 46 million dollars, more than double the monthly average so far this year. They included 11 million dollars worth of meat, 6 million dollars of lard, 9 million dollars of dairy products, and 4 million dollars worth of eggs. The department no longer gives the destination of individual commodities but indicated nearly all of this food went to England.

Figures May Be Incomplete.

July reports so far available show that exports totaled 359 million dollars, but the department said that delay in filing and tabulating export documents made it inadvisable to accept this as a final figure for comparison with other months. Exports were $329,737,000 in June and $316,669,000 in July of last year.

Imports declined slightly to $277,847,000, compared with $279,536,000 in June and $232,393,000 in July, 1940.

For the first seven months of the year, exports totaled $2,445,676,000, imports $1,871,944,000, making an export excess of $573,732,000. In the similar period last year exports were $2,381,065,000, imports $1,526,455,000, and the export excess $854,601,000.

Only 360 Planes Shipped.

Aeronautic exports showed little change in July. Compared with June, shipments of airplanes increased from 352 to 360, but shipments of airplane engines declined from 478 to 296.

STOCKS DECLINE ON BEARISH VIEW OF WAR REPORTS

Average Loss Is Largest in More than Month.

New York, Sept. 19 (AP).—The stock market registered today the largest average loss in more than a month, with the war news receiving the principal blame and other factors contributing. The list displayed slipping tendencies from the start and, at the close, losses ranged from fractions to a point or so for leaders. There were a few setbacks of as much as three.

Offerings never were especially urgent, however, and transfers were 577,980 shares compared with 790,865 the day before. The Associated Press composite of 60 stocks finished with a net decline of .4 of a point at 43.6, biggest reaction since Aug. 15. Counting Thursday's slip of .1, the day's backslide wiped out the rally of Wednesday.

War News Is Blamed.

Bearish interpretations were placed on German-Russian bulletins indicating the Nazis were sweeping thru the Ukraine. In addition, authoritative quarters in London emphasized the critical position of the Reds.

The usual lightening of commitments as a week-end precaution brought a reduction of bids in many instances. Signs of a slackening of the upward business curve also widened the ranks of market conservatives, a downturn in major commodities helped cloud the situation.

J. L Case broke 3 points. United States Steel, Bethlehem, and Youngstown Sheet lost a point or more each as shortage of materials persisted as a threat to mill operations.

A stock exchange seat sold for $28,000, a drop of $2,000 under the preceding transaction.

CHICAGO STOCKS LOWER.

Prices dipped on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday in transactions totaling 22,000 shares. Three stocks, however, reached new 1941 highs at the close. They were Swift International, up ¾ to 24¾; Serrick corporation, up ¼ to 6, and Signode Steel, up 1 to 30½.

Other volume leaders were: Anaconda Copper Mining, off ⅝ to 28½; Northwest Airlines, off ⅛ to 12¼, and Utility and Industrial common, unchanged at 1/16.

RAIL EQUIPMENT FIRM VOTES $1, FIRST SINCE 1937

Directors of the Chicago Railway Equipment company yesterday declared a $1 dividend on the common stock, the first since a payment of the same amount was made in December, 1937. The regular quarterly dividend of 43¾ cents on the preferred also was authorized.

The Phillips-Jones corporation authorized a $1.75 dividend on the preferred stock. The company, reported to have received an order from the government of over $350,000 for khaki and flannel shirts last June, previously paid the same amount on the issue in February, 1938.

The American Manufacturing company, maker of rope, declared a dividend of 75 cents against a payment of 50 cents in July.

COURT UPHOLDS PACKER UNION IN BIG WAGE SUIT

Ruling May Affect Five Millions of Pay.

A decision expected to affect back wage suits for $5,000,000 pending against Chicago meat packing houses was given yesterday by Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe. He upheld the wage and hour division of the labor department in its injunction proceedings against Swift & Co.

The injunction suit was based on the government's contention that the 14 week exemption from overtime provisions of the wage and hour act covered only employés engaged directly in the slaughtering, handling, and dressing of live stock and poultry. The company, which employs 4,425 in its Chicago plant, maintained that all workers were included in the exemption. The wage and hour division asserted only 10 per cent of these were under the 14 week provision.

Ruling Defines Employés.

Judge Igoe's ruling defined the employés affected by the exemption. His decision eliminated such employés as office and clerical workers, truck drivers, elevator operators, and watchmen.

The court agreed with the company in its contention that the overtime exemption could be applied at any time during the year. The exemption was designed to meet seasonal fluctuations in the packing industry. Judge Igoe found in addition that all employés in the Swift plant were engaged in interstate commerce, giving the court complete jurisdiction.

Frederic Burnham, chief counsel for Swift, said he would file an immediate petition for a review and rehearing of the case. Alex Elson, wage and hour division attorney, declared the decision a "long step forward" toward equitable treatment of all employés.

Five Suits Involved.

Arthur Goldberg, attorney for the CIO Packinghouse Workers Organizing committee, said the ruling settled the question of liability in five suits seeking $5,000,000 in back wages and damages brought by the union against the packers, including Swift, Armour & Co., and Wilson & Co.

He asserted only the amount of payment remains to be settled.

★SMALL BUSINESS★ MAN'S DEPARTMENT

This department is prepared to help the small business man who is seeking information on priorities, substitute materials, and related subjects. Inquiries should be directed to the Small Business Man's department, Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill. All inquiries will be given careful attention. Letters on subjects of broad interest will be published and commented upon.

CHEMICALS.

What chemicals are under mandatory priority control?

Answer: The priorities division of the Office of Production Management has placed the following chemicals under mandatory control:

Chlorine, formaldehyde, paraformaldehyde, hexamethylenetetramine, chlorinated hydrocarbon refrigerants, ethyl alcohol and related compounds, methyl alcohol, phenols, phosphorus oxychloride, potassium perchlorate, potassium permanganate, toluene, and tricresyl and triphenyl phosphates.

Phenols, phosphorus oxychloride, and tricreasyl and triphenyl phosphates were the most recent additions to the list. They are used directly or indirectly in making degaussing cables for the navy. The cables are said to protect ships against magnetic mines.

Some of these chemicals are on the priorities critical list, against which army and navy purchasing officers automatically can apply priority ratings. Copies of the list may be obtained by writing to the Small Business Man's department.

SHOPPING LIST.

I understand that the OPM has prepared a "shopping list" of articles which the army ordnance department is buying. Where can I see the list?

Answer: The list of items being purchased by the army ordnance department under its new $2,889,000,000 buying program may be examined at the Chicago ordnance district office at 38 South Dearborn street or the OPM field office in the Federal Reserve Bank building at 164 West Jackson boulevard.

If you live outside Chicago you may see the list at one of the following OPM field offices nearest you: 160 Fort Street West, Detroit, Mich.; room 505 Crocker building, Des Moines, Ia.; room 1124 First Wisconsin National Bank building, Milwaukee, Wis., and 411 Locust street, St. Louis.

STAMPED INSTEAD.

Is the priorities division no longer using form PD-2 as a priority certificate on civilian orders?

Answer: To speed the processing of priority applications, the priorities division is employing a special stamp which gives an approved application the validity of a priority certificate.

Organize for Aid

The radio manufacturing industry, caught in the pincer of priorities shortages, is organizing to present its plight to Office of Production Management officials, it was learned yesterday as the executive and priorities committees of the Radio Manufacturers' association closed a three day conference at the Stevens hotel. The industry's primary problem of obtaining aluminium, cartons, and other materials was discussed, but no report was issued.

"We are planning to meet in Washington with representatives of the Office of Production Management to work out some program for the radio manufacturing industry," Bond Geddes, executive vice president of the association, said. "Naturally we are not ready to report on any developments until after our conference with OPM."

Week's Output of Autos Climbs to 60,615 Units

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 19 (AP).—Ward's Reports, Inc., estimated today that automobile and truck output this week would total 60,615 units, continuing a gradual increase started in the second month of the new model period. The total compares with 53,165 units last week and 78,820 a year ago.

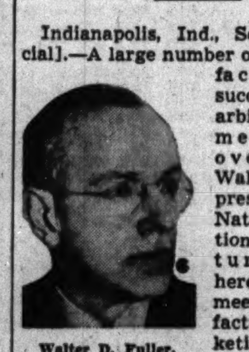
Substitute Painted Steel for Zinc Coated Can Tops

New York, Sept. 19 (AP).—Substitution of painted steel for zinc coated metal waste can tops was reported today by the National Enameling and Stamping company, which estimated the saving would be about 20 per cent of the strategic metal ordinarily used in a garbage or ash can.

FULLER ASSAILS PLANT CLOSINGS THRU PRIORITIES

Warns of Public Wrath if They Prove Needless.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 19 [Special].—A large number of small manufacturers may succumb to the arbitrary governmental control over materials, Walter D. Fuller, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, warned here today at a meeting of manufacturers, marketing and research executives.



Walter D. Fuller.

"Plant after plant making nondefense goods out of materials requisitioned for the defense program has been closed," he asserted. "More closings with more unemployment for workers are ahead, according to word from Washington.

Called Backbone of Nation.

"The so-called small manufacturers in city, town, and at the cross-roads are the backbone of American industry. Their products go into every element of our national life. Without them grows an alarming concentration of business and industry. America cannot afford to see these manufacturers go down when we are striving to preserve democracy."

Fuller said that there will be a "record breaking flight of dead cats" if the American public discovers that the closing of plants and the unemployment of millions of workers were unnecessary.

Hits Depression Forecasts.

He decried the talk of "economic planners" of the coming depression and the suggested panacea of public works projects after the war. He warned that the planners may be "spreading the germ of economic defeatism to cultivate their new order."

Calling attention to the huge government expenditures to finance new armament plants, Fuller urged that private industry must use advertising, selling, invention, and ingenuity in forestalling the growth of socialism.

Green Names Medill OPM Mine Coordinator of State

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 19 (AP).—Acting at the request of Donald M. Nelson, director of priorties, Gov. Green today appointed Robert M. Medill, state director of mines and minerals, as coördinator of mines to coöperate with the Office of Production Management. Nelson asked the coördinator to check on equipment and supplies purchases of Illinois mines and to aid the OPM in establishing priorities for necessary repairs and operating materials.

LARGER PROFITS SHOWN BY VARIED INDUSTRY LINES

Movie, Corset, Arms Makers Report.

The widespread effects of the business boom were reflected yesterday in reports of improved earnings made by two movie makers, a corset manufacturer, and a company working on war department contracts.

Universal Pictures company, Inc., announced that it made a profit of $2,000,864, the equivalent of $7.32 a share on the common stock, in the 39 weeks ended Aug. 2, compared with $1,771,804 a year earlier. In a preliminary report for the year ended July 28, Columbia Pictures corporation reported its profit was $552,744, the equivalent of 95 cents a common share, compared with $512,186, or 83 cents a share last year.

Gossard Earnings Rise.

The H. W. Gossard company, Chicago manufacturer of women's foundation garments, had a net profit of $268,140, equal to $1.24 a share, in the nine months ended Aug. 31, against $240,059, or $1.10 a share in the corresponding 1940 period.

The semiannual report of the Schwitzer-Cummins company, Indianapolis, Ind., manufacturer of industrial fans and machinery, disclosed that "approximately 75 per cent of this company's productive effort is for items classified as national defense according to the war department's definition of defense requirements."

Louis Schwitzer, president, said in his report that "the raw material required by this company has to be committed for far in advance and since our requirements are now so great and so varied, it takes a tremendous amount of money and material to put ourselves in a favorable position to fill our customers' orders. This inventory represents about 60 days' supply at current production levels."

Schwitzer said in his report that the company earned $164,266, or $1.13 a common share, in the six months ended July 31, compared with $68,674, or 47 cents a share in the corresponding period last year.

DECLARES OTHER INDUSTRIES PAY MORE THAN RAILS

B. M. Jewell States Case for 14 Unions.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Declaring that railroad workers are paid less than employés in other industries, B. M. Jewell, head of the railway employés' division, American Federation of Labor, started arguments yesterday of the 14 nonoperating unions for wage increases of 30 cents an hour, with a 70 cents an hour minimum.

He outlined the labor position before the Presidential fact finding commission which is trying to reach conclusions for a settlement of the dispute between railroad labor and management over wages, rules covering working conditions, vacations, and other issues. The commission is assembling information in public hearings in Kimball hall.

Says Others Get Boosts.

Jewell said the last time the workers for whom he is spokesman received a raise in pay was the 5 cents an hour increase obtained thru mediation in 1937. Since then, he said, workers in many other industries have received increases two or three times. The Big Five operating brotherhoods are acting separately in requests for wage increases.

"Other workers have been sharing the general upswing in business," Jewell said, "and the carriers have been getting their share, but the railroad workers have not."

He said railroad mechanics are paid 85 cents an hour whereas mechanics in other industries get $1.25 an hour or more.

The pick and shovel days of railroad operations are now largely a thing of the past, Jewell said, in urging increases for men who are paid 36 cents an hour. He said that track men have become semiskilled workers whose tools now are pneumatic hammers and other machines instead of picks and shovels.

Calls Car Washers Skilled.

Even men who formerly washed passenger coaches with soap and water and brushes now use machines and special cleansing preparations, a procedure which requires skill, he said.

Allen P. Matthew, a member of the railroads' counsel, cross-examined Jewell as to the reasons the wage increases are being sought. Jewell stated that the recent upturn in business was one of the reasons. Matthew commented that the requests of the 14 unions would add 600 million dollars to railroad operating costs. He said another 36 millions would have to be added to cover the 6 per cent contribution to the employés' retirement fund.

Earlier W. M. Homer, research director for the telegraphers' union completed the arguments for vacations with pay being asked by the 14 unions. One of his arguments was that if British railroads can give vacations under war conditions there is no reason why American railroads should not do likewise.

URGE RATE BOOST PLEA.

Jersey City, N. J., Sept. 19 (AP).—Stockholders of the Central Railroad of New Jersey at the annual meeting today called on railroads to seek higher freight rates in the event pay increases are granted employés now negotiating with the carriers.

The company reported that for the first time since 1931 a profit was anticipated. A $500,000 profit for the first nine months of 1941 was expected, officers reported, in contrast with $2,595,000 lost during a similar period in 1940.

HULL 'EXPLORING' U. S. TRADE PACT WITH MEXICANS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19 [Special].—Secretary of State Cordell Hull revealed today that he is conducting exploratory conversations with Mexico on the possible negotiation of a reciprocal trade agreement. If one should be concluded, he said, it would be on the pattern of other reciprocal agreements but much limited in scope because of war conditions.

The United States never has had any commercial treaty with Mexico. If a reciprocal agreement should be reached now, it would be subsequent to the overall agreement, now in the final stages of negotiation, which deals with agrarian and other claims, as well as with the Mexican expropriation of private oil properties.

Hull disclosed no details, but it is assured that a reciprocal agreement would deal to an important extent with the minerals Mexico exports to the United States. It also might cover petroleum exports.

Day by Day on the Farm By GAIL COMPTON

A Tomato Experiment.

Sept. 19, 1941.

WHEN the tomato plants had a good start early this year, part of them were tied to stakes so that they were free of the ground. The rest of the plants were allowed to ramble naturally over the ground. The gardener was interested in finding out which method produced the best tomatoes.

There is a widespread belief that tomatoes are liable to decay and cracking if they are allowed to rest on the soil. Many growers believe that insects and worms are more apt to attack the fruit when it is in the dirt, and some claim that staking will increase the yield per acre, the percentage of fancy tomatoes, and the size of the fruit and earliness of maturity.

Check Up on Beliefs.

Now that the plants are in full production it is possible to check up on some of these beliefs. The gardener has found that staking is not very satisfactory. The plants that were staked showed a high tendency to blossom and rot, and there was more cracking in the tomatoes that were off the ground.

A premilinary survey reveals that the staked plants produce more fruits than the plants allowed to grow on the ground. However, the higher percentage of damaged tomatoes in the staked plants would seem to offset the higher yield.

The plants that were tied up have larger and more perfectly developed fruits, but in many cases the unnatural position of the plants has deprived the fruit of its proper shade and sun scald has resulted.

In general the gardener would not recommend staking for Illinois tomato growers unless the grower has demonstrated that under his farm's particular condition the practice pays.

He also does not recommend pruning the plants, as it is dangerous to remove any part of the foliage because exposure of the fruits to the sun prevents them from developing a bright color.

Artichokes in Blossom.

In the space of one week the tall artichoke plants have turned from a somber green wall to a brilliant and vivid garden of flowers. The buds on the plants have burst into bloom, revealing a bright yellow flower resembling a brown-eyed Susan. These daisy-like flowers are scattered all thru the the green plants.

The bees seem delighted at the return of some flowers to the garden, and the artichoke plot hums with activity. The grasshoppers also have been attracted and have almost deserted the rest of the garden to whirr thru the tall plants. The artichokes seem to thrive under this attention, for many of them stretch up more than seven feet.

U. S. SETS CORN ACREAGE FOR '42 SLIGHTLY HIGHER

Suggests Larger Planting in Commercial Area.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19 (AP).—The department of agriculture announced today a 1942 corn planting allotment of 37,580,000 acres for the commercial corn area. This compares with a 1941 allotment of 37,300,000 acres.

A national corn planting goal of between 87,500,000 and 90,000,000 acres was announced. This was unchanged from the 1941 goal. However, only in the commercial area are individual allotments made.

Area Includes 15 States.

The commercial area consists of 623 major corn producing counties in 15 midwestern and east central states. They are Delaware, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, Ohio, Wisconsin, and South Dakota. The area was unchanged from that announced for 1941.

The allotment will be apportioned among individual farmers on the basis of a formula set up in the agricultural adjustment act of 1938. Farmers will be free to abide by or ignore their allotments, but only those who comply will be eligible for maximum government benefit payments and crop loans. The benefit rates will be announced later.

Allotments Little Changed.

The department said that while the overall allotment for the commercial area was increased slightly, allotments of individual farmers would be virtually the same as this year.

Officials had considered a larger increase in the commercial area allotment in view of a growing demand for meats and consequently for live stock feed. But a survey of all types of feeds available indicated, officials said, that supplies—described as the largest since 1920—would be ample with a 1942 crop in line with this year's. The corn carryover from this year's crop was forecast at 650 million bushels.

"DUTCH BOY."

National Lead stocks seem to be traded actively. As a prospective investor I would like a report on the company.—J. J. D.

Answer: National Lead company is the largest domestic manufacturer of materials with lead and tin bases. Its widely varied products include paints and pigments, sheet lead, pipe, solder and bearing, and printers' metals. The most important are painting materials, with white lead and oil colors marketed under the trade mark "Dutch Boy." The company and its subsidiaries have plants in several states. The company produces but a small amount of the metals used. It is affiliated with large metal producers thru stock ownership.

Sales and profits have been large for several years and have shown a steady gain in the last three years. Sales for the first six months this year rose to $61,690,090 from $41,455,769 in the same period a year ago, but a sharp increase in federal taxes left net income at $3,289,000, against $3,119,810. Sales and net income for years ended Dec. 31, follow:

	Net sales.	Net income.	*Per share.
1940	$90,696,461	$6,102,702	$1.34

Capitalization is 213,793 shares of 7 per cent cumulative preferred $100 par class A stock, 77,462 shares of 6 per cent class B cumulative preferred, $100 par, and 3,090,672 shares of $10 par common outstanding. There is no funded debt. Dividends on all stock issues have been paid regularly. Common dividends in 1939 and 1940 totaled 87½ cents each year, including extras, and 12½ cent quarterly payments have been maintained in 1941.

At the end of June total assets were $114,651,342.

KINGDOM OF NORWAY.

Have any Norwegian bonds been called lately?—S. C.

Answer: On Sept. 15 $1,079,000 of Kingdom of Norway external 6s of 1944 and $1,356,000 of 6s of 1943 were called for payment at 100 at the National City bank, New York.

SMILIN' JACK—COME UP 'AN' SEE ME SOME TIME

GRAINS TUMBLE ABOUT 3 CENTS; BARUCH BLAMED

Grain prices dropped to the lowest level in about two weeks yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade as a wave of liquidation came into the markets induced by hearings at Washington on the price control bill at which Bernard M. Baruch opposed the fixing of a price ceiling on grain above "parity" levels. The bill proposed a ceiling of 110 per cent of parity.

Wheat prices fell about 3 cents a bushel. Altho there was a sharp rally at one time, the finish was about the bottom. Losses on wheat were 1⅞ to 2⅝ cents with December at $1.20⅜. Corn was ⅞ to 1⅜ cents lower; oats dropped 1⅛ to 1⅜ cents, and rye was off 2⅜ to 3 cents.

Soy beans weakened with grains, but the market showed a much firmer undertone than of late and finished unchanged to 1⅜ cents lower.

The rapid upturn in prices which started about a month ago was due in large measure to a belief that agriculture would receive very favorable treatment under the price control bill. Baruch's statement, coupled with apparent support from Senator Scott Lucas [D., Ill.], was taken as indicating that the administration was opposed to the 110 per cent of parity program.

Clear weather in the northwest which has enabled farmers to resume threshing of spring wheat in some sections was reflected in increased arrivals at Minneapolis. The latter market closed 1⅝ to 2 cents lower.
